Study of Economic Needs To Be Made by Chambers

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Bureau Editor

EDMONTON (CP)—Plans for a detailed survey of the economic needs and prospects for Canada during the next three years, were unveiled Sunday by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

If the survey comes close to meeting its objectives, chamber officials say, it will result in the most complete short-term economic study ever taken in Canada.

It calls for the use of local chambers and boards of trade belonging to the national organization—holding its 7th annual meeting here—to check industries in their areas for growth forecasts and employment needs and possibilities.

From this data, the chamber says, committees will be able to assess educational and service requirements.

C. F. Headlam of Montreal, vice-chairman of the chamber's executive council and chairman of its public affairs committee, told the 80 delegates some of the most vital information will come in the field of education. It may show a need for more classrooms or new schools, "it may point out the need for new vocational facilities and may suggest some integrated educational processes involving industrial training."

He also said the survey will provide an indication of what resources are needed in community services.

"It will be a real barometer of the economic pulse of the country," he said.

PUTTING THE PRESSURE ON THE MATTER OF THE GAIP

Too much grip produces tightness in your arms and forearms and restricts their ability to function freely. Too little pressure causes the club to fly, usually at the top of your backswing (see illustration B).

As tendency to hook can be eliminated by adjusting pressure on the right-hand finger, increase the right-hand finger pressure.

Log grip pressure in three fingers will mostly help create a slice. The only remedy is to increase the club's 1 finger grip pressure. The way to control it is to allow the fingers to be as soft as a sponge when the club is in the backswing. The pressure (see photo) can be adjusted on all rounds. It should apply sufficient pressure for each swing.

Reject Major Jr. Loop

TORONTO (CP)—The executive committee of the Canadian Hockey Association's Senior Hockey Association Sunday ended league for Western Canada's proposed Canadian Major Junior Hockey League.

CASL secretary Gordon Jones said the executive confirmed a decision made in July by the CASL executive committee ruling the league unacceptable to the association.

The league, which was to have included teams from Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver along with members of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League, had said it planned to begin operation this fall despite the July ruling.

Jones said the executive directed the Saskatchewan Hockey Association to continue to operate the Saskatchewan Junior League this season with the same members.

Group Would Organize Basketball

An effort to reorganize men's basketball in this city is being made it was learned over the weekend.

Several persons have come together who are interested in the formation of a league and of basketball teams.

Chris Leach and Don Smith are two of the organizers and they have asked that anyone interested in playing or helping with the executive and the sport contact one of them as soon as possible. They discuss the idea of forming a basketball league.

Leach feels that two or possibly three teams from Belleville, others from Milton, Cobourg, Trenton Town and the Trenton Annual Forum, could form a solid league. On the back front he hopes to see the plot of the city players selected for an entry in the Ontario Basketball Association playoffs.

Don Smith was active in basketball circles here with the Bay of Quinte League and Belleville teams, for years. There was a Bay of Quinte League last year.

"I feel that a centre this size with the number of smaller towns in the district, should be able to come up with a lot of interest and a good league," Leach said yesterday. "I hope to get plenty of calls on the matter this week," he added.

Jim Clark Takes U.S. Grand Prix

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP)—Scotland's Jim Clark, using an engine borrowed from another competitor hours before the race, drove his BMW-powered Lotus to an easy victory Sunday in the eighth United States Grand Prix.

Setting a record pace over the 26-lap, 3.6-mile distance, the former two-time world driving champion from Dunfermline, Scotland, took over the lead with the race about one-third completed and was never seriously challenged.

The victory, Clark's second in a Grand Prix this year, was worth $20,000 of the $250,000 prize.

Richard Innes, who finished second, was never seriously challenged.

Johnnie Dornan, who finished third, was second in a Cooper-McNair and John Burrows of England.

In a similar race, Clark covered the distance in two hours, nine minutes, eight seconds, for an unofficial average speed of 114.8 miles an hour. This shattered the record of 111.0 mph set by Enzo and Nanni Brambilla in winning the 1984 Grand Prix.

Buckpasser Horse of The Year

NEW YORK (CP)—Buckpasser wrapped up the horse of the year honors Saturday as he won the $100,000 Woodbine New York's Aqueduct race track for his 10th straight victory.

After trailing in the early part of the 10-mile race, the big Ogden Phipps three-year-old went to the rail on the home stretch and, under Brazilian horseman's hand, finished three-quarters of a length in front of Mike Fuchs' Royal Gunner.

Running over a track felloose deep to 100, Buckpasser stopped the distance in 2:00.43 to earn $150,000 and boost his career bank account to $1,111,300 on 19 victories and two seconds to the racing season early in 1988.

Ann Landers

Ann Defends Her Work As Columnist

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I have you speak at a convention a few months ago. When you said you wrote it in 12 hours every day I gave my wife a medal. She said she believed it and neither did I.

Who do you think you are kidding? Half of your work is done by the people who write for you. Some of the stuff they write even gets for advice. Often they merely comment on what I have said previously and you say, "Thank for writing" or "Why don't you have a long walk on a short do."

So how do you figure the 12 hours a day? How about an explanation if you can't answer it.—MR. AND MRS. DOROTHY THOMAS.

DEAR MR. AND MRS. THOMAS: This question has been raised by others and I am going to try to answer it—again.

If it were possible to "get" me for anything, I assure you I would have been "get" years ago. I would not have been in this job for 12 years, nor would mine be the most widely syndicated column in the world.

There is more to producing a column than grabbing a few letters out of the mail bag. I read thousands of letters in order to make an appropriate selection. Some days I read as many as 300 letters before I find one that is suitable for use in the column.

Almost every letter must be trimmed because just write too long, especially when they are distressed. Often, language must be altered. The copy goes through my typewriter at least twice, usually three times. Then I sit at my editor's elbow as he studies away. He frequently asks me to rewrite his answer, or he'll tell a letter simply because I've said it with a similar previous recently.

So far all this seems to produce the column. But I keep eleven secretaries busy helping with personal replies to readers who write to me. I have an advice columnist, direct thousands of people to physicians, lawyers, psychiatrists and clergymen. We refer thousands more to service agencies.

This is all-attention—to help those who ask for it. Why thousands of people all down and up an advice columnist in the first place is an interesting question. But that fact they do so—to the tune of approximately 1,000 letters every day.

We have a complete file of service agencies for every city in which this column appears. We send readers to Legal Aid, the Family Service Association, homes for unwarmed, mental health clinics, Alcoholics Anonymous, the Y.M.C.A.—the list is a long one. We mail huge numbers of booklets. We respond to hundreds of requests for speaking engagements. (Usually, Sorry No.) We send copies of the book to readers who are unable to get it to a book store.

This work is immensely satisfying and it is enormously demanding. When I take a vacation or go on a lecture tour the column are written in advance. There is never a bit in the paper saying "Ann Landers is on vacation."

It is the quality I strive for and that's why I am a book-keeping job, and there are no honest short-cuts. As Red Smith put it, "Writing a daily column is easy. All you have to do is sit at a typewriter and write every drop of blood from your forehead." Thank you for writing.

Hits Florida's Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Inez battered southeast Florida's "Gold Coast" today with gales, driving rain and wild surf.

Defying weathermen to call the shots on her movements, the storm turned during the night from a northwesterly course toward the Bahamas and thrashed inland on a new track.

Power lines snapped in great numbers of spots, traffic lights danced crazily and fets, and gale waves ran at the wild and beaches as the hurricane roared on from Fort Lauderdale to the Florida Keys.

Several cruises and fishing boats dashed across lowly lit streets and highways. Streets were filled with cars, and a pack of the few people who had to be in the streets.

But with only a few of only a few, there was no danger the storm she had been when it blew through the Caribbean, killing possibly hundreds.

Never before had hurricane had a storm on their hands so hard to tame.

The 200,000 residents on Fort Lauderdale's coast had grown to bad luck during the night, but they were not alone through the Caribbean, killing possibly hundreds.

What Was Done At Nurses' Meet

Internal disorders over staff differences at Belleville General Hospital moved toward a calmer climate following a mass meeting of nurses last night.

The nurses moved to reduce the fever of the dispute by closing the doors to press and public and airing grievances behind closed doors before provincial executives of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario.

The meeting lasting 4½ hours and ending at midnight, selected a 10-member committee to present a petition to the hospital board of governors.

The request asks for a meeting between the nurses and the governors and calls for the return of three key personnel whose resignations Friday made the dispute public.

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson today described the massive anti-nuclear measures his government had imposed on the British economy in July as the last chance for Britain to break out of its present balance - of - payment crisis.

At the same time, he said, the new measures offered a "new chance for Britain to break out of its present balance - of - payment crisis."

Wilson's remarks came in a speech to the party's annual conference and conference on the economy, which he addressed in the evening.

Wilson said that the government's policy was to "bring the economy back to a state of balance - of - payment."

Savings Ahead Hellyer Claims

TORONTO (CP)—Defence Minister Hellyer predicts unification of Canada's armed forces will cut defence costs by $150,000,000 by 1970.

He made the prediction in an interview Monday following a speech to the Canadian Club of Toronto.

"Nobody can pin these things down to the last dollar," he said.

"But with annual defence expenditures of $2,000,000,000 a year, we can save $150,000,000 by 1970."

The minister also had answers for multifaceted critics who are suspected that Canada's armed forces will have no capacity beyond UN peacekeeping missions.

"Why would we spend money on modern armaments and fighter-bombers if the role was to be limited to peace-keeping?" he asked.

He made the plea Monday in an address before the Canadian Forces Headquarters now at Oshawa with 5,000 fewer staff and there has been a 15-per-cent reduction in field training staff, consolidating the present 300 trades into fewer than 200.

"The limited saving by training will be about 30 per cent of the current force."

DAVIS: Computer Coming

OTTAWA (CP)—Computers will probably have over part of the federal government's teaching, William Davis, Ontario education minister, said Monday.

"Computerized teaching may become a routine part of education in the future," he told the Rotary Club of Ottawa.

"One group of five and six-year-olds," he said, "will be taught 20 to 30 minutes a week on a computerized course."

Computers would not replace teachers, but would serve as tools. He compared their use to educational television.

HESS: Plea For Release

BREMEN, West Germany (REUTERS)—Glas Hess, wife of Rudolf Hess, Hitler's personal doctor, has indicated for the first time that she would like to be released from prison.

She made the plea Monday in a letter to the four powers who convicted him 20 years ago.

She is 72, serving a life sentence in West Berlin's Spandau Prison, the last of the Nazi leaders still there after conviction in the Nuremberg War Crimes Tribunal.

Friends of the family said Mr. Hess and her son, Wolf, had written the letter.

REPANIER: Die If Chief

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—Paul Repanier, newly-elected chief of the Quebec Progressive Conservative Association, said Monday night he does not think there is a chance now in the party's national leader "when there is no challenger."

"We (Quebec Conservatives) support the principle of association and authority over it," John Diefenbaker, Mr. Repanier said.

"I don't think we should have a leadership convention this year to change the leadership when there is no challenger."

HEES: Medical Crisis

BRAINFORD (CP)—Conservative MP George Hees predicted Monday night that the federal government will need six students to keep them at the year-end medical conference.

He told a party meeting that medical care insurance with a major failure unless Canada undertakes such programs to train more health personnel and expand medical research.

"There is nothing to be done about dentistry, nurses and technicians must be paid and trained on a 12-month-year basis..."

"The work increase the output of medical schools by one-third and attract young men and women who cannot now afford to attend university."

He said the Minister of Progressive Conservative Education, he called for sharply increased federal aid for new medical schools and research facilities. Capital costs during the next five years were estimated at $100,000,000.

Caribou "Best Damned Bird" Say U.S. Soldiers

SALGON (AP)—It may be hard to convince Canadians that a caribou is a bird but it is an assignment which the larger aircraft is not needed.

Best known in Canada as bush pilots, the Otter and Beaver use wheels far rather than poisons. This is not like country and the river paddles, although water covered, are only a few inches deep.

The Caribou fly in place where most other aircraft can't land and they are normal operations even when the climate is only 100 feet. It is the nature of the day and night, they are favorite targets for small arms fire but they can take anyone who flies 50 ft. The Canadian Caribou speaks in a conversational, even the civilian pilot, which means he can't ever ride in one after a wheel locked on a flight he took.

"They carry everything, from the military personnel, as army officer said. They are more useful than any other aircraft in the theatre."

They can fly to hard to get to and they can fly at any hour of the day and under any weather conditions. They can land on a real rough strip and need only 1,000 yards.

"We have Caribou built planes being used by U.S. forces in Viet Nam are the Otter, which does a job similar to that of the Caribou, and the Beaver, essentially a smaller and command liaison plane."

Low flying, slow and reliable, the Otter has less cargo capacity than the Caribou and is not as maneuverable.

KELWANA, B.C. (CP)—The International presence of the Canadian Federation of University Women thinks the Canadian female is living in a "concentration camp of comfort."

Michael J. Sells of St. Catharines, Ont., told a federation meeting during the weekend that the Canadian women of world trade a life where far too much emphasis is placed on beauty.

Escalate or Quit: Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Charles E. Dirksen predicted today that the U.S. will have to be expanded soon.

However, Dirksen made it clear in an interview he does not expect President Johnson to resort to the use of nuclear weapons—an action former president Eisenhower said he would not "automatically" preclude.

"Things can't go on the way they are in Viet Nam," the Illinois senator said. "You either have to stop the fighting or let it escalate further. We can't maintain and we can't retreat."

He said that the question of whether the U.S. would expand its role in Viet Nam, the Illinois senator said. "You either have to stop the fighting or let it escalate further. We can't maintain and we can't retreat."

U.S. Space Program Pays Off In Hospitals, Factories, Homes

By JIM FROSTMAN

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The United States' $20,000,000 annual investment in its space program is paying off, although it may take time, before research pays off.

Benefits already are accruing in medicine, industry, communications and the home.

There are some of the best-known dividends quickly being derived.

MEDICINE

The devices derived from space medicine, which measure temperature of the human body, have been improved.

Techniques on the brain and the eye. The devices, called "telemeters," are contributing to the development of treating eye surgery for cataracts.

Parsons' disease, brain and spinal cord tumors, detached retina and removing cataracts.

PRECISION — Control systems used on space vehicles for operating, lightweight plastic pumps have been beneficial in developing artificial hearts.

HOME

Planned — ranging techniques used in space suits have developed better brasserie supports. Space suit technology has also suggested better living methods when making clothing.

A heat-resistant motor built for spacecraft is being used for power in position television cameras.

INDUSTRY

Space suits created for astronauts are being tested for use in hospitals.

in firefighting and in industry where toxic gases and extreme temperatures could be hazardous to workers.

These techniques have been used to build the Saturn V moon rocket to land launch pad at Cape Kennedy required devices: techniques that may lead to higher, sophisticated equipment than ever before known.

Space research in generating electric power from nuclear energy eventually will have more efficient, less expensive commercial power plants.

TORONTO (CP) — Crystal Ann McKee, the surviving five-year-old, was taken off the "critical list" at the hospital for five children Monday and reported "doing very well."

She is taking her milk and food without any problems, a doctor said.

Find Body Of Doctor In Home

TORONTO (CP) — The slanted and battered body of Dr. Robert H. Hume, 40, one of the city's oldest women doctors, was found in her midtown home Monday.

The body was found by Edna Hamilton, a Toronto Star reporter who was to have interviewed the doctor, who had lived alone for more than 10 years.

A electric cord from a heater was wrapped around Dr. Hume's neck. Police said her face was so battered it was hardly recognizable.

Pathologist Hans Sepp said death was caused by a skull fracture, and that the electric cord looped around her neck could not have caused death.

Police said Dr. Hume died Monday night, and that no motive had been found in the slaying.

NOTHING STOLEN

Police said the body, found on the second floor of her home, was fully clothed. There was no indication the house had been ransacked.

Dr. Hume, a native of Ohio, graduated from the University of Toronto in 1906 and for many years was chief of obstetrics at Toronto's College Hospital.

The 40-year-old, a United Presbyterian with a few years ago.

House Defies Wilson on Wage-Freeze

House Returns To Work

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Back from taking the poles of the nation, a members of Parliament go ahead today with their job of legislating.

They face a heavy load on the Commons agenda today, including a vote on a wage-freeze bill.

Meeting at 2:30 p.m. EDT with an overcast relation of the Bank Act as the top priority.

A series of issues are in prospect for the parliamentarians, inside the Commons and Senate and in major meetings of the political parties.

On the parliamentary side are medical care legislation, which has produced long runnings of dissent from government ranks, but otherwise, income support for the aged, across forest utilization and civil service collective bargaining.

Liberal MPs held a three-hour caucus Tuesday to thrash out a reply over Finance Minister Sherry's announced intention to delay orders on a vote to July 1, 1967, is the starting date in the government's medical care bill now before Parliament.

But Mr. Sherry announced early, a before Parliament, that he would delay the government's plan to delay the operative date of medical care one year to July 1, 1968. The parliamentary session resumes today.

"As far as I'm concerned, the government expressed its policy and that is the policy," Mr. Sherry told reporters after the caucus meeting.

Reports filtering out of the meeting, said, held behind closed doors, were that Mr. Sherry was visibly uncomfortable by expressions of dissent about the medical care delay and the fact that the MPs were not advised of the cabinet's decision to delay July 1, 1967, at the starting date.

On the latter point, Ralph Cross (N.-York Member) commented briefly: "I think we were all aware in the Senate."

Prime Minister Pearson turned aside questions from waiting reporters by saying "It was a wonderful occasion."

Mr. Sherry acknowledged the discussion had been "very brief" on the subject of medical care.

He was asked whether the op-

Says Fighting Law Traditional Policy

By CARL HOLLAND

BRIGHTON, England (CP) — Frank Cousins, leader of Britain's biggest labour union, today denounced the government's clampdown on pay and prices as "totalitarian control" and said unions would fight it despite the cabinet's decision to enforce the freeze by law.

Cousins, former technology minister who quit the government earlier this year over plans for the pay standard, said:

"We shall now be in conflict with the law, because if the law is unfair, trades unions must oppose it."

Although the government claimed that the wage freeze will be only temporary, there are indications it will be the step toward destruction of the union's traditional right to bargain collectively.

One of the 1,000-member Transport and General Workers Union, Cousins led the attack on the government's economic policy at the annual Labour conference in its third day at the seaside hotel.

Car Firm Layoffs Spread

DETROIT (AP) — Layoffs spread today to more than 40,000 workers at Chrysler Corp. and General Motors Corp., as auto industry action forced onto the production of new cars.

More than 4,000 Chrysler workers were to be made idle by the end of the month because of a strike at a General Motors plant in Windsor, Ontario.

General Motors Tuesday sent 1,000 hourly trial employees to work at the Windsor plant. More than 4,000 Chrysler workers were to be made idle by the end of the month because of a strike at a General Motors plant in Windsor, Ontario.

Inez Is Poised to Strike Again

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Looe, still strong after 48 hours of ravens destruction, today left the Gulf of Mexico, a great threat but not escape without some damage returning to land.

After a day-long rampage from the heart of the Bahamas to the tip of the Florida Keys with winds up to 125 miles an hour, Looe was not in imminent threat to any point along the United States coastline.

Forecasters, baffled for days by the vicious storm's erratic behavior, were not sure at her latest course beyond tonight. By then, she should be gathering strength 200 miles west of the keys and ready to head for the Gulf Stream.

Her last landfall struck Delia Beach to Key West, where four persons died and more than a dozen were injured.

At least 100 deaths and 100,000 persons died of heart attacks while raging storm simmers, police said.

Three big ships were disabled by the monstrous waves, which were 100 feet high. The Gulf Stream. All eventually came out of their troubles safely with no loss of life.

But an 800-ton U.S. Coast Guard cutter was the second of one of the ships just off Key West when it was pushed around by the surf, just 25 yards from the white sand beach.

A Harvard cutter is in the wake of the white waves, but of bystanders plunged into the surf to help.

At 10:30 p.m., women were seen on the beach, some of them holding the line while the tide coast guardians struggled to assist. "It was the most dramatic thing I've ever seen," one reporter. "Men, women and children were in the surf. Every third child in this country was in the surf. Every third child in this country was in the surf. Every third child in this country was in the surf."

Two Belleville authors still work out of the offices of the Looe family in Northern Nigeria. No report of Mr. and Mrs. Don Chapman and their three daughters has been received from Mrs. Marie Segura and Mrs. Charlotte Leachy, despite multiple attempts by the Department of External Affairs to reach them.

No white people in Nigeria have been killed by the external affairs officials said. Mr. Griffith said nothing about the white people, about the white people, about the white people.

This is AMX:
we've made only one.

But it's made a basic difference in the cars we'll build for you in 1967.

You're looking at our "idea car," the AMX. It's our laboratory on wheels where we're testing ideas for the 70's. Our 1967 cars owe a lot to our AMX. They've caught the spirit of the 70's.

It's a spirit that's reflected not simply in appearance but in the basically different way we'll build our '67's. We've matched superb performance and contours with engineering values that make a car stronger, safer, more durable, more dependable. We've given you interiors of unequalled elegance inside a framework so rugged it will never squeak or rattle.

We've designed cars with a deep, lustrous finish protected by the toughest rust-resistant coatings made. We've developed new innovations—light, high-output engines, wide-track stance and a road-modelling new suspension. Differences developed for their lasting value, not simply for the sake of model change. And we've included a new expanded warranty—a warranty that says performance and quality is built in so the value stays in. We believe that the basic difference in American Motors cars will mean more to you in 1967 than in any year of the past.

Preview our 1967 cars on the following page. You'll see our full-size Ambassador... our exciting new Intimidator, the Rebel... and our powerful Rambler American compact.

And before you make the thoughtful decision about which 1967 car to buy, see your American Motors Rambler dealer.

Canaries More Dignified Than Budgies But Need Other Canaries as Tutors

By JEAN SHARP
TORONTO (CP)—Canaries are more dignified than budgies. Male budgies are more talkative than females and are apt to be better natured. A female budgie is apt to be aggressive.
"A canary must have his cage covered at night. A budgie doesn't care as much. Canaries are a lot interested. Some Adams say you can see a canary's face when you wake it with a light, you should buy a male if it's over conversation you want. Then you must teach the budgie. A canary learns from other canaries. A female budgie is apt to be better natured. A female budgie is apt to be aggressive.

"We can't tell canaries as young. They must be seven or eight months old because they don't come into song until then; and a male canary has to have a good singer as a tutor to encourage him."

On the other side of the basement are a series of small, family-size cages. Mother birds sit in a nest in wooden boxes in these cages, hatching eggs about the size of a marble.
Mrs. Adams says it is difficult to determine the sex or age of a canary by sight. A young female budgie has a brownish tint to the ridge above the beak — and is white around the neck. The male bird's cere is a purplish blue when he's young, then a bright, definite blue. A bit of black shows on his beak until it is about six weeks old.
"These are all indications, but it's not easy for a beginner to see," and Mrs. Adams says most people must rely on the advice that with the birds. When you get a canary home, she says, he will probably want a drink of water and a bath right away.
"Young budgies may have trouble eating out of a new type of feed dish. Start by putting some seed on the floor of his cage as well as in the dish.

Let him settle in his cage for about an hour. Then put your hand in the cage and coax him until he stops being frightened and perches on your finger.
Mrs. Adams says a canary should not be allowed out of his cage until he has been in your home at least a month. The ropes will be strange but birds then and he'll try to use things.

"The days if you put two budgies in a cage they'll make friends with each other and improve you. If you put two canaries in a cage, they won't like it."
If a cage bird gets too nervous unless the weather is cold. Then his chances are slight.
"Sometimes if you take the bird cage out and have it out the bird will fly back, but if a lot of people gather around to look at him, he'll get frightened."

Mrs. Adams says the life span of the birds varies quite a bit.
"If a budgie gets past six years, he'll live nine or 10 years. The budgie birds for customers who buy them are 10 years old, but that's a good sign."
"Canaries will live 15, 20 years."

Canada Leads in Giving Viet Nam Scholarships

By DOUGLAS AMARON

SAIGON (CP) — One of the reasons the United States is so far behind Canada in giving its few scholarships to members of the Canadian delegation in Viet Nam is a letter to Saigon's Tin Son Nhut airport in July ordering Vietnamese students leaving for Canada to enter university.

About 35 of Viet Nam's brightest youths and girls began their first terms at Canadian universities this fall—from the University of British Columbia in the west to Dalhousie in the east. They will return in 1969 to put their new-found knowledge to use in this country.

A Columbia press project, the scholarship program has provided or is providing almost 50 Vietnamese students advanced education facilities they cannot get here. The Canadian government gives scholarships to more Vietnamese students than it does to those of any other country.

Napier Tong Tuen, 14, said he and seven students who left here together in September to continue their education in Canada. Tuen is a biology student at University of Alberta in Edmonton and Tung at a mechanical engineering student at University of Sherbrooke.

Of the remaining five, a second was bound for Edmonton, one for University of Ottawa and three for Ecole Polytechnique in Montreal. All were under 30, the maximum age under the scholarship program.

Canadian at the airport to see them off were Victor Moore of Ottawa, head of the International Control Commission delegation, and Alan Sullivan of Ottawa and Maria Olanoff of Toronto, two young women officials of the commission. Sullivan has since left the country for a new position in Trinidad.

Also on hand were more than a score of the students' classmates, many posing for far-fetched pictures, exchanging promises to "write soon and tell us all about it." On the fringe, two or three mothers and sisters dabbed handkerchiefs to their eyes as the youths waved through the gate to the tarmac.

Tuen, Tung and the other boys were among a group of about 40 students in Canada agreed to accept this year. The number who went to Canada was reduced by last-minute dropouts—a problem first believed to be a result of examinations at home that made the trip impossible.

All went through a month-long screening program by committee of Vietnamese government and education officials, representatives of the students themselves and, this year, Mr. Sullivan. Since their school terms ended in the spring, they have been studying English and French to prepare them for their stay in Canada.

The students Canada is receiving are among the successful and the academic record in Canada of those already accepted has been distinguished.

The Canadian government looks after all their educational and living expenses in Canada. Although some students supplied from summer jobs. One spent last summer working on a Canadian character's farm on the prairie, another worked with the Red Cross in northern Quebec.

All students must sign a guarantee they will return to Viet Nam on completion of their university course because there are the people the Viet Nam government is looking to for leadership in the future.

Most students lack engineering and science courses in Canada since these are fields in which there are no facilities for higher education in this country. Medicine and law courses are available here so there are no former doctors or lawyers among students who go to Canada.

What do they think about it? You have only to look at the sparkle in their eyes, to see the obvious deep warmth of their affection for the Canadian who asked who came to save them off to get an answer.

"What is your address," asked Tung. "I want to write to you, to thank you."

Little was an explanation that you are but a reporter, not one of those who made his trip possible.

"No matter," said Tung. "You are a Canadian."

Don't Like The Climate? Then Try One Of These

By DAVID MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—In July, 1967, at Chertanqui, India, it rained 98 inches, an average of 12 inches a day.

The world's highest temperature of 206 degrees was recorded in Libya.

These and other fascinating details on the world distribution of extreme climates were given at a scientific congress here by Prof. Sven Orvig of McGill University.

The lowest temperature in the northern hemisphere was 90 degrees below zero in central Siberia. The lowest in the world was 125 below at Vostok in the Antarctic.

Prof. Orvig says the Villages of northern Europe thought of hell not as a burning, hot place but as a place of extreme cold.

A chinook in South Dakota caused a temperature rise of 48 degrees in two minutes. In Montana, the temperature once dropped 100 degrees in 30 hours.

At one place in India, it didn't rain for 14 years. But the southern tip of Chile has experienced 250 days of rain in a year.

HAWAII SOAKED

The greatest average annual rainfall—472 inches — is on a mountain in Hawaii. The greatest rainfall for one year—more than 1,000 inches—occurred at India's Chertanqui.

A place in Missouri once got 12 inches of rain in 40 minutes. The island of Linné in the Philippines once got 40 inches of rain in 30 hours. The island of Java in Indonesia gets 22 days of thunderstorms in a year.

The world's highest surface wind speed—101 miles an hour—was recorded at Mount Washington.

Areas with clear skies and little water vapor in the atmosphere have the most sunshine. These include Egypt, Arizona and the dry areas of South Africa, South America and Australia.

Arizona receives 36 per cent of possible sunshine. The British Isles get only 30 per cent and northern Scotland only 25 per cent. Conditions are even worse in Iceland and the Alps.

Because of industrial air pollution, a large city receives 15 per cent less sunshine than the surrounding countryside.

Ontario Bids for Major Wheat Sale

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario is requesting the sale of 2,000,000 bushels of winter wheat, says an official of the Ontario Wheat Producers Marketing Board.

A. A. Standing, secretary-treasurer, said Tuesday morning he has been received from Russia, Syria and Pakistan, each of which wants to buy about 2,000,000 bushels.

Mr. Standing was commenting in an interview at the board's annual meeting in Toronto. The board has wheat surplus to domestic needs and aid in export markets. Winter wheat is soft, used for cake and pastries.

Mr. Standing told the meeting the board faces a heavy loss because of increasing freight rates, changes in local market supplies, changes in foreign legislation and the increasing cost of harvesting.

Ontario wheat producers are not maintaining export markets, he said.

"Our volume fluctuates so drastically that we are not regular sellers in volume and we are not prepared to accept world prices in general."

BOARD OFFERINGS

He said the board is "most optimistic that negotiations with Russian buyers will conclude in sales of soft wheat four large enough to take most of this year's harvest's stocks."

The board passed a resolution favoring redistribution of the 2,000,000 bushels of feed-grade surplus.

The group's annual meeting said it wants the funds redistributed in the form of assistance. Also wanted is an end to the present large sale of $400 a ton on feed-grade assistance.

The resolution said feed-grade assistance "ordinarily is of no benefit to the majority of livestock and poultry farmers."

A. B. Coulter of Campbellville told the meeting that Ontario's wheat, the federal minister of rural development, has proposed legislation to meet the needs of Eastern Canada livestock farmers.

Mr. Coulter said he is satisfied any new program will include Ontario wheat. "The wheat producers are seeking 'some equality of treatment' in any assistance, he said.

Resolutions approved in short order.

—and motion urging greater co-operation between railroads and dealers in wheat to improve and secure but cars required and to have hot cars available during the harvest period.

—and Great Country motion supporting the board for successful development of a high-protein feed wheat.

—and Kent County motion that the board investigate the spread in prices and costs between producers of wheat and consumers of wheat.

Peter Macdonald, chairman of the board, said the measure, which the farmer, has benefited from the technological revolution in Canadian agriculture.

However, he warned that consumers will have to pay more for their food unless there are dramatic cost reductions at the retail end of the business.

His sold farmers cannot be expected to continue the effort necessary to increase farm efficiency unless they benefit more from the resulting increases in production.

Oswego Kiwanis Gives Plaque To City for Aid During Storm

FRIENDSHIP PLAQUE from Oswego citizens to Belleville is presented by Kiwanis president Fred Bellstedt (right) by Rev. Reese Williams, chaplain of Oswego Kiwanis.

Belleville has discovered a formula that turns snow to no snow.

Or — more specifically — the snow that causes human relationships.

The basic formula is simple: take an adverse situation placing a community's life in jeopardy, then offer a helping hand from an unexpected source.

In this case the hand was a massive snow blizzard in January, 1968. The community was Oswego, N.Y., whose city was the stage for the visit.

The snow blizzard arrived from an unexpected source — the city of Belleville.

Through Mayor Jack Ellis the city of Oswego city donated a task force of crews and equipment to the aid of Oswego citizens.

The spontaneous hand across the border between the two cities was a delegation from the Oswego Kiwanis. Their visit was marked with the presentation of a plaque to Belleville's citizens at the weekly luncheon of local Kiwanis.

But the basic significance of the gesture was put in words by Rev. Reese W. Williams, chaplain of Oswego Kiwanis, when he presented the plaque.

"This was a real adventure in friendship and a way of expressing friendship," he said. "It's one way of rebuilding life on the basis of friendship."

"It's one way of rebuilding life on the basis of friendship," he said. "It's one way of rebuilding life on the basis of friendship."

Topless Lunches a Gone Gone

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council decided Tuesday night that bars — boozed waitresses at all downtown restaurants — may go.

If they don't, said operator Les Stark will be called upon to appear at city hall — without his waitresses — to show cause why his licence should be renewed.

The toppers lunch started two weeks ago, and has been playing to full houses ever since.

Almerman said they imposed the boom because they consider waitresses in toppers lunches in poor taste and offensive to the community.

Stark said he expects a visit today from the city's licence aldermen. He added he expects to cease serving toppers' lunches, but plans to hire a lawyer to present some alternatives to the council.

"I'm going to ask council to let me open up as a private club, or allow the girls to wear 'hostess' be," he said.

The Los Angeles Dodgers (now Brooklyn) and the Baltimore Orioles, two teams who are competing for the pennant, met in a four-game series today in baseball's greatest state.

It will be a classic duel between the power at the plate and the whizbang on the mound.

It will be a battle between experience and youth, between the old and the new, between the veterans and the rookies, and the team of the future.

This is in the advantage of the Dodgers who have the Orioles can be overcome by the stars in which they are dominant.

The Orioles can't match the array any more than the Dodgers can equal the attack power of the Black at the plate.

Neither club can match the skill of the famous Yankee team before the Great Depression. The Bronx Bombers still have power with mound wizardry. Famous their great hitters were five of six starters if they could push the ball out of the grounds at any moment.

Fitching is expected to be the ace-in-the-hole for the Dodgers who have a 2.65 earned run average and 100 complete games compared to the Orioles 3.55 earned run average and only 28 complete games for the season.

The top winner for Baltimore was Jim Palmer 15.15 who is slated to crown mound captain with Sandy Kousser. The second game was won by the Orioles who started today's opener will get two more starts if the series goes to seven games. Kousser will pitch only two.

The Orioles are going to depend on a lot of their tremendous power at the plate. They have the big bouncer of the year Frank Robinson the former Cleveland Red, who was the triple batting crown with a .216 average, 49 homers and 132 runs batted in. He is the home run king of the American League. Doug Poff, third baseman Brooks Robinson and left fielder Curt Blecher and you have a package of power that can explode with dramatic force.

In fact, the Orioles go to the big run bouncer. With runners on base and any one of the four bouncers can hit the ball and the Orioles hold their breath and wait for the big explosion.

The Dodgers offer this is some extent by their speed and ability to go far for extra base, line, hit-and-run, steal and double steal. Manager Walt Aiken has the outfield with one run at a time unless the margin is too big.

And speaking of managers, the Dodgers have quite an edge to that respect as far as head work goes. This is old hat to the Dodgers who have five former series titles in their credit. It is Baltimore manager Hank Bauer's freshman year in this capacity and he must show how he reacts to series pressures and fouls.

Bauer, a former Yankee great, has been in many world series as a player but never a coach. I don't look for him to blink under fire. He never did as a player, but there is that added responsibility, and in all probability great moments of decision.

The pendulum of fortunes has swung to the Dodgers side, the odds going to 7 to 5 after they clinched the National League lead last night.

The series opened today in Los Angeles and the second will be played there tomorrow. The results of the series will have an effect on the odds. If the Dodgers grab the opening pair, there will be a sharp increase in the odds.

Friday is travel day and the next three games will be played in Baltimore. And if you're still not sure who the Dodgers will, pause for stadium identification and remember the L.A. speed is a naturally bad road club. Their last city which made them go in the wire to grab the game was almost disastrous.

So there is it. Power versus Pitch.

BY MIKE MATTHEY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers and young Dave McNally of Baltimore Orioles were on the mound and catcher Andy Etchebarren was on the lookout for today's game as the World Series opened today.

MAURY WILLS

A sellout crowd of 55,000 began filling into Dodger Stadium early for the 4 p.m. EDT start of the series that is expected to be a classic match of Dodger pitching and speed against Oriole power.

Both Etchebarren, the Oriole rookie catcher, and Walt Aiken, the Dodger shortstop, were aware that the battle could revolve around Baltimore's ability to control the Dodgers on the base — something Maury Wills couldn't do at Dodger Stadium last year.

Etchebarren said the Oriole had paid particular attention to the fact of the game for the last weeks of the season.

"We've been working on the last two weeks," Wills said. "We've worked on a few more pitch plays."

Meanwhile, Wills pointed out that the Dodgers would test Etchebarren early because he is a rookie.

Etchebarren said he would try to control the Dodgers' speed by using his fastball and his slider.

The Dodgers' speed is one of the major reasons manager Hank Bauer of the Orioles started McNally for the opening game.

A matchup, McNally would be more effective in holding the Dodgers on base. Aiken would have preferred to open with his 27-game win.

Player between them in background is Don Drysdale, the Dodgers' pitching nominee for the opener.

Don Drysdale, who had to be pulled from the game because of a sore arm, was the first pitcher to be named for the series.

He is No. 10 for Bauer, who was with New York Yankees when they dominated the American League.

Aiken tapped 35-year-old Jim Gilliam for the third base job, said down by Dick Schofield in the last weeks of the season. Schofield is not eligible for the series.

Do or Don't Says McNally

Unsung Lefty Faces Big Test

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Les Angeles Dodgers, who lost in the home finale for Dave McNally six years ago, face the young Baltimore Orioles' left-hander today in the opening game of the 1968 World Series.

Although he has been with the Orioles four years and helped them to the American League pennant this season with a 15-6 record, McNally is a virtual unknown when compared with Los Angeles starter Don Drysdale.

Drysdale has built a reputation with his pitching prowess, his electric arm and a dual handed out-stand with teammate Sandy Kousser. McNally is well aware of the difference, but realizes that publicity never helped a batter.

"I'm probably the most unsuccessful pitcher ever to start a World Series opener," McNally said on the eve of his big challenge. "But that doesn't matter. When you go out on the field, you either do or don't."

McNally has underlined his own case somewhat. Although he completed only five games, McNally held the Orioles close in a quiet and Baltimore was 2-1 in games he started.

McNally has come along steadily since turning down an $85,000 bonus offer from the Dodgers in 1966 and signing with Baltimore for $100,000.

The 1966-67 season saw Jim Rasmussen and Jim Wilson add him to the Baltimore youth movement, and a larger Detroit bid him the $100,000 mean little difference after three years.

McNally shared almost half of his bonus money with his mother, Mrs. Beth McNally of Billings, Mont., and began an investment program for himself. His father was killed in an airplane crash during the Second World War, leaving three children besides Dave.

Don Gorman, farm director of the Orioles, described McNally as "even-tempered, not easily ruffled and a quiet competitor in a perfect setup for a pitcher."

Referring to his brief career, McNally said he realizes now that he should have spent more than two years in the minors. But he feels he has shown "a natural pitching control and control and pitching sense."

After winning seven games in 1961, he had two more victories in his last two seasons.

Bobcats Whittle Picton Lead

By GARY ALEXANDER
Staff Spectator

Carl Stacey pitched a three-hitter but lost his own ball game here last night as the Bobcats slipped Picton Kinsmen 4-2 in the final game of the season.

The 'Cats out Picton's lead in games to 3-2 with the win and will be holding it in it when the series shifts back to Picton tomorrow (Thursday) night. Game time is 8:00 o'clock.

The Kinsmen led 1-0 and trailed 3-1 as the first inning was scored, going in the top of the fourth to 3-0.

Stacey threw Len Mowbray's home run for a two-run error on the bottom of the fourth. He hit McKibbin with a pitch and the pair advanced to a passed ball. Mowbray was out at home on Whyte's error while Carl McKibbin scored with the winner as Gary Duggan grounded out. Laidlaw landed a single to plate Whyte for the final 4-2 score.

Back in the first, Lockwood's second single following an error and a walk allowed the Kinsmen one run.

Bobcats pulled ahead when McKibbin hit safely to cruise and Len Laidlaw scored. Lockwood scored for a two-run triple. A walk and error had put Lockwood and Mowbray on base. Picton tied it again after two were in the fourth. Forster stilled and rode home on a Gurney's pop double. Whyte made a long run for the ball but could not hold it.

Joe Harrows hurried steady strike ball to chalk up the victory. He struck out ball a dozen, five of them in the final three frames, while winning a pair.

Stacey also struck out six and walked one with his three batters but his error and hit batsmen proved costly.

John McKibbin's triple, Bill Laidlaw's single and another in the eighth by Paul Mowbray counted for the Bobcat victory.

Jim Gurney had a double and single, Leo St. Denis, Keith Stacey, Mowbray and Dave

START OF DOWNSWING IS CRUCIAL

To start your downswing properly, you should feel that you are pulling your left hand more or less straight down towards the ground (see illustration).

Actually the path your hands take on the downswing (see dotted line) should be within the arc they took on the backswing (solid line).

Hitting down with the left hand at this point in your swing will help you shift your weight back to the left side and will also help insure that your wrists do not release from their hinged position prematurely. Larger, single-page shots will result.

Truscott Says He Saw Girl Ride Alone in Grey Chevrolet

OTTAWA (CP)—Steven Truscott was questioned today by the 10th news Corps of Canada that 12-year-old Lynne Harper had seen a grey 1966 Chevrolet with a yellow license plate after he left her the night she was sexually assaulted and slain near Chatham, Ont., seven years ago.

"I turned around and there was a car pulled in at the road and she got in," he said. "It was a grey 1966 Chevrolet. It had a lot of chrome on it and she when it pulled out there was a yellow-colored wheel appeared to be a license plate."

Truscott, 21, was convicted in 1960 of murder at the age of 14. The death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and he was released in 1969 after serving the name on instructions from the federal cabinet.

Truscott, heavily dressed in brown suit, white shirt and tie, appeared nervous and in low-spirited mood after meeting Lynne on the school playground the evening she disappeared.

"She asked me if she could have a ride in the car," he said. Several minutes later he drove her to the county road and gave her a ride in his 1966 Chevrolet.

"She said to reply to his lawyer, G. Arthur Martin of Toronto: 'I don't know if she was at the highway because that is where she asked me to give her a ride in the car.'"

At Mr. Martin's request, he then traced the route from the school playground down the highway to where it joins Highway 9 near the Clinton, Ont., area where he was a serving member of the RCMP.

Truscott's voice was pitched low now that after several years of silence he was able to speak to her. He said he was not a witness to the crime but he was not a witness to the crime.

"I would have to speak to her directly."

Old Homes Covered Too Plan Billion Dollar Boost In Federal Loans for Houses

OTTAWA (CP)—A vast expansion of federal loans for houses was proposed today by the government in amendments to the National Housing Act. Parliament today agreed to increase by $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 the amount of all loans that are authorized by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

For the first time, federal mortgages will be offered to persons who wish to purchase or build a house.

An outline of the amendments was published in Canada's official gazette by Minister of Finance John G. Diefenbaker who is responsible for housing policy.

Transition
Of AlaskansSEATTLE, Wash. (AP)— Missie Trader wants to be a beautician.So do lots of other girls, but Missie has a special problem.
These aren't any beauty schools in Alaska; so she's going to be in Chicago, and the center of the Seattle center of the Seattle center of the SeattleMissie, 16, who grew up in an Alaskan village on the Kuskokwim river in western Alaska, is one of about 300
Alaskans, Aleuts and Indians from Alaska who have passed through the center since it was founded three years ago.Like the others, she is getting a helping hand from the government under a program designed to provide Alaska advance and Indians with jobs and training to keep them out of welfare rolls.

NEVER KIDNEY BUS

The Seattle center, housed in seven units of a hotel, was established to ease the transition from village to city life for the Alaskans. Many of them have never ridden a bus, used a telephone, shopped in a supermarket or made a lodge. On arrival here, they are given an introduction to the city, a staple person and a little more to the families — and left to their own educating.The bureau pays rent, and Mrs. Elmer O'Brien, a transplanted Texan who heads the center, periodically gives these transplants which require them to take buses to destinated locations, shop for general items and report back to Missie. They also visit libraries, libraries and other institutions.After they finish here, the Alaskans go on to vocational schools or training jobs in other parts of the United States.
Missie, who has been a transplanted Texan, is the only woman to the outside world than many of the villagers.
She attended high school near Alaska, for four years. After returning to Kuskokwim, she went to work for the teachers in a native school at Nainok.What will she do when she completes her training?
"I guess I'll go back home and go to work — on the boat," Missie says. "I'll be a beautician."Missie, the largest community in the Kuskokwim tribe, had a population of about 1,200 in the last census.
Ignatius, an Eskimo from Nainok, signed up for the training program in which he hopes will give him a trade as a welder."I just got tired of living around," said Ignatius.

Successful Living

Showing Responsibility
Increases PrivilegesDEAR DONALD — I read a letter from the girl who was fed up with her parents' actions. Well, I am a 13-year-old girl and when I go anywhere (dance, date, shopping, swimming, visiting, etc.), my dad always comes to pick me up and take to quite embarrassing. He has never given me a chance to prove him on my own so he's not even giving me a chance to be a doer.I live in town so it's not that I would be walking on deserted streets or anything anyway. I feel that since none of my friends go without a car I don't see why I should have one.P.S. I know I have no right to ask you but could CLARA could please advise parents to let us live on our own just a little. I can't even touch the doorknob without my dad.DEAR ANOTHER — I sympathize — but it would take the wisdom of Solomon for a parent to know when to check up on them to let you the glad girl but will devote himself to your safety; and begin showing criminals of growing up his ways he can't help but notice; such as in carrying more of the load around the house.DEAR DONALD — I agree with you most of the time. However, the advice you gave about believe won't work. I tried it and then moved away. This worked as they couldn't get at us.
When we returned five years ago, we returned to the old stamping ground (60 years later) and the new started all over again. My husband had two heart attacks and died. They had him change his will and wanted him to die.If my name hadn't been on both the house and outside deeds, they could have put me on the road. Change your advice and say "Here and stay away." EYES OPEN.DEAR EYES — Sorry, I'd hate to think this was par for the course. These are laws which have become obscure than blood relatives, and wouldn't think of taking credit advantage.But more than one grandfather urges others to make business like, legal arrangements about possessions; and simply never have ever properly while you are still alive and able to manage.DEAR DONALD — I would like to read Lila and Rose's poem; your pamphlet on stress. We have a little niece who is reporting kindergarten. She tells him, the everyone's who hang, draw, count, add, subtract, yet she can't make her self like to her teachers. She says she's not supposed to talk to strangers.She cries on the way to school — not every day. Personally, I feel that there isn't much love passed around in the home.
Both parents work.I would like to suggest that she stay with us and attend a school near here.

Thank you for listening to other people's troubles — ANITA.

DEAR ANITA — I suppose she has been filled with fear about strangers by parents who try in this way to save her from harm — rather than being where she is to protect her. Baby sisters just can't fill the bill.Her security is at a low level; and the problem, as usual, is with the parents. They need to be helped, preferentially, to see what they are doing by holding back love, attention and their physical presence during these early years.CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED AUNT — Your showing little snowflakes is discouraged with the showing of school; so let it be easier to give up and watch her return?
One teacher of show leaders declares that if they could increase to go to bed at night with at least one person under the blanket for the night.What life needs is patient, individualized stimulation. If he accomplishes anything; anything at all, he should know it and be rewarded. Even the most minuscule feat leads to pleasure and increased understanding. Try what praise can do.(Has Doris helped you with a problem? Write and tell her all)Bata FIGHTS RISING PRICES

Computer's Kiss Can Be Meaningless

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Frank and I have been married for 13 years. We have a fine family and a comfortable home in the suburbs. My "problem" may seem so petty that it might even irritate you, but I'm going to bother it anyway.

Frank would rather take the train to town than fight the traffic. I like the idea of it but hate the convenience of having a car all day or even a few.

Every morning when I drive Frank to the train all around us husbands are blaming their wives problems as they get out of cars. It makes me very envious.

Last week I came right out and asked Frank to take me goodbye. He said, "Taking it up to public is the poor taste and I refuse to do it." I told him a husbandly peek on the cheek was not making it up. He said in his opinion, it was.

How do you feel about it? — KIDDER FAREWELL.

DEAR FAREWELL: It doesn't matter how I feel. Obviously Frank doesn't want to kiss you goodbye at the station and that should settle it.

Is he honest and self-sufficient you want Frank to kiss you goodbye at the station. It really for others rather than for yourself, isn't it? I can tell you these kisses at the station don't prove a thing. If you think that every man who kisses his wife at the station is a devoted and loving husband, I've got news for you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter, Roberta, moved to another city to work and live with relatives. There she met the young man of her choice. They were married in a civil ceremony eight months ago and kept it a secret. He is of the Roman Catholic faith. We say Protestants.

Two months ago they were married by a priest because his wife wanted it that way. Roberta did not correct.

Now for my problem: Roberta wants to be married by a Protestant minister in our church and invite all her school friends and our relatives. We would like to plan for this wedding two weeks ago. This morning she told me she is at least two months pregnant.

Should we tell people they were married several months ago, which nobody would believe and that this wedding is just to please Roberta or should we say nothing and she says, "DONT KNOW."

DEAR DONT KNOW: Roberta has been married some months already. Since she is at least two months pregnant I don't think she ought to have any more weddings. Simply press the word that a marriage took place eight months ago and if you discover a method to keep people from talking, please pass it on.

Confidential to MUCH TO OFFER BUT NO TAKERS! Since you are looking for the word "doing" in your "Personals Editor" I'd like to ask a question. Are you by chance "doing the same thing as Frederic March?"

Madoc Fair Is Fun...But Serious Too

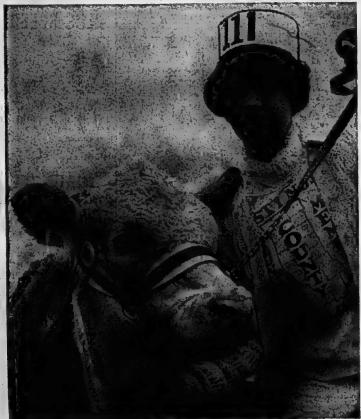

MITTED MUSICIANS — Chilly weather hampered the music makers. Here old time fiddler Tom Rydick of Havelock and pianist Mrs. F. Bailey of Madoc, wear gloves as they make music for the step dancers.

HEAVY DRAUGHT CLASS — Clydesdales, Percherons and Belgians in both two and four horse hitches were out in force at Madoc Fair. Pair seen here were competing in the "best matched pair" class.

FAIR OFFICIALS—Madoc Fair President Kenneth Holland, and Richard Stewart of Peterborough, President, Ontario Fair Association, chat before official opening of fair.

TOP JUNIOR HEREFORD — Karen Reavie of Filston shows the style and flair which won her the Junior Hereford heifer calf championship.

Cold Weather, Rain Cut Into Attendance

The curtain was rung down on the 1966 Hastings county fall season yesterday with the annual Madoc Fall Fair.

But the weatherman failed to co-operate and chilly winds, together with scattered showers in the county area, kept attendance to well below the customary numbers.

But despite the weather the old saying "The show must go on" prevailed and fair customers were treated to the usual fine fair program.

In addition there was the usual Madoc Fair livestock show, a fine showing of horses ranging all the way from saddle class to the heavy draught event. Riding games were staged by the Quebec Western Horse Association.

Then to cap off the horse show was the horse class specialty — the horse driving contest and harness racing. In the agricultural building were fine fruit and vegetable displays, the customary sections for home craft. Mouth watering displays of home cooked puff, pastry and other samples of culinary art attracted its customary attendance.

There was the midway for the kiddies. The stage performance saw contestants of all ages compete for cash prizes in events ranging from children's sport dancing, to the women's ball driving and for the oldest person on the ground events. It was a big day for junior farmers with county 4-H club members competing in force. Close to 100 calves were entered in the various junior events, while in addition there were displays by goats and grain show members.

The junior event started in the morning with the Madoc Calf Club achievement day and didn't finish until mid-afternoon with the Interscholastic calf events.

Fair President Kenneth Holland welcomed the fair goers with the fair was officially opened by Richard Stewart of Peterborough, president of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies.

Also speaking briefly at the fair opening were Mrs. J. H. Scruton, president of the women's division of the Central Fair Association, Carl Walsh of Hastings, Ontario fair district representative, and Clarke T. Bolina, MIA for Hastings East.

APPLE DISPLAY — Susan O'Hordon of Madoc and May Pollock, Crookston, admire attractive apple display in the agricultural building at Madoc Fair. The fair building featured fruits and vegetable exhibits and displays, together with examples of home baked cakes and pies, school exhibits and home handicrafts.

Dairy Farmers Get 25-cent Milk Subsidy

OTTAWA (CP) — Under Ontario and Quebec programs, the federal government has agreed to raise the farmer's return for manufacturing milk another 25 cents a hundredweight next year.

The increase goes into effect next April 1st-start of a new dairy year. But Ontario farmers will get the extra money now in a subsidy from their provincial government.

The subsidy will be replaced by the federal increase next year. Meanwhile, it will guarantee the Ontario farmer an average price of $4.20 a hundredweight for his milk at the factory, an increase from the national base price of $4.00.

Announcing the plan Wednesday, Agriculture Minister G. M. G. Green said Quebec dairy farmers will benefit next year by four cents a hundredweight.

Mr. Green said he and the agriculture ministers of Ontario and Quebec reached agreement on the federal-provincial arrangement at a Montreal meeting Tuesday.

The fledgling Canadian Dairy Commission will take over authority for milk support in the new dairy year. Mr. Green said it will be up to it to introduce the increase.

However, Mr. Green said the 25-cent increase will be a milestone. He indicated it will be up to the dairy commission to decide the final amount of the increase. He said members of the commission will be appointed soon.

The arrangement was viewed in some quarters as a new-off between the Ontario and Quebec governments on one hand and the federal government on the other.

Both Ontario and Quebec, under pressure from protesting farmers who mounted earlier demonstrations on highways, sought $4.50 a hundredweight for milk delivered to processors to produce cheese, butter and other products.

The new arrangement will provide $4.25. The current $4.00 base complexed $1.23 which the government hopes processors will pay producers plus a direct federal payment of 25 cents.

The federal government hopes to get enough money into the pockets of processors to pay the $4.25 through support programs for butter and cheese and other manufactured products from processors.

Mr. Malouf said, in essence, the chief of defense staff now was the advisor to the government in all defense matters. He meant Canada had a self-managed chief or captain-general of the forces, "a post which became obsolete in Queen Anne's reign."

"Mr. Malouf argues that we do have a defense council. But members of that council or staff do not vote with a vote equal to that of the chief of the defense staff, nor do they have the right of direct access to the prime minister."

"History has demonstrated times without number the fallacy of this arrangement."

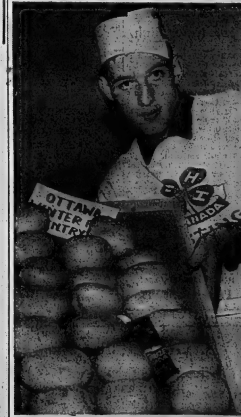

TORONTO (CP)—A new federal-provincial milk subsidy agreement announced by Agriculture Minister Green is "exactly what we have been asking for," John Deimler, president of the Ontario Farmers' Union, said Wednesday.

An amount similar to the $4.25 hundredweight for manufactured milk established in the agreement was included in a brief presented to the provincial government last January and was among the things we wanted "when the OPU held a demonstration at the legislative building April 5."

Mr. Deimler said he is "alarmed" that the federal government may have forgotten what Mr. Green on Sept. 9 promised another 5-cent increase when the Ontario and Quebec governments equalize their provincial subsidies.

"We will be prepared to remind him of his promise," he said.

"As we understand it, the subsidy has now been equalized to the OPU's goal for milk producers and the union will probably get a new campaign in December."

Brigadier Speaks Up

Unification Faulty at Top, Costly in Morale in Ranks

TORONTO (CP)—Two major errors in the government's program for unification of the armed services should be rectified before permanent harm is done to the forces, R. R. Mahon of Winnipeg, newspaper executive and former army brigadier, said today.

He said in a speech to the Empire Club that the command structure created by Defence Minister Huxley is faulty at the top and that unification at lower levels will cost more in morale than it saves in dollars.

Mr. Mahon, managing director of the 77 Publications group and publisher of Winnipeg Free Press, was a combat officer in the Second World War and later army public relations chief in Norway. He was one of a few Canadian officers who served in all major theatres of that war.

Text of his speech was issued in the press before he arrived. He said the most fundamental error leading to the current incoherence-confusion problem is in the new command structure. It had resulted from the most senior officers and led to their unnecessary retirement through "retirement."

"Here all the brains of military history are being ignored."

Mr. Mahon said, in essence, the chief of defense staff now was the advisor to the government in all defense matters. He meant Canada had a self-managed chief or captain-general of the forces, "a post which became obsolete in Queen Anne's reign."

"Mr. Malouf argues that we do have a defense council. But members of that council or staff do not vote with a vote equal to that of the chief of the defense staff, nor do they have the right of direct access to the prime minister."

SPORTS PLACE

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

As our Twick's Island spins eye, Washburn would say, "the world series is up and with it the champagne, the champagne and the champagne."

Practically every world series, at least the most of them, has produced two outstanding players, one working a hole the other the hero.

Strange to say, the hero-players are not guilty of ordinary play, as baseball shows them they are just demonstrating an action that has been drilled home to many baseball players; pain from the shoulder and head in a world series.

We can go positively say why the best of them "travels up" in the series. After a full season of tough games, it would seem two teams in their entirety should be able to handle a strenuous series with pain and a victory.

Yet the October Twick's often present some of the most heroically played baseball ever played. Great stars have been black-and-white and count baseball history you wouldn't see in a book league.

Kate Ball once handled a world series in the Cards with as little as ever was attempted. The first Joe Johnson "Punch" in 1904 closed black-eyed and able to throw the ball with a crippled appendage ran the bases to steal the prize under the stars.

The immortal Lou Gehrig from 1930 has been in 1936 and no amount of pleading could get him to score what amounted to a clutch run.

Conse Baugh became so mastering he leaped up and knocked himself unconscious on his own dugout roof. Black Wills forgot his sunglasses and lost a series game. Joe Garmon represented the last-chance chance for the Yankees to win the 1932 series. Joe found on a last and earlier Walter Cooper picked him off like a sitting duck.

Uglier have called a halt because of "darkness" in broad daylight. The Phila Blue Miller recalls a top star left the dugout to play the game of his life—minus his pants.

The classic game has been Fred Sanderson with his $17,000 muffed of a throw; Mickey Owen hit a game-winning pitch get away from the pitcher. The game was made right series over: Mickey Cushman hit the Yankee runner still the base; and ended the season. Washburn who appeared several times and hit Popper Murrett split him with the winning pitcher.

In 1932 Dave Yarbrough added terrified while Jack's baseballer's hand-pumped pay off following them. The winning run was tripping across the plate when Billy Martin suddenly lunged and with a shouting catch, saved the world title.

In 1933 Billy Lane the Dodge triathlete was stopped by a cop for speeding to the ball park. Lane told the law who he was and he took a ban. "Thanks for telling me, I'm a Yankee fan"—and here's a home run.

Fifteen minutes later Johnny Mays gave a 15-minute interview and finally asked the guy what newspaper he represented. "Hill" said the question. "I'm a brother from Cincinnati. I only wanted to know when you will return."

In 1934 when Mays caught a fly ball near the fence, he knew there was one's been spinning and whirling the ball in the state there being as much as that. The trouble was Mays' catch had already made it three out.

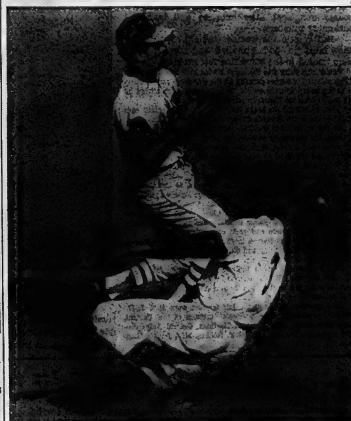

Uglier George Milledorn after 73 innings of a Giant-Yankee series game, suddenly called the game on account of darkness. The last line of the poem, 17 was still dark. Asked why he called the game the night was dark there was temporary loss over the field. "There were war and thunder," said he and there was the only one looking through it."

On the contrary in 1916 in a 16-inning marathon between the Red Sox and Brooklyn, moonlighting anyone let it continue into deep twilight. When Boston's Del Chalmers pulled a hit line hit, field nobody could find the ball. Mike Maloney galloped with the winning run.

Reliever Wins Dodgers

ORIOLES' NO. 1 MAN — Mos Drabowsky, 31-year-old castoff of four big league teams, has this expression in the Orioles' dressing room at Los Angeles today after leading Baltimore to a 5-3 victory in the opening game of the World Series. Drabowsky came in as relief pitcher in the third inning and allowed just one hit from them. (AP Wirephoto)

Record Topped 45 Years.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When Mos Drabowsky struck out Los Angeles Dodgers in a relief role in Wednesday's opening World Series game, the 31-year-old veteran broke a record by Mos Marmes, of the old New York Giants in 1891. The Braves' starter Fred Toney in the first inning of the third game, Oct. 1, 1901, and the first out of 35 New York Giants' first game of the year. The record for strikeouts by a pitcher going the distance is 16, set by Sandy Kousser of the Dodgers in 1903. He will be pitching for the Dodgers today.

LOS ANGELES (CP)—Mos Drabowsky came a long way to win the opening game of the World Series for Baltimore Orioles.

The Polish-born right-hander started a home contract with Chicago Cubs after earning the reputation of a plinking bludge with Truzy Bearsville of the Hallux and District League in 1905.

He worked three other major league clubs before coming to an involuntary rest at Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League in 1925 and later joining the Orioles. His pitched 9.34 innings of relief in the Orioles' defeat Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3 Wednesday.

Drabowsky, 31, was traded by the Cubs to Milwaukee Braves in 1921, drafted by Cincinnati Reds' later the same year, sent to Kansas City Athletics in 1927, and drafted by the Orioles in November, last year.

ORIOLES INTERESTED — It was probably his 1921 record with the Mounties, however, that made the Orioles interested.

Pitching 11 games that season, Drabowsky compiled an 8-3 record, allowing 73 hits in 69 innings. He gave up 77 runs, 41 of them earned, while striking out 89 in a 2.44 earned run average.

It just possible the Baltimore Dodgers' manager has been the one factor in securing interest by the experts who called Los Angeles Dodgers' first favorite to win their second "World Series."

Drabowsky, a part-time club breaker who considered relief before the season, came out of the Baltimore bullpen in the third inning Wednesday and shocked the Dodgers' while striking out three batters in the third and tying motion.

Ever since the Orioles have arrived in Los Angeles, manager Hank Bauer has been pointed with questions suggesting the Orioles could possibly win the Series because of their pitching.

All pointed to the fact that the entire Orioles' staff had completed only 25 games—27 for Dodger left-hander Sandy Kousser.

MOVIE STRENGTH — As game No. 1 started, Brod stepped out of the biggest Dodger crowd in history down the right field line—sending every available pitcher to the bullpen with the exception of the starter, Dave McWilliams, and Gus Palmer, today's second base pitcher against the Dodge's Kousser.

Bauer called on Drabowsky in the third inning to protect a 1-0 lead held on consecutive first-inning homers by the Robinsons and Ben Goddard's key single in the second.

Drabowsky came on with the "bees loaded and one out, struck out Ray Parker, walked Jimmie Gilliam in force in a run and that could win the pennant. I changed my mind.

The Orioles started off against the Dodgers the same way they won the American League pennant—with Frank Robinson and Brooks Robinson hitting consecutive third-inning homers off Don Drysdale after a fly ball over a second base.

ENGLED IN RUN — An initial lead, Snider's homer in a run after a walk to Eichenbarr and a sacrifice. In the bottom half of the second, Jim Ledbetter hammered the third-inning homer, putting the lead to 4-0. Then, in the third, Snider walked three consecutive batters and Snider singled for Drabowsky.

"It was my logical choice," Snider said, "because he had the most experience."

So Drabowsky put down the Snider and in the fourth inning on the way to the record book, striking out pinch-hitter Jim Hamlett, Mervyn Williams and Willie Davis. In the fifth, he got Lou Johnson, Tommy Davis and LaFleur to his record.

And Parker broke the string of the snail with a fly to right. But Drabowsky was in—led so far by the Orioles.

They had built their lead—so far in the fourth, when Dave Robinson doubled as a pinch runner on grounds by Eichenbarr and Luis Aparicio.

POWER PLUS SPEED! —

FOUND SECRET — "That told us that a good base ball can be thrown past the Dodgers," the rookie receiver said.

Two goals with personnel problems won Montreal Hockey League exhibition game Wednesday night.

Chicago Black Hawks, by a rash of misdirection, downed Detroit Red Wings 5-1 in St. Louis and the Maple Leafs, crippled by a rash of injuries, outlasted New York Rangers 4-1 in Toronto.

The victory helped the Leafs take first place in pre-season play against NHL and minor league opponents, with 10-1-1 wins, two losses and one tie.

Boston Bruins are second with three wins, two setbacks and a tie for seven points while the Hawks moved into a tie with Montreal Canadiens, each with six points. Chicago has won three and lost one and Montreal has three victories in as many games.

New York, with five points on two wins, a tie and three losses, and Detroit Red Wings, with four points on two wins against three defeats, round out the standings.

The Hawks, who have lost regulators Glen Hall, Billy Ray and Zimney (Kooze) Hilly through injuries, and Bobby and Dennis Hill. Bobby scored two goals and Dennis had one with the others going to Don Wharmen and Chilly Malt.

Garry Bergman got Detroit's only goal in the third period to make a choice bid for Chicago captain Denis DeJong and Dave Dryden.

A crowd of 13,320 saw the Leafs, playing their first game of the season in hours, win out at St. Louis with two goals of 27 seconds apart in the second period.

George Armstrong, Billy McNeil, John Breemsman, Bob Bain and Jim Fappola were the Toronto scorers while the Bruins were scored by Bernie Gosselin, Earl Lagerfeld, Donny Marshall and Rod Gray.

Earl of Arran Attacks Merger By Thomson

LONDON (CP)—The Earl of Arran, outspoken columnist for The Evening News, launched an acid attack Wednesday on The Times-Sunday Times merger, under which Lord Thomson gained control of The Times.

"Lord Thomson must be a very old peer indeed, after saying he is worried about the future of The Times under the new arrangements."

"It is both wrong and dangerous that one man should be able to dominate Britain, for that is what is coming to."

"Though Lord Thomson may plead that he can never interfere with the policy of the newspapers he controls, what about his successors? What about the next man, or the one after?"

Lord Arran, one of the Irish peers, says he hopes the monarchial commission will forbid the deal "in the national interest."

Marmora's Oldest Man Celebrates 90th Birthday

MARMORA - Edward Don-ald O'Connor, Marmora's oldest gentleman, celebrated his 90th birthday on Sunday. He and Mrs. O'Connor re-ceived their friends at an "at-home" at their 14 McGill Street residence Sunday afternoon, after attending the 8 a.m. Mass at Sacred Heart Church in the morning. Calling to congratulate him were many friends from Marmora and district.

Backed of antique flowers decorated their home, and refreshments were served by their grandchildren. A family dinner was held later at the home of their eldest son, Brown, 3, 1/2, 3, Marmora.

On Friday afternoon, some 50 members of Marmora Senior Citizens organization, of which Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor are active members, honored him with a surprise party. "Well, we don't" formed the guests home and a decorated table with cake, made by Mrs. Tom Young, was served.

ATTACHED MADDO SCHOOLS

Mr. O'Connor was born in the Township of Marmora on October 2nd, 1878. He is the youngest and only surviving son of the late Michael O'Connor and Elizabeth White. His wife is living sister (Margaret), Mrs. E. J. Keating, residing in Marmora. For his primary education he attended White School, which still stands on the old Mado road, and Dakota separate school. After passing entrance exams, he attended the high school in this district at Mado. He remembers finishing the last months of this so much that he tried to get a new start to school in hopes of getting pneumonia. The phase soon passed and he recalls many happy memories of his Mado high school days. Only three of his high school classmates are living: Archie Kilmad of Mado, Tom Hogan of Windsor, and Carrie Sheridan of Oshawa.

After graduation from high school Mr. O'Connor attended Belleville Business College and received his diploma from there in March, 1904. He has worked with interest the various changes in downtown Belleville in the past 75 years. He then returned to Marmora where he worked at the hotel business with his father until taking over as owner in 1908.

In 1904 he married Agnes Murray, who died in 1905. They had one daughter (Mary) Mrs. J. P. Donnelly of Marmora. Mr. O'Connor was a florist business in the White Bear Hotel and a local option vote closed all brew outlets in the township in 1912. He then returned to farming until he retired and moved to Marmora Village 19 years ago.

11 GREAT GRANDCHILDREN

In 1915 he married Maude Hogan. They have four children: (Margaret) Mrs. D. F. Courney of Elgin; Evelyn of Marmora; (Glen) Mrs. Andy Verreault and Michael, both of Marmora. There are 30 grandchildren and 11 great grand-children.

Mr. O'Connor remembers well the building of the still ex-isting Tremont-Kaywood railway, was present for the arrival of the first train to stop at White Bear Station (Marmora Station) and also saw the last train arrive pass just a few years ago.

Mr. O'Connor reflects the first Detroit Gold Smith where was built on a piece of land purchased from his father. This miller stood just off Marmora-Detroit road about 1,000 yards from Marmora Station and operated under the name of Canadian Gold Fields. This was formed in 1886. The next miller was built in Detroit in 1897, the Detroit Smelting and Refining Company Limited, where away from this district work-ers still use facilities a few years ago. He remembers all the personnel from the man-agement of the mill. He has a vivid memory of the early history of Marmora and recalls the building and occupancy of most of the buildings which now constitute the village and many more long ago. The Pounce Company, near Mill, the Fire Mill and the Soap Factory were the early Marmora buildings.

LIVED EARLY HISTORY

He has an old Marmora Business Directory for the year 1885 and remembers well the 13 names and places of business listed in it. He and his father assessed the village of Marmora in 1902.

Mr. O'Connor has for many years been the only survivor of the original shareholders of the present Royal Hotel in Marmora and notes changes and improvements through the years.

He claims the Marmora Volunteer Fire Department is much older than he is. He was the night of the old hotel period. Tremont was the first fireman on saving the damage and bedding, and in the confusion the miller and shovels were carried downstairs and out the door while the fire was being extinguished and tamed on the windows. Ed seems to have found the funny side of every event and personality that has entered into his 90 years.

MANY INTERESTS

He has always taken a leading interest in church, social and municipal life in the community. He knows and has written the history of the first Catholic Church, the site of which is still maintained on the east bank of Crowe River. The present Catholic Church and all other churches in the village were built during his time.

He was secretary of Detroit Separate School for 23 years, president of the Silver Leaf Cheese Factory for 23 years, member of Marmora and Lake Township for 15 years and director for Hastings County and Ontario Cheese Producers' Association for eight years.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The summer is over and scouting in Belleville is presently in a lull. But your young men are of course the primary problem of leaders both on the summer and nonsummer side. Scouting being a voluntary job depends on the public for just about everything it does. Are you able to assist it?

At the 2nd Tharlow Scout Council meeting, the following were elected: President, Mr. J. H. Smith, Toronto; Vice-President, Mr. J. H. Smith, Toronto; Treasurer, Mr. J. H. Smith, Toronto; Secretary, Mr. J. H. Smith, Toronto; and so on.

Mr. J. H. Smith, Toronto, is the 2nd Tharlow Scout Council's representative to the Ontario Scout Council. He is also the representative to the Ontario Scout Council's representative to the Ontario Scout Council.

If you are still not in the firing line in the United States, you are not alone. A big welcome had every year to the Scout Council. It will be the weekend of October 21-22. Just to keep the record straight - Ohio and Scout are not all equal. What they do is to help each other. They are willing to give out of pocket from their own pockets to assist in the training of Scouts and leaders. As an indication of their appreciation, they give you a tag to indicate your participation and an apple. In one you might think your gift is all yours. But you see that the apples are purchased and polished by the Scouts and Ohio or please be generous. The cost of a tag of office from the district of the citizens of Belleville would grow $1000 and this would really help. However, your personal help is needed even more than your monetary assistance.

Layoffs, Prices Targets for Opposition

OTTAWA (CP) - The opposition Conservative Party today attacked the government's proposed 10 per cent wage freeze and its target for inflation.

Mr. Diefenbaker has already rejected the report by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario Court of Canada, which criticized his handling of the new security case during his administration.

After countless, double on the part of the Bank Act was returned with opposition members picking up the attack that started last July.

Johnson: He Fears Baseless Hopes

WASHINGTON (CP) — AP— President Johnson says he doesn't want to see his anti-communist mission give rise to a business boom for a peaceful settlement of the war in Vietnam.

"I have not seen any developments in recent weeks," he said at a press conference Thursday. "I would guess that in his mind, the president may be in Da Nang, the huge U.S. marine base."

In discussing the South Vietnamese, Johnson said he was not sure the Asians would "all have some specific plans to suggest" as ways for ending the conflict and "for making that use of the word progress and general in the years to come."

Once more, he left open the door for participation by North Viet Nam in a post-war rehabilitation program, saying that when he spoke of this prospect he was talking of the "development of Viet Nam." Officials said this was a deliberate refusal to the words of a divided country, South as well as North.

In response to a question on U.S. war aims, Johnson said he was talking of the "development of Viet Nam." Officials said this was a deliberate refusal to the words of a divided country, South as well as North.

Britain: Six-point Plan Dress up of Old Ideas

LONDON (CP) — Britain's new Viet Nam peace plan is essentially a dress-up of old ideas usually to receive any modern updates in hand.

It was President Johnson's planned withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam, combined with a Manila summit, the kind of project that suggests the path to peace has finally been found.

These moves are essentially political, designed in part to influence opinion at home and abroad. Political advisers have a feeling the public often loses momentum with progress.

The draft plan is that it is set out in six complete details. First, North Viet Nam and the United States would agree to the principle of a peace conference. Then the U.S. would halt the bombing of North Viet Nam and both sides would stop the flow of troops and equipment into the battlefield.

Later, as part of a ceasefire, both sides would agree to stop any further acts of aggression while the principles of a political settlement are negotiated.

A further step would be to elect a neutral body to monitor elections in both North and South Viet Nam—may be set up by the United Nations.

North Viet Nam—followed by a period after which the two countries would decide whether to continue to stop or what terms.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown, helped by his party, left, whether they have hoped along on the government's support of Johnson's policy, says he will press his case for the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

In proposal, outlined at the party's recent annual conference, received wide attention in London and was welcomed by U.S. policy makers. But there were doubts in some quarters whether Sir George would really push the plan.

It might be said that "I've heard this all before."

THE CUSTOMER WANTS

"In your column of October 1st," writes a veteran hunter, "you mentioned that small holes and beaver ponds provided the best duck hunting compared to the larger marshes on opening day."

"As a duck hunter of over 30 years, I can tell you, the reason for this is due to feeding birds in the ducks."

"This can be done, he says, to a much better degree of success in these small odd-throw spots."

"Even though it is illegal, this practice is carried on very intensively."

He states that very few people are caught simply because the authorities don't concentrate on these areas as they are usually hard to locate.

"This is the only way you can be assured of good hunting and it is obtaining the duck population much faster than it would otherwise," he states.

"It would be interesting to know," he says, "how much you city feed stores sell in manure during the duck hunting season starts."

"There is no doubt there is a lot of truth in what 'hunter' writes but it would be virtually impossible for the authorities with the present available staff to cover the southern area."

And "hunter" should remember that it is legal to put out feed for ducks up to seven days prior to the opening of the season.

Will Palmer have a small army of officials to enforce the opening of the best-duck areas in the southern districts?

Feeding feed stores would be little or no use since the majority of the non-farmer producers are hunting within the limits of the law.

All duck hunters and lakeowners of the southern zone were thoroughly harassed by the manure this year. And I understand that something of a record was set in that not a single instance of illegal feeding by hunters was detected.

Perhaps the pet-duck-club fraternity has taken to activities in the beaver ponds and small ponds of the state. Hereto some of the feed-pans are illegal. Hereto will return to the beaver ponds long after the playing of duck has been stopped.

I do not think these activities will reduce the duck population to any great extent since comparatively few hunters outside of those "in the know" are aware of the locations of these more or less hidden spots.

The majority of waterfowl-hunting sportsmen generally make up the "gang" and select their hunting locations well in advance of the opening date. Few, and I wonder whether the southern lakeowners will actually be the force of coming across a beaver pond or small piece of water undisturbed with ducks.

Thus, of course, there are hunters, and hunters.

There is Mittal Ned, the prize of the people, who suffers from nature to put the trigger on anything that flies over it. It is a more recent in the sky. He is the type who couldn't hit a thing in the rump with a tennis racket at a tennis match.

Then there is Wanderling Willie the guy who is out for tripping over property and thinks the "No Trespassing" sign is meant for processors and traveling salesmen only. Willie has been known to take a pebble at a tree thinking, no doubt it's a muffled shot in his diaphragm.

DAVIS ERRORS GOAT

By Mike Batten

BALTIMORE (AP)—Law Louie Dodger, who bawls his balls to his eye, arrived today after what manager Walt Ralston termed the worst two-day World Series performance since the 1945 season.

And Alton had another day to think about it before the Series resumed Saturday with Clinto Oates scheduled to pitch against Wally Backer of Baltimore Orioles.

Alton, however, didn't have to think far back to classify the Dodger's performance in Baltimore as the worst two-day performance in the Orioles while making just seven hits and committing six errors.

"We've been two down before the Series started when Alton had a hit," said Dodger. "I never saw him do so bad two days in a row."

If the Dodger looked bad Wednesday in collecting only one hit off New York Yankees in a 4-3 defeat of relief pitching, they looked worse when the returns were in Thursday as the Orioles won 6-0.

COLLECT FOUR HITS

The Dodger collected four hits in the first inning, but the Orioles' pitcher, Frank Robinson, struck out the Dodger's first two batters.

Willie Davis was the No. 1 pitcher, committing errors in the first but he not only surprised the on-lookers individual record with three hits but also led the team record for a game.

GOOFS EGG

By Mike Batten

With a single—only the second hit off Killebrew—and then Johnson failed out, it hardly seemed that to do anything more than settle a yarn when Willie Davis hit a triple.

Davis crashed under the ball, then left it in the run. He made a grab around his base, but couldn't hold the ball and it fell for a foul-batter error.

COINCIDENTS REMARK

Andy Erickson came up and hit the seventh strike to him into short center. Davis seemed to do nothing but the cheering which greeted Davis when he returned to the outfield and caught a hit and sent Johnson were coming in a 3-2 innings-winning warpage.

Later Erickson's double from Richardson home with a third run—and it was all over but the cheering which greeted Davis when he returned to the outfield and caught a hit and sent Johnson were coming in a 3-2 innings-winning warpage.

However, the error, however, which started when third base, was Jim Gilliam's batted a ground ball to the pitcher, who continued in the sixth.

Willie Davis, the right fielder, didn't draw an error when he hit Frank Robinson's drive full between bases for a triple, but Fatsy got out later on a third after strike by Powell and Dave Johnson.

The Orioles added their second run in the eighth on a walk, a single by Brooks Robinson, a sacrifice and a throwout error by pitcher Sam Perreault on Dave Johnson's single.

ENTRIES RECORDED

POKER, meanwhile, was putting his name in the record book, allowing only one Dodger to reach third in a performance as surprising as the Dodger's belated comeback. Palmer completed only two of his last 30 regular-season games.

The performance by Palmer, Davis and the Dodgers again passed records set by the 1966 team, who won the Series 4-3 years old.

Palmer, who will be in it Oct. 10, in more than a year younger than Willie Hall of Cincinnati field was when he pitched a Series shutout against New York Yankees in 1962.

Davis shattered all individual records for errors in one inning and matched the record for errors in one game, as did the Dodgers, during the all-star game with the 1966 and 1967 Chicago White Sox and 1967 Pittsburgh Pirates.

Palmer, who had, perhaps the best record in the Series for errors, said he got the job done.

Despite Surging Tourist Boom Ireland Still Vagating Mecca

DUBLIN (CP) — Irish tourist revenue is growing so fast that some people wonder whether the grass will be trampled by the gold.

"It's a real boom," declared spokesman for Yalta Ireland, the Irish tourist board. "We have 1,000 miles of coastline that haven't even been discovered by tourists. It's the road instead. Only one-fifth of our highways are being used."

For the traffic-heavy visitor, Irish motoring—few cars, good roads—is sheer delight all the way from Dublin's O'Connell bridge, which is just as wide as it is long, to the cliffhanging highways in the famed Ring of Kerry. In the deep south it doesn't matter if you have to cope with an occasional donkey, cow or chicken on the way—or perhaps an occasional booby and flap in Gaelic only.

"The old value of Gaelic is working," a roadside photographer advised a pencil notepad. "It's a language of emotion and mood. You can be far more patient to a woman in Gaelic than in English."

Irish author Robert Gibbons told of an old lady who liked to walk past cars from her side-of-the-road.

"Would there be many cars coming here?" Gibbons asked her doubtfully.

"Indeed there would," she replied. "I declare to God you'll see one every day."

That was years ago but the Irish still make jokes not only about the traffic but also about their eccentric drivers, some of whom seem to prefer the right side of the road although left-hand driving is the rule here as in Britain.

"Any driving license will do, so long as it isn't Irish," joked the on-duty clerk when a Canadian visitor rented a car. Ireland now imposes driving tests but in previous years points could be obtained by mail.

"There's a true story about a veterinarian who wrote and got a permit for his dummy, Frank Flanagan," a Dublin lawyer recalled. "The case finally landed in court — a charge of false pretences. The judge ordered Flanagan and his friend to make donations to the court's poor box."

"Will you take a cheque?" was Flanagan's parting shot at the judge.

Ireland's humor and literary good-will is no tourist bazaar. Even among the attractions that have nearly doubled tourist revenue in five years, The Burren brought in $64,000,000 in 1965 compared with $70,000,000 in 1965 and a target of $80,000,000.

Meeting a tourist official during the "body hour" — the one hour of the afternoon when the pubs are closed—a reporter was baffled with questions from Canada's Stephen Leacock to the effect that men should work only for his needs, but his needs.

Later a glass of whiskey was encountered telling me a narrow staircase to kiss the lady.

It was the lady of the bachelors of Marry Church.

"I've never seen a widow say 'I'm married'."

A total of 1,700,000 tourists, including 800 from Canada and 350,000 from the United States, were to the Irish republic in 1965 and more are expected this year, even though prolonged British seasons' strikes interrupted the flow.

"We'll never reach the saturation point," said the tourist official. "Consider our great Great Britain alone has 35,000,000 people. We have only a little over 3,000,000."

Tourists revel in the ever-changing beauty of the rolling hills and glens, and the wild beauty of the countryside. The color theme is carried through to the cities. For instance the green mail boxes and telephone booths in southern Ireland contrast with the red color in Northern Ireland and Bradford.

A family of three—reporter, wife and six-year-old son—made a 15-day, 1,200-mile tour of 10 cities, including such cities as Cork, Limerick and Galway by car. (Government information is available from the Irish Tourist Board, which provides accurate guest books, including street addresses, for tourists but underlines the streets themselves.)

Questioned about this, our 12-year-old son explained helpfully: "I complained to the city council, but they just said that if they'd put up a street name for me, they'd have to do it for everybody."

Asking the way to Dublin, we were told to "make" be moved because there "dend are above the bridge." Sure enough, a graveyard perched on a hill overlooking the town.

Arriving in Kells, once the home of St. Columba, the con-

PART OF IRELAND'S GOLDEN AGE — This great, scarred cross, which two centuries ago served as a gallows during a period of oppression, dates from the golden age of Irish Christianity some 12 centuries ago. torial writings in the market square around a 15th-century Celtic cross that two centuries ago served as a gallows during a period of oppression.

The magnificent, scarred cross is one of many antiquities dating from the golden age of Irish Christianity some 12 centuries ago when the Emerald Isle helped keep the light of civilization burning during the dark ages. Other smaller crosses mark an old boundary in the Kells area. One of these stands in evidence of a river.

"How did it get there?" said a guide. "There, it came about because St. Columba arrived the crosses erected by St. Columba. He decided to take out at night but St. Columba caught him in the act. They struggled and the cross fell in the river where you see it now."

Such yarns may seem unrelated to the clear Christian atmosphere. But listen to them in an Irish mind, after looking at Irish crosses, and you'll be convinced you've been exposed to the truth.

Madoc Junction

MADOC (Heron) — Mrs. Madoc Clancy, Mrs. Mary Clancy, and Mrs. Clancy Clancy were among those who attended a plaque dedication held at the home of Mrs. Marian Wainwright in Strilong, last Monday night.

Several from here attended the funeral of John V. Galtreth in Strilong on Thursday. Mr. Galtreth was a resident in this community for many years.

A Joint Communion service for the congregation of West Hamilton and Tregrove United Churches took place in Eggleston Church on Sunday afternoon.

The Reverend of Holy Communion was administered by the Rev. R. Kennedy, of St. John's United Church, Tregrove, and the pastor, Mr. A. B. Smith.

Flowers were placed in the church by Mrs. E. Johnson, Mrs. W. Huxley and Mrs. C. Bridges.

Three Nicholson College Girls Win $3,625 of $4,040 in Prizes

By J. A. STAVLEY,
Bellefleur Editor-Contributor

The Canada Mortgage Centre Bellefleur, formerly the National Employment Service, has been operating under a new name for the past week. During the past week, many people have received regarding this change of name.

The following is a brief summary of the reasons for the change and the new name was considered necessary.

For the past 30 years Canada Mortgage Centre has been operating under the name of the National Employment Service with the same insurance function. However, during the past week, and especially within the past decade, the employment service function has steadily gained importance. The demand on it has increased greatly due to technological changes, a housing credit crisis and the complexity of the modern labor market.

In recognition of these most important factors, one of the recommendations of the 1964 Report of November, 1964, was that the National Employment Service be transferred to the Department of Labor as a necessary move to coordinate the service in government and private employment programs. This recommendation was accepted in March 1965, and thus the employment service became an integral part of the government's employment program. This recommendation was accepted in March 1965, and thus the employment service became an integral part of the government's employment program.

Flyers Top London 9-4

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Niagara Falls Flyers scored a 9-4 victory over London Knights as Friday night as both clubs scored their regular schedule in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Flyers goalie Glen Tremblay and veteran Steve Ashburn each scored two goals and two assists to lead Niagara Falls. Derek Anderson, Mike Sherman, Don Marcotte, Ross Weir and Ricky Ley got the winners.

Gary Unger, Barry Boughman, Neil Chalmers and John Mercer scored for London. Flyers skated into a 3-0 first period lead and before a crowd of 2,300 had a 6-2 margin at the end of the second. Niagara Falls scored five unanswered goals in the final session.

Old Barn-raising Spirit Aids Renovation of Stirling Arena

Those old-fashioned barn-raising boys have a bit of style but the spirit of the old is still there.

Take for example, the enthusiasm of energetic Stirling district residents who are putting their evenings in a volunteer effort to spruce up the village arena.

The program underway is the installation of new woodwork, a canvas, furnace room and a new kitchen and bathroom. The risk-rewarding program is a community project.

Next year, a new front will go on the arena and eventually a concrete floor will be installed over the artificial ice surface.

RENOUVEAU COÛT $250,000

The estimated "renewal" cost of the program for this year and next is approximately $250,000 but this figure will be reduced by donating $25,000 through volunteer labor.

Actually the renovation project is a community effort. Turning out for volunteer work are council members, members of the Stirling Legion, and ordinary citizens from the village, the townships of Renfrew and West Hantsburg.

This year's program is to replace the old woodwork, with concrete floors and gravel grating in. Anywhere up to 12 men are turning out nightly to get the job done before the deadline of the ice season.

Of course the volunteer helpers need a bit of direction and that is where Walter De Jong, Stirling building contractor, comes in. Mr. De Jong is supervising the entire renovation program — also on a volunteer basis.

ARENA RENOVATIONS — Stirling area residents are volunteering labor for arena renovations being done as a centennial project. Here Harry Cooks, Police Chief Charles Hinch, and contractor Walter De Jong team up to saw a wall, while Bob Anderson handles hammer in background.

WHAT IS CABLE TELEVISION?

It is a service which delivers a wider selection of crystal clear reception TV channels to your set without any need for an aerial. The signals are received by a large sensitive master antenna located outside the city. Amplifiers boost the signal strength and co-axial cable conveys the signal to your home.

DO YOU NEED AN ANTENNA?

No... Television cable eliminates the need for unsightly inefficient antennas which cannot compare with the crystal clear all-season reception via TV cable. Interference due to traffic or weather conditions does not affect TV cable reception.

HOW IS IT INSTALLED IN YOUR HOME?

Your television set is connected to the TV Cable with a connecting wire that is smaller than a lead pencil and which enters your home as neatly as your telephone line.

WHAT ABOUT COLOR TV?

Approximately 80% of evening programming will be in color. Color set owners can be assured of superb color reception on CABLE TV due to the installation of the finest obtainable color relay equipment installed throughout the cable system.

OTTAWA (CP) — Timbros, racing on top every day of the year for driver Ken McElroy, took the featured $200 Ontario Township Trot and Pace in 2:27.45 at Midway Circuit Raceway Friday night.

Today's program is the last of the season at Midway Circuit.

WOMAN GENERAL MEET

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has passed a bill that would allow career women officers in the U.S. army, navy, air force and marine corps to hold temporary appointments as generals and admirals. Under present law, the highest permanent rank for women is lieutenant-colonel, or commander, with each service being headed by an officer holding a temporary appointment as colonel.

Injuries Hobble Gaels

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
 Today's clash between University of Toronto Blues and Queen's University Gaels at the field in the fourth quarter after suffering an old knee injury.

He had been forced to give up football for the remainder of the season and it's doubtful whether he will ever play again.

Langford, a halfback, defensive backfielder and kick-off return man, displaced his shoulder against McGill and isn't expected to return this year.

Also out of the lineup for Saturday's contest are defensive back Frank Pace and defensive tackle Tony Craig, both suffering from strained ligaments.

A doubtful starter, is defensive tackle Doug Cunningham, who injured his knee last Saturday.

Queen's head coach Frank Trudis has done some juggling in his offensive line in preparation for his team's meeting with Toronto.

Jim Tait, a powerful running back, and Ron Clarke, a sophomore, will likely alternate in the halfback slot while John Lat, team second-stringing wideback, will work in Pace's spot.

The only casualty in the Blues' lineup is Glen Martin, who suffered a slight shoulder dislocation in Toronto's 48-7 victory last Saturday over Mustangs.

Meanwhile in London, McGill coach Tom Mooney says it will be difficult to get his team up for the Western game.

Bonanza Just That;

Bounces Back to Top

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Bonanza television series has bounced back to its top position in the Nielsen ratings for the week ending Oct. 2, with a 13.2 share.

The series, which has been on the air for 25 years, has been a consistent performer since its debut in 1959. It was the first series to be carried by all three major networks.

David Doucette, who created the series and has guided it as producer since its start, said the success of the series is a testament to the fact that "Bonanza is more than a western. It has a great range of story that other westerns, yet it has enough of the elements to appeal to the western buff."

How Many Times A Day Do You Say "HARDY?"

The world is full of wonderful sounds. And full of people who are more than ready to admit that they're having fun. They're realizing that they make their problem far more obvious by NOT wearing a hearing aid than by wearing one. Modern hearing aids can be made so easy and so inconspicuous that no one need ever notice them.

If you suspect that you may need professional advice - please don't wait. Your hearing is far too precious. We're happy to arrange an appointment for you any time and (should it be necessary) to show you a wide selection of modern hearing aids and modern, trouble-free batteries to power them.

Order Post-vote Leadership Study

Liberals Plan Review After Every Election

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal party voted today to consider its national leadership after each future federal general election.

The national Liberal conference approved an amendment to the party's constitution providing that the biennial party convention following each election hold a secret ballot on calling a leadership convention.

If the vote favors a convention, the party's national executive is to call it within a year.

This amendment to the party constitution was approved overwhelmingly in a voice vote by about 1,000 delegates after an emotional 10-minute debate on the leadership issue.

The motion, introduced by John Gault of Montreal, reads as follows:

"The resolution calling for a leadership convention shall be placed automatically on the agenda of the national convention following a federal general election if such a resolution is adopted by secret ballot, the executive committee shall call a leadership convention to take place within one year."

The agreement makes it possible for the Liberal party to elect a new leader after every election.

On the war in Viet Nam, the Liberal party declared:

"There seems to me to be no fundamental and inescapable fact. There cannot be, a military solution to this conflict. We believe that the only feasible solution is a political settlement reached through negotiation."

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—British Foreign Secretary George Brown announced today a plan for restoring peace in Viet Nam.

In a policy speech to the United Nations General Assembly, he also again invited Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to join with him in a call to reconvene the 1954 Geneva conference. He and Gromyko are co-chairmen of the conference.

Politics "Down Under"
When President Jimmy Carter visited New Zealand last month, the Commonwealth nation of New Zealand was the first country outside North America to have a visit from the U.S. leader since his took office.

There was some talk in New Zealand that the visit was the first to Hawaii for talks with South Vietnamese leaders, but it was still on U.S. territory. More recently he spent a few hours on Campbell Island, Canadian territory off the coast of New Brunswick.

New Zealand, however, will be the first overseas nation, as such, on the President's tour. It is a small island nation, a lot of satisfaction having regard to the friendly rivalry existing between them and their big neighbor Australia, which is second on the Johnson itinerary.

Such rivalry, of course, is increasingly becoming a thing of the past. For one thing Australia and New Zealand are heavily dependent on the United States for defence, and the two Commonwealth nations are meeting their obligations by fighting alongside the Americans in Vietnam.

And now there is increasing talk on New Zealand seeking incorporation in the Australian federation, the possibility of which it has been mooted for some time, but understandably it has been a touchy subject with the raggedly-independent New Zealanders.

Now the realities of defence and economic expediency are dictating new thinking on this subject, so that many regard a new union between Australia and New Zealand (which lies 1,200 miles east of the big island continent) as inevitable.

Dull But Daring

"The daring Canadians"

The phrase was used by the Christian Science Monitor to describe the audacity of the explorers and hunters of the Arctic.

It takes some getting used to. We have been called dull, modest, humble, compromising, timid, and even "average."

The reporter has a point. In spite of predictions that Expo will lay an egg on our fair-land, its promoters are asking for an extra $10 million to build the Expo.

Come to think of it, it is rather audacious. Let alone Expo, let alone Expo, here at all. We are a country of modesty, of reserve, of restraint, of culture, denying the economic and geographical truths that North America should be more political entity.

Novelist-historian Hugh MacLennan says we are dull because our country was built on the moral position of the United States, and American refugees from political, religious and economic exploitation. Nevertheless, it took a fair amount of courage to move here and to build a country for themselves though ad venturing in a strange land.

Perhaps, during is the bright opportunity to dullness on the other face of the Canadian coin.

Newest Not Always Best

The older among us have seen a recent transition and take place in a general attitude towards change. In our youth innovations were almost invariably questioned. The homestead country was not only new but newfangled, in the term in which contempt for the unfired is self-denial. Men spoke not only of the good old days but of the good old days.

It was not until the mid-1950s that we had to fight to live to acceptance against a tidal wave of distrust and suspicion.

The transition from a transition from proper places to jets was made with hardly a murmur. Men went soaring around the earth at great speeds, and the world was a new place, the scientists who made this possible, questioning whether this was good for humankind.

With change in attitude has occurred with respect to the future. The first major proof that our trust might sometimes be misplaced came with the birth of the "new" baby, the "new" baby.

The other day, at Boston, the world received a new warning against too ready an acceptance of the "new" baby.

Mrs. Andrea Orvidnik was having difficulty conceiving. She took a fertility hormone treatment and was successful — much too successful. She became pregnant. When she went to the delivery room she gave birth to not one child, but three. The first was a girl, the other six died shortly afterwards. It was probably a good thing.

The hormone which she took was linked with the birth of stillborn sextuplets and septuplets in Sweden and two sets of quintuplets, one born in Sweden, the other in New Zealand.

The hormone was brought to women previously sterile more than offsets the sorrow and stress it must cause. In these cases of multiple births. Obviously, though, there will be many women who would sooner remain childless, or would prefer to stay single, than to risk the possibility of the sort of ordeal, physical and psychological, to which Mrs. Orvidnik has been exposed.

CAMERA CLUB

Photo-hobbyists met at the Camera Club on Wednesday evening to begin the winter season by breaking up on their photographing abilities in preparation for potential holiday travel.

Mr. Fred Bradley of the Camera Club of Commerce, the guest speaker, extended an invitation to all to submit original slides to the city for use in tourist brochures.

The competition for the season was reviewed and the picture story project of the Quins area for the continental year was discussed. Some of the slides submitted for the first competition on October 13 were presented.

Darkroom photography instruction is being made available to anyone in the area interested in joining the club and visitors are invited to attend the next meeting.

Club member Ted Adelt provided the evening's entertainment with a slide show of a trip through the Canadian Rockies.

The evening was completed with comments and advice to visitors on how to use their cameras to the best advantage.

Successful Living

Love-Starved Girl

Needs Affectionate Aunt

DEAR DORIS: My young niece visited me on an summer vacation for three weeks this summer. She is an only child, but had such fun with my three that she begged to leave.

What bit me below the belt was her turning to me and putting her arms around me when she left. She said, "Please, Aunt Jane, don't send me home."

Honestly, I think she never gets over a bit at home. She seemed starved for affection. My brother is so selfish. And her mother is just a spoiled child.

Guess my problem is, about 17 years hence, how she, so to speak, or when we have this little girl is it coming up her life will be a poor case. I have her for vacations and give her little things? AUNTIE JEAN.

DEAR AUNTIE: Goodness, no! There's a special place for such in this world; one which even the most willing of the Auntie friends who can offer few-thinged affections and fun.

The more so in your case. The love you give may be her anchor; your affection the thing which helps her to retain in her disposition a warmth which might not be developed without it.

A boy or girl grows up without affection. It is not only impossible to express herself or himself in a loving relationship later.

DEAR DORIS: Would you kindly advise me as to the fair way to share expenses on a pleasure motor trip?

I am the co-owner of the car and would like to know about splitting the cost of one, two or three passengers. I am thinking about transportation expense. We are all students and I am planning this trip over a holiday week end. — CARL COLLEGIATE.

DEAR CARL: The passengers divide up the cost of gas and oil; the owner-driver has fixed expense of insurance, depreciation, any repairs.

Have you asked your insurance agent how you are covered in case of an accident? He may suggest an amount taking in writing from your passengers to absolve you of any possible cost of damage.

Having all gas and oil charged on a credit card is a neat way of recording costs, for speaking and collecting later.

TO UNCLE GEORGE: There's a book written by a doctor who has just as many grandchildren as you have great-grandchildren. He has also been a family doctor for years and years. His observations and ideas are a great help to observant folk like you who are trying to bridge the generations and to enjoy folk of all ages who "belong" to their.

It makes easy reading as well. I'm sending you mine and father said will supply these details to any reader writing for them.

(Anonymous letters are bad manners and may be ignored. When writing in give Doris your right name and address. It will keep friends confidential.)

High Hemlines Getting Gals Low Marks

VICTORIA (CP) — Gals with the high hemlines sometimes get the low marks in driving examinations, say motor vehicle branch executives here.

It all became those with the mini-skirts get a major check when male examiners watch their footwork on clutch and brake pedals.

"We have to look over to see how they're operating the clutch," said examiner Jack Newman, "it bothers some women, but it's part of our job."

"If you get the type that's self-conscious, they get the feeling you're glooming their legs all the time," commented another tester, Mike Phillips. He recalled one girl "pinkiey and - conscious to begin with" who was a mini-skirt.

After flunking her, he told her to come back wearing slacks. The examiners said many women drive with their skirts high to be more at ease. Mr. Phillips said the 16- and 17-year-olds who drive with a lot of leg showing generally do well because they aren't as self-conscious.

"It's the older women trying to get into younger fashions who are pulling their skirts down all the time. They can't concentrate on what they're doing."

Presence At Manila Indicates Australia's Political Growth

By PETER O'DONNELL
MANILA, The Philippines (AP)—Australia's presence at the Manila conference on the Middle East will be another demonstration that the island country has broken its isolation from Asia is over.

Australia is the third largest foreign contributor to the Viet Nam war effort, as indicated by its surges since the Gulf of Tonkin War as a political and economic force in Asia. Before the Japanese grabbed up Southeast Asia, Australia had little or no contact with the area it called the Far East. Today the Far East is called the Near North and Australia's share of what is going on among the 1,300,000,000 people who live within 6,000 miles of the land down under.

The Americans have 400,000 troops in South Viet Nam, a large air base at Butterworth near Bangkok on the west coast of Malaysia and 20,000 troops in the Philippines.

Australia has maintained 4,000 men in Malaysia for almost 20 years. They help support the Commonwealth's anti-communist movement in the "hot" and later "hot" Indonesian territories in the combination between Malaysia and Indonesia.

But it is in the field of trade that the Australians are making the biggest impact. Asia was the world's largest market for Australia's total overseas trade. In 35 years trade with Asia has leaped to $1,200,000,000 from

Japan accounts for 45 per cent of this trade. It is Australia's best customer after Britain.

Although Australia has a population of only 10,000,000, it is starting to export capital to Asia, notably in Malaysia, Thailand and the Philippines.

In two decades Australia has handled out close to $1,000,000,000 in aid to other countries under such schemes as the Colombo Plan and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Australia gives to aid as non-designated goods "which do not seem to be repayable."

It is also spending $250,000,000 in a military assistance program with Malaysia.

The army is being built up to 40,000 men in anticipation of a long haul in Viet Nam and the defense budget has increased from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 in 1964. It will reach $1,000,000,000 within 20 years.

The navy has ordered U.S. Skyhawk bombers and Tracker anti-submarine aircraft.

The air force also has ordered 10 F-4s, designed to carry nuclear weapons.

Australia's thorniest political problem in Asia is its restrictive immigration law, known as the "white Australia policy."

Instances where the law has been applied without too much thought as to its consequences have provoked criticism, particularly in the Philippines.

Despite the White Australia policy, Australia has maintained almost close ties with the Communist nations in Asia. At the same time it is selling huge quantities of wheat to China, which it does not recognize diplomatically.

An Australian diplomat in Bangkok says:

"We are still a small country. Give us a few more years of development and then we will be able to ease the restrictions on Asian immigration."

Bootleg Vodka Produces Request for 24-hour Sale

By JOHN BERT
MOSCOW (CP)—It happened at the Yandevsky railway station, in Moscow's Komsomolskaya Square, not long after 11 p.m.

A man came up to a porter at the platform, said something and the porter disappeared. The minutes later he came back with a bottle of vodka which he sold to the man for five rubles—more than twice what it is in a store.

A correspondent for the weekly "Pravda" newspaper, witnessed the transaction.

He wrote later that bootlegging of vodka—"speculation" was actually the word used—has become widespread in Moscow.

"It doesn't need to fight against the vodka interest and how those who are interested in it."

At a table last dinner and porters are the worst offenders, but there is another category of speculator for whom speculation is their sole occupation.

One man interviewed said he considered his vodka business "midway between a public one and a private one."

The vodka correspondent, who was out growing with the police that night, described scenes with all the flavor of similar shady dealings in capitalist countries.

"We saw a man near a table at 6:30 M.M.T. After a brief conversation the man sat on the front seat and a driver, Pavel Supokov, took him vodka for five rubles. It is a standard price."

GM to Try Age 55 Retirement

The media (police) are not surprised as they are accustomed to it."

The media's article was less critical of those who buy and sell vodka illegally than of those who force food stores to close no later than 10 p.m. but are sold at food stores. They should remain open round the clock, the author contended.

There is an absurdity about other goods besides vodka, he suggested, that "it is not a speculation in itself."

"It is just that society will pay an extra two rubles for a bottle of milk."

Cancer Victim's Three Wishes Granted: Has Legs, Job, Baby

GENTREVILLE, Mich. (AP)—Larry Rink's three wishes have come true. Rink is the 31-year-old cancer survivor who now has no evidence of the disease remaining in his body.

He learned last July, after cancerous tissue from other people was transplanted to him, that he had no traces of cancer.

He said then, "Now I'll get my wish and then I hope to find a good job and take care of my wife and baby."

Within days, Rink was fitted with an artificial leg. His right leg was amputated more than a year ago because of bone cancer.

Three weeks ago he began his first job in more than a year—as a stock clerk in a food store in nearby Three Rivers.

Sgt. M. Rink's 10-year-old wife, Jeanette, gave birth to their third child, Tim, last week.

They hope to have a fourth child, but Rink has no evidence of the disease remaining in his body.

More Grain, Fewer Babies

SEOUL (AP)—Under the new five-year plan starting Jan. 1, South Korea expects to cut its crop of babies and export more of grain to meet domestic needs.

Through "continuous and vigorous" operation of its family planning program, the government hopes to bring population growth down to two per cent from almost three per cent.

The agriculture plan is production of 35,000,000 tons of grain a year, to obviate the need for import of 400,000 to 700,000 tons, as at present. Another aim is to double livestock output.

Under its expiring five-year plan South Korea claims an average annual increase of 7.8 per cent in the gross national product.

GM has announced that up to 200 workers at Oshawa may be laid off. The company spokesman said a more serious figure on the layoffs is likely to be announced next month.

Normal retirement age at GM is 65. Under the experimental plan, a worker with 30 years' experience could retire at 50 with a pension of 80 per cent of his salary.

Con Win, 30 years' experience could retire with a pension of 80% a month.

The Liberal Leader

Must Justify Role Under Plan Proposed at Conference

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1966

OTTAWA (CP)—A Liberal conference constitution workshop approved a plan Monday to give national conventions tighter control over the tenure of the party leader and the development and conduct of policy.

The ideas were embodied in resolutions that will be put before the full national conference. They came from the Ontario Liberal party, but as constitutional changes, they need a two-thirds majority vote.

As Mark MacRae, chairman of the Ontario policy committee, put it: If the leader has done a good job, nobody will contest the leadership. If he hasn't, somebody will.

The leader would be in a similar position to an MP who must be re-elected in his constituency. He would be re-elected, but his tenure would be limited to two years. He would be re-elected, but his tenure would be limited to two years. He would be re-elected, but his tenure would be limited to two years.

The other workshop proposals called for the rank and file to lay down more policy in the national conventions. They called for the rank and file to lay down more policy in the national conventions. They called for the rank and file to lay down more policy in the national conventions.

The resolutions, which came out of an external affairs policy workshop that met in the afternoon, passed the full session with little debate. The convention also passed resolutions favoring increased federal aid to study into mental resources policy aimed at advancing the national interest and endorsing UN Secretary General U Thant's proposal for a general resolution on peace.

Western Liberals Get Free Trade Approval

OTTAWA (CP)—With a helping hand from two cabinet ministers, western free traders won the support of the Liberal policy conference here Monday for a plan to link Canada with the U.S. in a North American free-trade area.

The conference approved a resolution endorsing the free-trade area. The resolution, which came out of an external affairs policy workshop that met in the afternoon, passed the full session with little debate. The convention also passed resolutions favoring increased federal aid to study into mental resources policy aimed at advancing the national interest and endorsing UN Secretary General U Thant's proposal for a general resolution on peace.

Dr. Endicott
Blames U.S.
For Viet Nam

D. Endicott, a United Church missionary in China for 25 years and former adviser to Chiang Kai-shek, Sunday blamed the United States for the war in Viet Nam.

Speaking to about 200 people at a University of Toronto luncheon on China, Dr. Endicott said the U.S. has been unable and unable to give democratic or pseudo-democracy in the world.

He said the Viet Nam war was an extension of the 1949 Chinese civil war which had resulted from the U.S. government backing down from a 1944 agreement for a coalition government in China. He said the agreement for coalition could have prevented the establishment of Communist rule in China. He said the U.S. had been unable to give democratic or pseudo-democracy in the world.

RECREATIONAL SURVEY
Snow Campbellford's new recreation director took office in the early summer, he has pressed greater interest in sports in the town and district. Gerald Ferguson has requested a survey to find out the number of people interested in standing. Suggested courses are physical fitness, ice skating, skiing, etc. The 79-year-old man, who's former deputy, was the only prisoner in Berlin's Spang, he said.

Why should our son have a newspaper route?

"The living is good. Plenty of money, nice home, nice furnishings, another salary rise in sight; we've never had it so good. Why should our son manage a newspaper route?"

Most any educator or businessman will tell you that in three simple words he builds character.

Often times the youngster who grows up in comfortable circumstances and gets his weekly "handout" from Dad never realizes the value of money, management, responsibility and self-confidence are acquired at this early age, a newspaperboy has an advantage over other youngsters that no amount of money can buy.

If you're still wondering whether your son would benefit from newspaper route management, ask a community businessman or civic leader, or better still, our Circulation Department.

SAIGON (Reuters) — Police have captured a document showing the Viet Cong has ordered the assassination of visiting U.S. defense secretary Robert McNamara, police sources say.

This was one of the reasons for the unusually heavy security precautions taken to protect McNamara, the sources said.

In May, 1964, police arrested a Viet Cong who placed a mine under a bridge minutes before McNamara was to pass. The man was later convicted and executed by a firing squad.

SAIGON (CSP)—Regional jealousies flared in Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's cabinet today, threatening a split in the government just two weeks before Ky is to attend a summit conference at Manila.

Several ministers were reported to have resigned or on the verge of doing so.

The Associated Press said five civilian ministers, disgruntled at what they considered anti-southern manoeuvring by government leaders from northern provinces and North Viet Nam, sent a letter to the State of Ky. Nguyen Thien asked they were on the verge of resigning, before sources said.

The five—all from southern provinces—include Vice minister Nguyen Lam Vien and

THE WEATHER

Graphic: One more day of chilly westerly winds, changeable skies and the odd light shower can be expected. A weak high pressure cell will move across the upper lakes tonight bringing clear skies and light winds with it. Overnight temperatures will be very cold ranging from the 20s in the north to the 30s in the south. This will bring a killing frost to much of southern Ontario before warmer air moves in ahead of a weak depression moving below Lake Erie Thursday.

Informers sources said the military crisis appeared to emanate from a polarization to external forces. Political leverage on Ky since lead of the military junta want to present a solid front of stable government in Manilla.

The government is made up of the 30 military men in the junta and 30 civilian ministers.

The southern leaders, however, are not in the Viet Nam camp after the Communist take-over, and the southern leaders have a tradition of mutual assistance and distrust. Ky is one of those from North Viet Nam, and the southerners charge the northerners exert undue influence.

OTTAWA (CP) — A drastic proposal to KILL the patient and cure the ailment was tabled in the Commons Tuesday as an imperial economics consultant's answer to the Cape Breton coal industry problem.

The only solution to the problem, said 76-year-old Dr. J. B. McDonald, is to eliminate the industry over the next 15 years.

His report, commissioned a year ago, recommends two federal Crown corporations to implement the policy and ease its effects on the miners and mining communities.

WASHINGTON (AP).— General Electric Co. appeared headed today toward the biggest strike in its history in a showdown climaxing years of strained labor relations.

Residents Heartily Approve Door-to-Door Inspection

Most materials would keep at the chance of having a trained asbestos guide check their asbestos house free of charge. As expected, residents' reaction was a resounding approval.

The Belleville Fire Department is providing a similar service throughout the city, one area which is particularly important is the asbestos inspection, in the form of voluntary door-to-door inspections.

Since the program was initiated in June, city firemen have checked out 1,000 private homes. The program is being expanded to include the city's business district. The program can be taken to include the possibility of an outbreak of fire in their homes.

Conducted on a street-by-street basis, the inspection tour should eventually cover the entire city. But firsts do not only strike at the door.

As part of their annual Fire Prevention Week program, the fire department has been inspecting business premises in Belleville and has been welcomed as enthusiastically as by the residents.

Starting yesterday, members of the city fire department have been checking the heating and wiring installations of every type of business establishment, as well as examining such buildings for fire hazards as fire escape routes.

The firemen themselves make no recommendations for improvements. It is left to the business owner to decide what to do. The fire department, however, will be glad to provide information and suggestions of improvement to the business owner.

Housewives Protest

Ottawa is an attractive city and a pleasant place in which to live. The housewives and managers of our world are not, however, a quiet place as capital cities go.

Who would have supposed that Canada's relatively stable state of government would be the scene of a housewife's revolt? And yes, it is not true, that desperate situations require desperate measures—and where better than Ottawa to find a spirited and well-organized campaign of protest against food prices.

Inflation is rife in Canada, and it is disquieting to find this economic spiral affecting the very means of life for millions of Canadians with families to feed.

Not only food, but cloths as well. And the irony of this situation is that in September higher clothing prices robbed family budgets of the money to buy the first drop in food costs in 11 months.

The boycott of supermarkets in Ottawa is being led by housewives and others in communities throughout Eastern Canada. At government level, significantly, there is sympathy for the cause. Ministers of the Crown have been asked to take action.

Thus we have Agriculture Minister J. H. Green stating in a television interview that high prices are caused in part by two free people confining the sale of food in Canada.

"We manufacturers," he said, "control 75 per cent of the retail price of food. This is a very dangerous thing in a free economy."

It is too early yet to predict the outcome of the boycott of supermarkets. If it does succeed in bringing down prices of such vital commodities as milk and meat it will be all to the good.

Independence and self-reliance and balance can expect increased business.

The supermarkets may not go out of business but they may be forced to become an element of the North American economy. In any event the fault appears to lie not so much with the establishment as in the action they may take, which Agriculture Minister Green allowed.

There is a sort of police justice, though, in the respect of the corner store and the "little man" benefiting as a result of this lively demonstration of community concern.

The cost of living is a serious matter, and particularly where it relates to food costs.

Mr. Drury Speaks Up

Industry Minister Drury in the latest address to sound criticism on inflation, is doing as he answered charges of incoherence in controlling the wage and price spiral.

The Minister was speaking at the meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Edmonton when delegates criticized the government for not doing more to control inflation.

Mr. Drury said the government was giving more CIBC employees a 24 per cent wage increase over 30 months to head off a wage-price spiral.

Mr. Drury dismissed this bias by discussing inflation at the national level, rather than that of individual industries.

It is important to realize that productivity and wage increases in one industry cannot be taken in isolation and that they will, in fact, be affected by supply and demand conditions in the labor market as a whole.

"The labor market is not a series of walled-off compartments," he said in one section of his address elsewhere.

Of course, adjustments, as Mr. Drury terms them, have been taking place in the right direction, industry in these days of boom that are edging dangerously close to "bust."

The minister himself admits that a greater degree of consistency is necessary to keep industry within bounds, and the key word here is productivity. Wage and profit increases, he said, should be based on productivity.

There is a warning in his statement that productivity increase in productivity—about three per cent a year—and he warned no industry should count on big favors.

If this sounds like government control, "well, it is just that, but Mr. Drury's reasoning is that Canadians cannot continue to continue living in a lot-out-of-work of higher and higher incomes and costs unless productivity is maintained. But Ottawa's message is that it has not always done so. Mr. Drury was careful not to admit this.

Fewer Babies

Canada's birth rate is falling to about seven per cent per year, the lowest since 1960, says a study by Dr. Bellville.

Dr. Bellville told last week's seminar on "Major Medical Problems of the Future" that when he first came to the city, 1,530 babies were born at the general hospital. In 1965 the number had fallen to 1,250, a fall of almost 30 per cent in five years.

Attributing the decrease to use of birth control pills, Dr. Bellville said that the country needed more of population when he said that there was a "modern day in a modern society—but the young country uses it and the wrong people take it."

It is a point worth pondering.

"What's going in there?"

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate "What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Many readers have complained that mortgage lenders have become less tolerant to their outcries and complaints. There is a logical reason for this attitude. Most old mortgages are at interest rates considerably below today's market. Many lenders no longer find them profitable and would like to replace them with higher interest mortgages.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I don't tolerate mistakes or sloppiness from my husband or children, so why should I accept laxity from my bank? For years they have made mistakes in the tax and amortization amounts on the mortgage statement they send me and have made corrections. Lately, their attitude has changed. Last week a vice-president really frustrated me. He told me that since I seemed to be dissatisfied with the way they are handling my mortgage, he would appreciate it if I would call on him to meet with my attorney. He said, "I want to put up with that much indifference because no other bank in town appears willing to accept my six percent mortgage. It's intolerable when a woman has to put up with that type of insult."

ANSWER: You can continue to "wait" your husband and children, but your mortgage lender has apparently decided to accept no more suggestions on how to run his business. In today's market, any lender in a situation has no trouble placing the mortgage funds at high interest rates. Borrowers are being asked to pay more.

At six percent your mortgage is considerably below current market rates. The bank would have to lose you as a customer. The lender you are going to have to accept their way with a complaint, at least until the mortgage interest rates drop considerably.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We recently bought a two-apartment building for investment. An agent obtained two leases on one year leases and charged us $50 each. This we thought was fair. He also collected the rents and charging us 6 per cent. This we do not think is fair. Can we sue him for the rents from our building?

Another question: If the same tenant fulfills their lease, will we have to pay the agent a fee or commission? — Mr. L. L. ANSWER: All the questions asked are usually answered in the management or leasing agreement between the owner and the agent. However, the following is customary practice in most areas.

The usual agreement provides that the agent who secured the lease will collect rent for a stated commission. It varies depending on the type of property, size of property and area. If the agreement contains no clause authorizing the agent to collect the rent, then the owner is asked to collect the own rents. The typical management agreement also provides that when a tenant renews, the agent will receive an additional commission.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The front of my house faces north. As a result, the walk from the house will be covered with ice or snow for days after it has melted everywhere else. Since I must walk to a new walk, I would like to install electric wires in the concrete to melt the ice and snow provided it is not too expensive. I am sure many other readers have a similar problem. — Mr. T. O.

ANSWER: The cost of installing electric resistance wires in a few heating the walk is not too expensive. It's about $1.25 per square foot. This assumes that

Catholic Priest, Protestant Farmer Lift Madawaska Valley From Doldrums

OTTAWA (CP)—The drive and enthusiasm of a Roman Catholic priest and a Protestant farmer are lifting the Madawaska Valley of eastern Ontario out of the economic doldrums. About a year ago the valley—80 miles west of Thunder Bay—was known as "depressed" and was as much a "ghost of a town" as any Canadian area with economic problems. But the priest-farmer team plus the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act have changed the picture and given the 10,000 people in the area new hope. Statistics showed the valley, partly in Renfrew and Hastings Counties, was going downhill in population, value of produce and in hope. Then in early 1965 Rev. Eugene O'Connell met Bill Murray at a meeting in Barry's Bay. Father O'Connell was from Madawaska House Apostolate at Osheshera and Mr. Murray, a farmer at Turley Lake. Father O'Connell takes 8 hours a week in an article published in

The Community Planning Review, the magazine of the Community Planning Association of Canada. "From then on Bill did most of the talking—mostly about the great wealth of maple trees in the Madawaska Valley. He told me about the millions of gallons of maple sap going to waste every spring... about the great difficulties he was encountering in his efforts to persuade the farmers to stop cutting their maple trees for lumber and to start tapping them for syrup." Other meetings between the two men followed. Mr. Murray had written several agencies with the idea of establishing a maple producers' co-op. Herb Crown, ARDA director for Ontario, and the latter "written in a farmer's hand on a cheap piece of newspaper" and the Catholic priest and Protestant farmer were invited to Toronto. Father O'Connell agrees no praise of Mr. Crown—"Herb made me his pal" and was a vision, a broadness and strength—but his greatest tribute is that Mr. Crown did not give them one simple letter the "diplomatic brush-off."

With ARDA and the cooperative branch of the Ontario agriculture department helping, Mr. Murray organized his first co-op meeting in February, 1966, with 30 farmers present. Nothing happened. "The discussion went vague and the meeting collapsed," writes Father O'Connell. Next Mr. Crown asked Mr. Murray to find six valley threes to visit a thriving co-operative maple syrup project at Pleasantville, Ont. "That did it. Valley swappers moved behind the lines. More meetings were held and 23 farmers signed up. They were told by government statisticians the valley had more than 1,000,000 maple trees old enough to tap and a potential yearly production of 300,000 gallons of maple syrup valued at about $2,000,000. The priest and the farmer stopped on their visits to farms all over the valley, spreading the word and assessing further the area sap potential. By the end of August the co-op had 46 members, 35 of whom planned to start producing syrup "provided ARDA would grant the association $60,000 for the purchase of new equipment." It took eight weeks but back came the word: "ARDA is giving us the go-ahead."

B. C. Hitch-hiker's Poem of Praise of Rhodesia Is Autographed by Smith

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (AP) Canadian Peter Layher was sitting by the roadside at a bush town in Transvaal when several Africans passed by, treated him, and accused him of being a South African.

It riled Peter, 31, from Prince George, B.C., so he took out a pen and pad and started writing a poem in praise of Rhodesia's declaration of independence.

Now the poem is in the carter with him is the completed poem, personally autographed by Ian Smith, prime minister of Rhodesia.

Pete, meeting the end of a 15-month hitch-hiking odyssey that has taken him through Eastern and Western Europe and Africa, arrived in Rhodesia in August and took the poem to Smith's office in the capital, Salisbury.

"A friend suggested I take it to him and although I could not see him, his private secretary took it into his office and came out with Mr. Smith's signature at the bottom," said Blon-haird Pete.

A former lumberjack, Pete set out on his travels in April last year. Hoping to catch the trans-Atlantic train and continue to Japan and back to Canada, he spent a travel brochure on South Africa in London and diverted course.

He rates Rhodesia the finest country he has visited and is loaded with volume to show his admiration and respect for the "White's Witless" to the white folk back home.

Pete has traveled through just about every country in Europe, including Communist Hungary, Czechoslovakia and East Germany.

He worked for seven weeks at a sawmill in Sweden and saved enough money to cross to Africa through Spain and Gibraltar.

A grand tour of North Africa, including boat trips on the Nile, landed him in Sudan where he was forbidden to move through to the southern part of the country because of the violence of the civil war.

In Uganda he found work trapping monkeys which were shipped to experimental laboratories in Europe. Then he hitched to South Africa where he worked for six weeks on the state-owned railway.

Hefty fees took him north again to the second grandeur of Rhodesia's Victoria Falls and Barbra Streisand moving on to the Portuguese East African territory of Mozambique and to Malawi.

Pete now is thumbing south where he hopes to catch a ship for Montreal.

Pete has filed ideas on the countries he has been through. "The East Europeans, he claims, are just like the average Westerner, despite the rigors of the one-party state."

His views on Rhodesia are more pronounced. He made a plea for more Canadians to visit the country and see how peaceful it was compared with independent black African states.

"In Uganda I gave up the job of hunting monkeys because the people there were so primitive."

They went around with bows and arrows in Egypt, where I was working. It makes you wish for a bit of civilization."

Pete had no trouble taking through Rhodesia. A Motorist stopped every time they saw him holding a placard reading: "Canada to Rhodesia."

"They said they got few Canadians here and they all wanted to find out from me how Canada was reacting to their independence move," he said. "I for one told them I'm right behind them."

What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. And an easy one to answer. A&P sells only Canada's finest Red Brand Beef.

But that's not the whole story. This is important! A&P buys only Red Brand Beef that meets our high "Super-Right" Quality specifications. Some beef labeled Red Brand just isn't good enough to be called "Super-Right."

You see we're very fussy about the meat we label "Super-Right." If you haven't learned the true meaning of "Super-Right" Quality... try it. Let the taste be the test. After all, it doesn't matter what the label or grade is. It's the EAT in the MEAT that counts.

The EAT in the MEAT is unconditionally guaranteed in "Super-Right" Beef. Either you agree that the "Super-Right" Beef you buy is as flavourful, as tender as you think it should be or you get your money back.

Gold Mine Town Last To Survive

ALLEGHENY, Calif. (AP)—The nightfall is 10 to 15 miles, which the 19 years has supported this Sierra County town, soon will become only a memory of California's brewing gold mine era.

The facilities have been added to scrap iron dealers, including the shoe, mill and machinery, which cling precariously on steep slopes above Eureka Creek, named for Italian who jumped ship in San Francisco to pass gold from the creek to sea.

Historians have said Allegheny is the last California town with an economy based principally on mining. It once employed as many as 200 workers in its mines.

U.S. Plans to Increase Crop Acreage; Move to Raise Cheese Imports Stalls

WASHINGTON (CP)—The producers' peak of 300,000,000 acres, compared with the all-time peak of 380,000,000 acres in the year of 1944.

The decision was not being taken lightly — or unanimously — by the government.

A reserve of more than 100,000 acres — double Canada's record of 50,000 acres — may be held in 1947.

Producers of two separate crops have authorized an extra 30,000 acres for the wheat crop to be harvested next spring and fall.

John Schickler, agriculture undersecretary, said he is speechless that the department now must plan as much as 30 months ahead. He forecast a return to production of 50 to 60 per cent in 1944.

Grid Boss Calls Signals For Pucksters

By JIM CREER

TORONTO (CP)—Alan Eagleson is president of Toronto's Office of the Continental Football League, a position unlikely to find him calling any signals for hockey players.

Eagleson, a basketball 32-year-old lawyer, advises about 75 hockey players on contract negotiations, taxes, education and their careers.

His clients include Terry Sawchuk, Eddie Shack and Marcel Pronovost of Toronto Maple Leafs; Bobby Norris of New York Rangers; Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins; and Carl Brewer, former defenceman with the Leafs.

Eagleson is reluctant to name his other customers because he prefers not to let club owners know which players are getting legal coaching in contract talks.

Not his clients are 30 NHL players, 18 from the American Hockey League, six from the Central Professional League, about 20 from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series and four more juniors from Western Canada.

He's the lawyer for the Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and the Central Amateur Football Association, currently involved in a legal dispute with Lord Pentworth of Toronto.

Eagleson is a trainer and coach, and is selling after being accused of giving drugs to athletes.

Eagleson also advises two players in the Canadian Football League.

Helping athletes solve their legal problems is a common-sense job for most of Eagleson's working day except at contract time, when he spends most of his time at the negotiating table.

After hours there are the Bruins and Eagleson's political career. He's a progressive member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto.

He spends much time in left with his wife, his son, and his daughter.

Much of the advice Eagleson

HOCKEY LAWYER OWNS FOOTBALL TEAM—Alan Eagleson, president of Toronto's Office of the Continental Football League, calls the salary signals for about 30 National Hockey League players. But he's reluctant to name his customers because he prefers not to let club owners know which players are getting legal coaching in contract talks. gives hockey players concerns education.

"Sometimes I even have to discourage a player from continuing in hockey if it's obvious his career is limited," he said. "In that case, I usually advise him to consider his education."

Eagleson doesn't subscribe to the theory that heavy-lift hockey athletes keep youngsters from their studies.

"High school and junior hockey isn't very well," he said. "But school is a boy's main professional and has to be done."

Eagleson hopes Orr is an education, however.

The 39-year-old native of Parry Sound, Ont., who signed with Boston for an undisclosed amount reported as high as $20,000 over two seasons, plans to complete grade 12 by correspondence.

BRUNS PAY

"Or getting help from a high school principal in Ontario," said Eagleson. "The Bruins are paying for his tuition. It was part of the contract."

Eagleson, born in Port Dalhousie, Ont., and raised there, is French, Ont., and Toronto, played hockey, seven and last four years playing for the Bruins.

"Through lawyers, he got to know Bobby Orr of the Leafs."

"It was about 300, and we started an investment group with Billy Harris and Bobby Burns. Through them, I met other players and soon they were asking me for advice, at first on a friendly basis. But when I started to give legal advice on contract matters, it became strictly business."

"Three years ago, we approached the NHL on behalf of a group of players who wanted to sign their contracts as incorporated companies for tax purposes. Ultimately, the NHL government turned the request down because they felt it wasn't feasible."

But Eagleson has other ways to take the sting out of the tax bite.

"For example, if a player has a two-year contract at $20,000 a year, he's better off if the contract calls for $10,000 a year spread over four years."

Which brings up the question — would Harry Sidans, NHL coach, have loved Sidans the defenceman?

"I don't like to say 'I probably wouldn't have been able to handle him'."

Temer: Detroit Red Wings.

It looks like Orr could be the type of player.

Boston's style in past years hasn't been set up to keep people acting as hard as they should, Sidans says.

"I wouldn't say they're as adept at head-managing the puck and staying to get it back as we should be. Otherwise, they're not shooting enough."

Centre and left wing are still critical spots for Boston. Bruins will be looking closely at centre Ben Schob who spent much of last season in San Francisco.

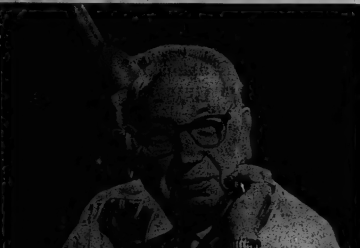

On the left, Bruins will be depending heavily on Ron Murphy, 25, making a comeback after getting the same injury last year.

The most productive line is that of Steve Stewart, Murray and Johnny Bower, a unit that came on strongly toward the end of last season.

In goal, it's a choice among Bernie Parent, Ed Johnston and Gerry Cheevers.

On the bench, the Bruins have a coach who wants to prove he belongs in the NHL and who doesn't want to make the mistake of overloading any

PARSONS WINNING FOR BETTER BALANCE

The obvious way to solve the problem of balance on the feet is to get your feet together, as I can show in the illustrations. This will force you to swing slowly and smoothly through your landing. You can see the force of your swing as you progress through this drill, but never get to the foot your legs are in. After such a drill you can step up to the first jump with the muscles loose and your reflexes attuned to a smoothly landing swing.

Trout Hatchery Handles Million Eggs in Yearly "Spawn"

BUTTON, Ont. (CP) — One million trout eggs as red as salmon carlin hatch and grow into 200 young trout each year at William Vanha's hatchery in the area 60 miles northeast of Montreal.

Trout Vanha's hatchery, which reach many a gourmet's table or are stocked in rivers and in several and artificial lakes for sport fishing.

Vanha, a native of Czechoslovakia who came to Canada 17 years ago, has been operating the hatchery for also years. "My grandfather had a hatchery in Czechoslovakia and that got me interested in the industry."

Vanha gets his trout eggs from the state of Washington early in the year. Upon arrival at his hatchery, the eggs are carefully placed on disinfected rectangular trays.

The eggs are then deposited in a long tank through which oxygen water runs constantly, imitating the best conditions of nature. The water is kept at a constant 50°-52° degree temperature.

Two days later, the eggs have been absorbed and Vanha teaches the technique the same for them at this stage — to eat. They are fed a scoop of ground liver and must be fed every hour.

Although relatively unknown in Quebec, the restaurant is the pride of Western Canadian and American fishermen. Vanha says: "What hooked it will jump out of the water like a salmon."

Young Canadians' Goal Not Defined

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Young Canadians' goal is not to be a political party, but to be a political force, says a Communist organizer, Geoff Cox.

"It is a group of young people, not a Canadian-style party," Cox says.

"These are all common political ideas," Mr. Cox said in an interview.

"Our object is to discover and help develop the resources of the community we work in all the same time making an effort to avoid becoming resources ourselves," says CYC chairman Ed Brodhead.

When Prime Minister Pearson announced formation of the company in 1965, the announced plan was to initiate a government-owned head of young people to work in areas where their help had been requested.

But in Canada, and later, mostly abroad.

"The word 'in areas where their help had been requested' is really important to the operation of the CYC, its no leaders say.

"We don't go anywhere without the approval of the community we plan to work in and a formal invitation from them," one young company volunteer said.

"This unaggressive approach is what is new to our work."

HELPS IN VILLAGE

Mr. Brodhead, a 25-year-old former McGill University student, has spent the last two months at a small village near the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

"Getting out of Alert Bay helped give me a better perspective of my job—that I've done so far and what I should do when I return," the young volunteer said during a visit here.

He lives with an Indian family in one of Alert Bay.

Edna Kung, a 27-year-old native of Hong Kong who studied at University of Manitoba, lives with a white family at the other end of town.

"We feel this is a good system. Alert Bay is built around it and we work with it," Mr. Brodhead said.

Miss Kung, who speaks and writes in both languages, works primarily with women and young children of Alert Bay.

"I help at, iron clothes, wash dishes, run a recreational program for the children and am involved in various women's groups in the town," she said.

Mr. Brodhead said his duties in the last eight weeks have included serving as a house-maintenance officer and parole officer as well as housekeeper, dance organization and social welfare work.

"We like to have a finger in as many places in the community as possible," he said.

"But we have to be careful not to avoid becoming a real part of the community."

"People were beginning to get used to us. But there's still a fair amount of skepticism about our work because people can't seem to comprehend that we don't have anything to sell—we want to help and serve the community wherever and whenever we are able."

"Here and there in Alert Bay to discover if possible the community's resources and to help develop them. We can't become resource ourselves as that people will say when we leave."

"We, they're gone now and we've shown two teachers, or whatever."

"We want to be expendable, not useful."

Rain Halts Plowing Contest

SEAPOURTH, Ont. (CP)—Major competitions at the opening day of the third International plowing match here were postponed Tuesday because of severe weather conditions.

Officials said the match would be extended to Saturday.

MASS FUNERAL — Thousands attended a mass funeral for the 19 young victims of bus-train collision in Dorion, Que., 15 miles west of Montreal.

Service Held in School For 19 Bus-Train Victims

DORION, Que. (CP) — Thousands of people trudged through mud and driving rain Tuesday to attend a mass funeral for the 19 victims of Friday night's level crossing tragedy at Dorion, just west of Montreal.

They converged on the Cite des Jeunes, the technical school west of the town had intended.

The victims were aboard a bus struck head-on by a CN freight on the crossing. Killed were the driver of the bus and 19 teenagers bound for a dance.

Mon. Rev. Gerald Coad, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Vancouver, B.C., told grieving parents and relatives "there was never a death so unexpected."

More than 1,000 mourners filled the gymnasium where the service was held.

Many families to which the students belonged.

Corporals while many stood outside.

Members after the service started, a woman collapsed and was carried out. During the 30 minutes that followed, 10 other persons had to be helped from the auditorium and down the stairs.

In the wide center aisle, the 19 victims stood in a row leading to the altar.

After the front of the hall sat relatives and dignitaries, including Rev. John Cardinal Leger, C.N. President Pauline Leger, Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, Quebec cabinet minister Marcel Massé, representing Premier Daniel Johnson, and Paul Geste-Labon, Liberal M.L.A. for Vancouver-Southeast riding which encompasses the Dorion area.

Burial took place later in the afternoon at cemeteries of the families to which the students belonged.

Must Seat Communist China in UN Before End to War, Ronning Says

By DON HARVEY

EDMONTON (CP)—A Canadian spokesman in a Southern Asia affairs said Thursday night Communist China must be seated in the United Nations if there is to be a truce in the Chinese war in Viet Nam.

Delivering a lecture in a rooming house in the University of Alberta's first president, Chester Ronning, said that, "if we do not seat China in the United Nations, we are not taking too seriously what we talk about regarding Communist China. Could it be that our good intentions are being put to the test by the Chinese?"

"We should not let too much time go by without either the Chinese or the Americans if by now they have concluded that we are not taking too seriously what we talk about regarding Communist China. Could it be that our good intentions are being put to the test by the Chinese?"

Again he was applauded when he recalled that as Canadian chargé d'affaires in Hanoi, he had urged the Canadian government in 1960 to recognize the new regime.

"For Canada the question is no longer should China be seated, but whether it is the UN, but only when, in any opinion, if we do not realize that this is a real possibility for Canada to make a modest beginning to reverse the present dangerous trend in the United Nations," he said.

"Quiet diplomacy is in high places . . . it is still the most effective way of settling disputes . . . it is a time when a responsible government must be most effective when it uses quiet diplomacy to deal with foreign government officials."

In considering the future of Viet Nam, Ronning said, "there is a real possibility for Canada to make a modest beginning to reverse the present dangerous trend in the United Nations," he said.

"The only logical alternative to continuing the war if China comes involved 'would be' to seal the ground war . . . by the use of nuclear weapons," he said.

Canada's trade relations with Nam, there may now be no opportunity even to decide whether," Mr. Ronning, who before he served as Canadian press secretary in Hanoi and Saigon, said "it is our relations with the U.S. which give us good reason for the most cautious in reaction."

Canada and the U.S. share the same concern, yet "it is the attitude of the U.S. which constitutes our most serious difficulty."

Mr. Ronning, who was born in China in 1904 of missionary parents, said that "it and when Chinese became involved in the Viet Nam war 'it is too late' to discuss UN or Canadian recognition."

Based on her experience in helping to end the Korean conflict and on what she has already done to open a channel to North Viet Nam, "there is a real possibility for Canada to make a modest beginning to reverse the present dangerous trend in the United Nations," he said.

There are no Canadian journalists in North Viet Nam. The U.S. State Department of the Viet Nam war is from The Associated Press, the Singapore U.S. news agency, and Reuters, the British news agency.

Announced from Saigon that western correspondents are not to be sent to the south of the country of information about the war provided by U.S. officials at the front.

U.S. reports of the war are and is propaganda to justify or support U.S. policies while coverage of the North Vietnamese viewpoint is virtually nonexistent because of restrictions placed on movements of correspondents to have any trouble getting into Hanoi but once there is no way of getting out and is reported to see and report."

Thomas Adams, general news editor of The Canadian Press, returned recently from his week's reporting in South Viet Nam. While he was there, he said application to Hanoi for a permit to return to the North Viet Nam had received no acknowledgment.

Previous applications on behalf of CP were made by Moscow and London without result.

Managed News Precludes Objective War Reports

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian correspondents in Viet Nam are doing a remarkable job of trying to present an accurate account of the war, said Ambassador-Designate Chester B. Ronning.

However, much of the news reported by South Vietnamese correspondents is distorted, mainly because they can't look at the war objectively, he said in an interview Thursday.

Guitars Replace Society Balls In Once Elite Dupont Circle

By KELLY SMITH
WASHINGTON (AP) — On Embassy Row, near fashionable shops and exclusive clubs, the third- and fourth-story houses and delivery vans last Wednesday night were the scene of a social gathering.

Here, in Washington's old red-brick row, the scene of a social gathering was the scene of a social gathering.

There are a few who still live in the old houses, but many have moved to the suburbs. The houses are now used for a variety of purposes, including as a meeting place for the city's elite.

Millions of Cash Stolen from

Heath Wins Tory Hearts By Oratory

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) — Having reassured party leader Edward Heath of their support, 4,000 delegates to the Conservative party annual conference turn today to specific issues that confront them in opposition to the governing Labor party.

The ecstatic reception Heath got Wednesday for his speech to the opening session of the conference came at an opportune time.

A few hours after delegates had given him a standing ovation, Heath was confronted with a pair of opinion polls that showed the party's popularity had slumped again.

The Tories had said sharp gains over Labor when the first effects of Prime Minister Wilton's income and services taxes began to show up in rising unemployment figures. But since last week's party leader in Brighton, Labor has recovered.

A poll published by The Daily Telegraph shows Labor with a 50-per-cent margin over the Conservatives while another in The Daily Mail puts Labor's lead at nearly 30 per cent. A week ago, the Tories led Labor by 20 per cent in The Telegraph and by 10 per cent in The Daily Mail.

This new reaction despite unemployment has been developed at a defense ministry election research laboratory and will be tested to see whether it is more effective than a reply in treatment of many forms of cancer.

The laboratory is said to have a world lead in the field of research. The cancer research project called, James Wood, told reporters at the laboratory:

"We cannot say definitely whether it will be a cure yet, but it looks like a 50-50 bet. It will take about three years to develop a neutron generator like with the high power source that is required."

FIRST CALL with 30-40

The first - wing press reported ecstatic, "Heath floors his critics," The Daily Telegraph said. "Heath renounces Tory policy," proclaimed another conference speech. Said The Daily Telegraph:

"The pro-Labor Guardian report said Heath now is 'inspired' for the time being as leader," calling his speech a "wonder."

An inventor has produced a device which speaks when it is lost. At present the gadget does that.

15 Mailbags Are Taken At Airport

MONTREAL (CP) — A province-wide manhunt was underway as police of four forces sought thieves who stole $1,000,000 in cash from the mailroom at Montreal International Airport early this morning.

Police squads raced to a north-end Montreal building nine miles due east of the airport on a tip that some of the mailbags had been found. They said later they had found only one cloth mailbag which did not seem to be connected with the robbery.

The police, from the RCMP, Montreal city and northern Dorval forces, found the bag at the rear of a house on St. Lawrence Blvd. Provincial police sent out a provincial-wide alert but said no description of the daring robbers was immediately available.

The robbery occurred in the airport's mailroom when thieves slashed their way through a heavy wire mesh to steal 15 bags believed to contain bills in various denominations.

RCMP and post office investigators and Dorval police set up roadblocks and were searching all cars leaving the airport.

Post office officials said the amount of the loss probably was "considerable" but an exact accounting could not be made until the contents of all the mailbags were tallied from the banks who had sent them through the post.

Police said that the post office mailbags were taken from the airport's mailroom when thieves slashed their way through a heavy wire mesh to steal 15 bags believed to contain bills in various denominations.

The September unemployment figures of 30,000 was 20,000 higher than the number of unemployed in September last year. Most of this increase was among workers 30 to 34 years of age.

THE WEATHER
Forecast: A weak low pressure centre will bring showers to most of southern Ontario today. At the same time this may cause a marked moderation in temperatures inland. This low is the forerunner of what is likely to be a well-developed storm. The main clouds are some widespread rain clouds over the Superior Provinces and a cold front at showers in southern Ontario.

Budding Consumer Rebellion Against Food Prices Spreads Across United States, Canada

By BALLY RYAN

NEW YORK (AP)—A grain supermarket price war is being fought in Chicago, supermarket chains are slashing prices in Portland, Ore., and the price of bread has fallen in Phoenix, Ariz.

Housewives have engineered a budding consumer rebellion against food prices, and it is spreading across the United States and Canada.

In Denver, housewives' Lower Food Prices campaign has 200 members, but scheduled a boycott of five major chain stores, starting Monday.

The women say they won't buy anything at target stores from produce to meat and cheese to soap.

"We don't like to feel we're being taken to the cleaners and we're tired of hearing about more rich, terrible middle class who's causing prices to go up," said Mrs. Jay S. Thompson, a spokeswoman for the group.

RAN SIN EIGHTY-SEVEN

In Washington, W.Va., the Committee for Stable Food Prices, headed by WILLIAM E. Brad III, has collected 1700 signatures on petitions calling for a federal investigation of food prices. They will be mailed to U.S. Senator Robert C. Byrd (Dn., W.Va.) this week.

Housewives Fight for Lower Prices, one of five groups in Phoenix, has dispatched leaders to the U.S. department of agriculture and to congressmen trying such an investigation.

This Phoenix organization has conducted a month-long boycott of bread and other staples, and seen bread prices fall to 12 cents a loaf from the former 15 to 16 cents per slice.

They met last week with Mrs. Esther Petersen, President of Idaho's lowest-cost food campaign, to discuss a boycott of five major chain stores, starting Monday.

One anonymous letter writer accused her of deserting her house and family.

"The said I was deserting my children of food so I could smoke and drink beer."

She gets a hate letter "saying to be honest the Jews had no idea there were people who wrote that kind of thing."

The boycott got a promise of further action. "Wednesday when Local 110 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Truckers, Transport and General Workers Union announced it was joining labor's fight."

Ann Landers

Must Be Firm With Borrowing Neighbors

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you've gone over this territory before, but it's such a common problem—and such an exasperating one—I hope you will say it one more time.

Please tell neighbors not to ask to borrow things. I'm not talking about a cup of sugar or an instant. I mean garden and school and electrical appliances.

This summer our lawn sweeper has been in every corner in the neighborhood—and we have. We finally traced it to a neighbor two blocks away who is sure he found it in his driveway corner.

Yesterday my hair dryer was returned—broken. The borrower said "it didn't work so I brought it back." He worked it on my house before he borrowed it—so I

Please tell them more, Ann: If you don't own it, buy it. If you can't afford to buy it, rent it. If you can't rent it, forget it. —MORFITT

DEAR HOPEFUL: Don't expect miracles to flow from your good letter. The guilty owner never recognizes them.

The only solution for you and others who are imposed on in this manner is to be firm; I'm sorry. —ANN

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I married into the married family on the face of the earth. What they consider a practical joke people in their right minds regard as extremely rude.

We have a family party up north where the whole collection of folks appear during the summer.

These have been a habit of waking me another up at night and all hours — by surprise — week I had a dollar for every time one of those clowns knocked me out of a hammock, topped me out of a chair, or threw a chair on me because I was not sleeping on the couch. If the person who is jarred out of a sound sleep doesn't laugh it off he is considered an odd ball with no sense of humor.

The whole family reads your column religiously. Please say something about these lunatics. —JOE

DEAR JOE: The world's kind. And you can forget about trying to persuade them to lay off. These types are incurable. My advice is to camp in bed. And be sure the door is locked. —ANN

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I married a divorced man. He has three children by his first wife and we have three children.

The problem is that when his three children come to visit (twice a year) my husband buys them "belle presents," "goodie presents" and showers them with attention.

Our own children resent this and I do, too. Don't you think a divorced man should do everything in his power to make his second family feel sure of his complete devotion. What can I do to make him understand that? —R.R.R.

DEAR R.R.R.: He's natural for a mother to be primarily interested in her own three children, but I can tell you right now you're better change your attitude because your husband is not going to change his mind.

I have a husband's playing with guilt for leaving his first set of kids and he's trying his best to make it up to them (twice a year, p. 111). Let him alone. He's having a rough time.

Pirate Radio Latest Weapon Used By Scottish Nationalists

GLASGOW (UPI)—Scottish nationalists, with renewed urgency to strike a blow for freedom from British domination.

The Scottish National party, which has made little headway since the last British election when it was founded in 1934, has launched a major advertising campaign to strengthen its demands for political independence from England.

The methods have changed since William Wallace, the hero of the story of the Scottish hero who led the fight against the English at Bannockburn in 1314 and Robert the Bruce at the Battle of Bannockburn in 1314. The modern nationalists hope to pipe in Scotland with a series of spot advertisements broadcast by a pirate radio. Wallace would not stir from the glass-and-steel spot by mail to Glasgow for a party card. The party would be the last of the three.

Relationship in the First of October, one of 10 such operations violating state control of broadcasting around British coasts.

LETTER TALK ON BBC

Party Secretary Gordon Wilson announced the personal campaign the day the British government began its promised crackdown on the pirates with court action against one of the English stations. But the nationalists expect to complete their promised referendum action over the next few months.

The party has been driven to the radio airwaves, Wilson says, by the fact that the London Government who advocate union for party political broadcasts on the BBC have limited the nationalists to a "five-minute" slot every week on radio and television. The allocation was based on the 1960 vote the party polled in the 1960 general election. It has been maintained through the nationalists' vote in the election last March 31, Wilson says. The current membership drive, in which the party is opening new branches from the River Tyne in John O'Grady, has been encouraged by the electoral breakthrough of former Celtic nationalist in a by-election in Wales July 6. The Welsh Nationalists won their first seat in Parliament when Gwynfor Evans, president of Ffwd Gwyn, defeated Labour in Carmarthen.

NATIONALISTS UNITE

Celtic nationalists in Scotland, Wales, Brittany and Ireland make common cause in the Celtic League, which petitioned the United Nations last year on behalf of home-rule for the island of Ireland. Dr. Robert McIntyre, president of the Scottish nationalists and a vice-president of the Celtic League, is the only member of his party ever elected to the House of Commons and he stayed only briefly. His was a 1960 by-election in Manchester, Lancashire, but the general election three months later.

Further, the party claims a vote-carrying membership of more than 25,000 voters in the Liberal party, which holds the Scottish seat.

"Our target is 50,000 by next year," says Glasgow party agent Alexander Macdonald. "We will exceed the Labour party's paid-up membership of 30,000." Labour, which has additional support through trade union affiliations, holds the Scottish seat in 1966 for the Conservatives.

"The union will give us the breakthrough needed for the people to say the Scottish nation can do it," Macdonald says.

Doing it means winning elections and, ultimately, reversing the Act of Union of 1707, reviving the Scottish Parliament and restoring the spirit of the Treaty of York of 1237, which proclaimed: "Scotland, according to its ancient bounds . . . should remain to Robert, King of Scots, and his heirs free and divided from England, without any subjection, service, claim or demand whatsoever."

Do Not Allow Children to Play With Matches Say Firefighters

More than 3,500 children died in fires in Canada during the last 10 years. Many of these deaths stemmed from such apparently innocuous origins as the simple picture book.

A few matches left on the dining room coffee table for playing firecrackers, the attraction of match - colored Christmas tree lights, or the fascination of a straw burner - all of these situations may lead to frightening consequences.

It is easy to say that children can't be watched constantly, but is equally a truism that children can't play with potentially dangerous items unless they are given some access to them.

Parents and even babysitters beware! That "fire" picture book you step out to the next door neighbor for a coffee could be most regrettable. And you could be breaking the law!

The Criminal Code of Canada stipulates that any parent or guardian who "exposes a child under the age of ten years so that his life is or is likely to be endangered, or his health is or is likely to be permanently injured, is guilty of an indictable offence and is liable to imprisonment for two years."

Parents have a duty, not only to themselves and their families, but to their community as well, to see that their children are "properly cared for."

A popular Fire Prevention Week slogan is "Don't Give Fire A Place To Start." Your children might be there.

DANGER! CHILD AT PLAY!

Handicapped Taught to Talk At Unusual Music Institute

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A grand piano, a saxophone and a Kansas wheat and, a few minutes later, a few hundred handicapped children howl to talk-songs for the first time in their lives.

Consider this — year after year, the Institute of Logopedics here, in Wichita, Kan., had withdrawn into himself and lived in his own secret world.

Robert Rattigan, an institute director, thought perhaps music could reach through to Timmy's world.

He used the boy beside a grand piano, opened the top, and plucked out simple scales on the strings. Almost immediately, Timmy's face brightened, and he tried to crawl up the strange boy of sound.

Within months, Timmy and his teacher were playing simple duets on the xylophone, and Timmy had embarked on what will be likely a year-long path way to speech.

The late Dr. Martin P. Palmer who founded the institute 32 years ago explained it this way: The part of the brain that responds to music is touched away in a well-protected area and has a separate blood supply from that of the rest of the brain. Thus, an accident that blocks blood and damages part of the brain might leave the music receptor untouched.

MUSIC A KEY

Sometimes an accident may "split" the brain's ability to speak and sometimes music can be the key to reaching the brain again.

Located on 84½ acres of a Kansas wheat field, the institute's 11 buildings have seen the passage of 150 handicapped persons through its halls, victims of cerebral palsy, epilepsy, distemper, and dozens of speech problems. It is open to anyone in need.

The institute has a student body of some 100 on campus, and 100 more in 36 field centers in the state. Last year it "graduated" three persons a day from its programs, and back to the staff of 300 at the institute, music has been a valuable tool.

Logopedists may find a rhythm to the uncontrolled shaking motions of some handicapped children. Perhaps the child will be furnished a drum to beat on. The instructor to beat on. The instructor to beat on a piano.

When in such beats on a piano, hear off."

Students Wild Trays to Keep Cafeteria Going

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — University students wilded trays and dish cloths Wednesday to keep the cafeteria going after the alerting and maintenance employees of the University of Windsor went on strike in the morning.

The strikers, members of Local 100 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, formed a picket line at all entrances to the campus when the first cafeteria employees arrived for work. They were joined at midday by faculty, male and maintenance workers.

The strikers said they are protesting delays in arriving at a settlement of the local's contract with the university. The local was certified last May after negotiations have been held since then.

A student, helping the cafeteria kitchen, said many students planned to help keep the cafeteria going. "Many students who are resident campus feel the cafeteria is part of their house," he said. "They had want to keep it, no."

Inflation Avoidable

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should not have to endure inflation in times of high employment, Governor Louis Rasmussen of the Bank of Canada said Thursday.

In history those conditions have always gone hand in hand, but that shouldn't be necessary, he told the Senate-Commons committee on living costs.

He believed policies and programs can be found for "learning to live with prosperity."

Police said the 1960 car was found behind the airport in suburban Dorval following the burglary of the Dorval Airport.

All but one of the four people who were on a break at the airport's post office building when there broke into a safety cage used to store registered mail overnight.

Knowles Makes Plea For Medicare Revolt

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democratic Party leader James Duggan Thursday made a plea for a "revolt" by voters, by attacking a plan to introduce a new Medicare bill.

Duggan said the plan would force people to pay more for health care, and that it would be a "revolt" by voters to oppose it.

They are members of the local Kiwanis Club and other workers with a soft spot in their hearts for underprivileged children.

This year's toy repair program was started about a week ago using a bank of toys from the Belleville Division Office.

Applies with interested or repairable toys are sent to them or of their nearest child service station, at either Ottawa or at the Kiwanis Center.

With a few extra hands to help repair the toys, anyone willing to offer their time is asked to get in touch with Kiwanis Don Phillips.

Indian Sari Tops All For Exotic Formal Wear

What women haven't dreamed of the ideal, all-purpose gown — graceful, comfortable, flattering in all figures, suitable in style, perfect for gala events all year long.

Millions of Indian women wear just such a dress every day. Thousands of years ago they dreamed the present-day sari. "That I have a thing to wear," by inventing the sari.

During the past decade Parisian and New York women adopted the sari for evening wear and Indian women living in India have brought the exotic look to the city. One of them, Mrs. K. Nair, wife of a scientist at the Research Institute, agreed to share the secret of the sari with Intelligencer readers using Mrs. Beverly Lewis as a model.

Story by Louisa Williamson.
Pictures by Emily Chambers.

The sari, Mrs. Nair explains, is a six yard long strip of fabric with a narrow decorative border along the outside edges and a wide border called the "pallu" across the wide-shoulder end. The width varies from 48 inches for adult women to 48 inches for those over five-foot six. The ends are finished with a wide, flowing or tasseled.

Materials range from cotton, through silk, to the most different festive saris, woven with red, gold or silver threads. An Indian woman spends $1 for the cheapest cotton sari, $20 to $30 for an everyday silk, and $200 to $300 for her festive wedding sari. The working girls own about 25 saris and married women, each of which gives five years wear.

The detachable Kandarpur saris were by both Mrs. Nair and Mrs. Lewis. The pictures on these pages are cast resistant and machine-washable. "As high-quality but less pernickety to care for as the famous saris," Mrs. Nair says.

The blouse matches (over contrast) with the body color of the sari. Fastened with a snap button, it is edged with beads and loops at the front, fitted sleevelets, it comes to the bottom of the sari case, leaving a two-inch gap at the midriff. It may be sleeveless, or have set-in sleeves which go up or down in length according to the dictates of fashion, as do western women's blouses.

A long, six-gauge petticoat with drawstring waist is essential for all wear. The sari is anchored in place by tucking it under the petticoat.

Big evening coming? For a new kind of formal elegance open yourself up with all yards of material and subject Mrs. Nair's instructions for sari draping.

The sari shown in these pictures is one of Mrs. Nair's two wedding saris — a soft apple green color with design, borders and pallu woven with silver thread.

The opposite end, or pallu is scooped behind to the four-inch side and the sari is twisted around to the starting point at the right side, and diagonally up and across the bodice, to the left shoulder.

The pallu is placed temporarily over the left shoulder and over the right shoulder. The excess there is pulled under the back waist, then, pleated into a series of four folds and tucked under the drawing.

Finally the pallu is re-pleated at the shoulder and the diagonal folds are arranged across the front to accent the best feature of the figure. This version is the common style worn throughout India.

At the lower left is a sari variation known to Gujarati, near Bombay. The pallu is brought over the right shoulder and the left corner is tucked in at the back.

And that, according to Mrs. Nair, wraps the subject up.

Farmers Support Food War

ST. MARV, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Farmers' Union is concerned that consumers are being "grossly over-charged" for some food commodities, Walter Miller, OPU's second vice-president said Thursday night.

He said the OPU can't actively support the producers in their war against food prices, but "we're available to speak at any meeting of public opinion."

"It's pleased that there is this spirit," he told about 50 farmers at an OPU organization meeting in St. Mary.

Mrs. Miller said there is "something very drastically wrong" when consumers have to pay $1.50 for a pound of butter when the producer gets only 25 to 30 cents a pound.

WEALAND (CP)—More than 20 women, planning a meeting Thursday night to protest high food prices, voted to boycott chain markets until prices have been lowered.

The women also decided to call a public meeting Oct. 22 to urge city council, parliament and federal representatives and members of political parties to discuss the matter.

More Women Now Working In States

NEW YORK (AP)—More women are working in the United States today than ever before—more even than in 1936, when Rosie the Riveter produced wartime, scarce and abundance.

The percentage of women who work has been moving up gradually, from 31 per cent of working-age women in 1937 to more than 38 per cent now. The trend lately has been pronounced.

In the last year more women than men were added to the civilian work force—a total of 1,000,000, compared with 1,000,000 men aged 20 or more.

That is what is reflected in changes in the nature of many jobs from factory to office, from blue collar to white. Perhaps it would be better to call them Miss Jones rather than Mrs. Jones.

The scarcity of employable men, with few forest industries to look more aggressively for women workers.

The paucity and laws of equal opportunity, which have discrimination because of race, religion or sex.

More education for women, greater ability and the desire to utilize them after the children are in school, or to pay for the education of the children. More than half the women in their 20s and 30s are employed.

—disposable hours. The lack of agencies that facilitate part-time workers in industry has permitted many women to choose their hours. Part-time teachers and nurses are in demand.

—More efficient homes, where cupboards and cupboards and leaves are powered, where slaves are controlled from inside, where heaters stock food for months ahead, where rednecks are scientific.

—The full-month control.

—The full-month control. The armed forces have shipped more than 480,000 two-year or working-age men from the potential civilian employment pool in the last year.

IMPROVED CHANCES

A study by the First National City Bank of New York shows some of these factors also have improved work chances of women.

The increase in labor pool is a big one too, expected to grow by 200,000 this year. Although the history has been, especially in the past year, women are opportunity fortunate now.

Industry is willing—or forced—to hire in them. Training for women are more common than ever before. Outside education at company expense is growing.

Another factor that could increase women to go back to work is inflation. Unemployment of 14 per cent has been aware of the sharp rise in the price of food and services.

Charities' efforts such as inflation cannot, however, account for a long-term trend that shows women leaving the home in the morning and returning in the evening—routine once thought rarely made.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

The pleasant hunting at the lower Trent Valley Park and Game Club opening last week and continues this weekend and throughout the season. Hunting for these birds is tough if you do not have a dog. They stay put and you can walk right by them. The country is rough and hilly, with a few open fields surrounding the area. Lots of brush, prickly ash and juniper bush, plenty of good cover, a pretty fair spot for these birds. The birds themselves are young and not in full plumage. They make a tasty meal. The club must be congratulated on a good effort, on behalf of hunters in the Quinte area.

A few fall ducks are showing up in the lake around Presquidville Park and in Pleasant Bay, but to date very few are the Bay of Quinte. Reports of geese, canvas backs, and mallards have been coming in all week, but I guess I'll wait for a week or so before starting to hunt in earnest.

A few Canada geese are coming down this way again this year but not in the quantities we saw last season. But they it was colder in the North Country at this time last year and they headed south earlier.

Quite a few partridge have been taken in the past week in the Mullbridge section, with the wild we had, the leaves have taken quite a beating and stability should be good in the bush.

Their season is drawing close.

Opening of New Plant Here Climax of 11-year Program

How to turn water — the most basic of natural resources — into a widely-demanded commercial commodity can be seen in Belleville Saturday.

The actual event is an open-house for the public at the new College Street West plant of Culligan Water Conditioning Service, Belleville.

But for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moorman, owners and partners in the enterprise, it is the event which marks the end of 11 years planning.

In October 1955 Culligan introduced soft water on a service or rental basis to Belleville and district.

At that time, recalls Mr. Moorman, people generally were not aware there was a difference in water supplies or that most waters required conditioning.

The picture now has changed. A growing population, added demands by commerce and industry have resulted in deterioration of lakes and streams.

This also has increased the demand for quality water and the Culligan service in Belleville has spread its activity into other phases.

From the soft water business it has now entered the fields of water purification, demineralization and filtration of odors, tastes and turbidity.

Cam Hinchon, general manager of the Culligan in Belleville, says the service ranges from treatment of water for a single cottage up to large custom-engineered industrial installations.

Saturday's official opening introduces a modern plant specifically designed to provide a "great need" for water conditioning and treatment for the entire Quinte district, said Mr. Moorman.

The ribbon-cutting by George Freeman, president of Culligan of Canada Ltd., will take place at 11:30 a.m. Local representatives attending include Mayor Jack E. Hastings, County Warden Thomas Hill, city industrial commissioner Ernest Kestel and Chamber of Commerce president Fred Deacon.

At the open-house, honorees will be Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moorman, the Culligan's first customer in Belleville.

From that initial sale, 11 years ago, the Culligan enterprise has placed more than 1,000 units in district homes and industrial plants.

By 1963, Mr. Moorman, engaged for many years in the automobile business with McRae, Harry Moorman, realized the potential for Culligan service in the district. He decided to devote his full time to it and now is Culligan's sales manager for Eastern Canada.

Tweed Committee Plans Centennial Year Events

TWEED — The importance of the involvement of every person in Tweed's centennial projects was stressed by Harry McLeish, chairman of the Tweed Centennial Planning Committee, at the first committee meeting Tuesday night.

Plans for centennial year were submitted by representatives of various organizations. Berne Guy Hughes said plans were completed for the visitation of the Centennial Caravan on June 26, 1967. An art and folk festival will take place July 1 and 2 at the Macdonald Art School, Lindsay, in front of "Tweed-Hunterford Community Centre" will begin in about two weeks' time.

Rev. David Sinclair, chairman of the centennial committee for the Royal Canadian Legion, No. 426, said the legion planned a week of events in late June and early July. The Tweed branch's quota for the provincial scholarship fund has been reached. The provincial fund totals $10,000. The Legion Ladies' Auxiliary will again present the fireworks display.

Mr. Robert Reid, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said plans are being made for the Winter Carnival in February. Members of the committee are: president, Mrs. Don Courneyer, Mrs. Marjorie Hickey, Paula Rogers, Ray Phillips and Bill Cridmore; projects, Bob Bell, Bob Wright, Clyde Bell and Mrs. Chris Sinclair; publicity, Bob Hanna, Clyde Bell, Russell O'Neil, Thelma Thelston.

A secretary will be appointed at a later date.

Polls Put Heath On Spot

BLACPOCK, England (AP)—Edward Heath has emerged as an unchallenged leader of Britain's Conservative party, bolstered by successive elections by a large Labour party.

Two serious rivals are said to be around 10,000 delegates with up to the party's annual convention today.

But Heath, 51, is best by two sagging voters.

British opinion polling indicates that Heath has emerged as an overwhelming leader of Britain's Conservative party, bolstered by successive elections by a large Labour party.

The party delegates are holding the party lead from Heath on a number of issues.

Heath is the only Conservative who has won the support of the party's rank and file in the last two years.

In venue OIA Palace "the old error may change, name-wise - but payrolls remain the same," well almost?

It is in the Toronto newspaper this week said: "Officials of Varsity Grade, North York's elite in the Ontario Hockey Association's expanded senior league, have found it impossible to operate a strictly amateur team."

So, what is it now?

The surprise that people like Hugh Flinck, Charles Bell, Steve Taylor, Frank Fisher and Frank Sullivan, members of that illustrious "Grade" team who played in the 1984-85 season, and who were number one among the backers of the 1984-85 season of Grade, didn't know better.

Seriously, since these have followed the fortunes of hockey, "amateur" and otherwise down through the decades, surely they read the "Kafkian Story." Surely they must have known that senior hockey players or those playing in senior leagues, do not play for the love of the sport and their adopted "Alma Mater."

In these days of "what's in it for me" hockey, the only strictly amateur are the guys who have yet to graduate from their playing days.

The first story that came out of Toronto authored by a lawyer Joe Kane, stated that the Grade would be made up of professional men, university grads and undergrads; some of them of pro caliber who played extensive youth shooting a pro.

The Grade plans, Kane said, was to get 10 tournaments to generate $500 to $1,000 into the pockets of the players and the Grade. It was then any money left it would be divided among the players.

They're fantasizing original about that. It's just a weasel word.

Originally, Kane and his nine partners thought they could be a group of former university players together and play "for fun."

And he succeeded in that, he undoubtedly would have had the selfish wants of the word. Above the money, he would have been a success. He would have seen when he saw his first grade: "It's a damn lie - there are no such things."

Kane apparently tried to turn down expenses by including a 10-game schedule instead of a 40-game schedule as laid down by the senior league.

According to the Toronto story, the 40-game schedule took away any idea of the Grade players had of playing "for fun."

Kane is quoted as saying, "Some of the players we originally intended wing thought 40 games was too long a schedule without getting some recognition and we know that some of the others won't think too long through such a long period. We had to go to the open market and pick up semi-pro."

Outside of the Belleville-Bellows club, Kane's Grade is the only entry in the league to come up with budget figures, the one probably figuring it's no-better than bad business how they operate financially.

It is the last director meeting it attended. It was disclosed that the Belleville-Bellows operating budget would be $27,000. It could be more or less.

Kane estimates his weekly payroll as being about $400. "This isn't much," he is quoted as saying, "but it means our original budget of about $10,000 has to be more than doubled."

All he had to do, the story infers was to blow the budget. "He didn't waste money and the Varsity players gathered around the financial fail."

"To take care of the increased expense an additional 13 directors have been added."

"These fellows," Kane chuckles, "are all prominent lawyers, doctors and business men who don't mind spending a little or a little bit of money to be able to be part of the game. It's an important hockey club."

Brother, that's a shameless brag. It's not "important" in the history of the sport.

Dr. Dave (Ted) Stephens, captain of the Varsity Blues for five years has been appointed coach of the 1986-87 season.

According to the schedule handed this department the former B-Habs play semi-pro play, play here on November 23.

WILLIS IS TALKING - Alouettes game in Toronto will be televised on the CBC eastern network working at 2 p.m., while Sunday's meeting between the Riders and the Ticks in the West will be carried by the CBC western network at 10 p.m. EDT.

A record crowd of 30,000 is expected for the Ottawa game with all seats sold. Another 2,000 fans will see the game on the closed-circuit links in the Coliseum behind the main grandstand at Lansdowne Park.

Coach Frank Clark says his team "physically should be in better shape, than they have been for the last few weeks."

Fullback Dick Black and Ted Waddell, both injured last week, will be in the lineup Sunday.

The Alouettes may probably be weaker than they have been recently with fullback Bob Ferme exported to miss the game with an injured knee.

Alouettes coach Dave Mader is counting on a combination of quarterback George Bort and the back line of John Hilder, Roger Anderson, Roger Lohme and George Kinney to handle the Argonauts.

Bort will replace regular quarterback Burt's Flaherty, who has been something less than effective recently but who will obviously be ready to take over if his underbody failure.

The Alouettes may probably be weaker than they have been recently with fullback Bob Ferme exported to miss the game with an injured knee.

Alouettes coach Dave Mader is counting on a combination of quarterback George Bort and the back line of John Hilder, Roger Anderson, Roger Lohme and George Kinney to handle the Argonauts.

Bort will replace regular quarterback Burt's Flaherty, who has been something less than effective recently but who will obviously be ready to take over if his underbody failure.

Chuckwagon Found Ready to Race

Bellefleur is rapidly closing the gap in its race with Chatham for first over the top in the United Appeal Campaign.

Chatham had built up early leads of some $10,000, but now Bellefleur has over $20,000 more than Chatham's $30,000. With many more industries to be heard from early next week, the local tally should rise considerably.

Today's 3 p.m. on Campbell St., the long lost Chatham Chuckwagon (which turned up at the Quinte — B.C.I. football game yesterday) will rear up again. Bellefleur's speedy vehicle, an old-fashioned rail hand car.

The chuckwagon will be pulled by men and the car pump will be run by hand. Whose hand has not yet been determined, but Harry Pak, CHR. Kildner, Area Manager and Industrial Division "A" Chairman for the Bellefleur United Appeal, "I wouldn't want to be the one trying to move that thing on pavement."

A Chatham delegation will arrive here today to meet the chuckwagon. A band and cheerleaders may be on hand to add some color to the test of speed. The race itself is a symbol of the race between the two clubs.

There was a rumor that Bellefleur U.A. Officials replaced the round wheels on the chuckwagon with square ones, though these rumors can not be confirmed because the chuckwagon has been traced all week.

It was held yesterday to a stanchion belonging to Fryer Foundry on Wallace Street, and reports during the week had it all about the city from a warehouse on the waterfront to the CHS park.

Two Intelligencer Carriers Win Awards

Two Intelligencer newspaper carriers have won a National Award of Honor and received $50 cheques from The Intelligencer.

Percy Barker, 14, of 137 Byron St., Trenton, and Eric Law, 12, of 26 Jones St., Belleville, both Intelligencer carriers for four years, were presented with their Awards by Dr. G. A. Morion, publisher of The Intelligencer.

The awards are presented annually by the Canadian Newspaper Circulation Managers' Association. Today has been declared Newspaperboy Day, next year. Percy, like Eric, is interested in obtaining a good education, and will use his money to buy a bond. Out of the need of boys to earn extra money, and the newspaper's need for regular delivery at certain times of the day, has grown something like this in a Canadian situation.

This is a system which has many desirable and positive characteristics as any in the business world.

For Eric, a Grade 11 A.C.I. student, the money will be used to further his education.

erential, it should be stressed, to the proper functioning of our democratic way of life — it also constitutes an important formative influence in the life of the boy.

Through the financial responsibility involved, the boy often learns the practical application of subjects he is trying to comprehend in the classroom.

As a grown man in education to the provincial world for which objectives might wait a decade, and made ready really to his outlook, throughout his important learning years.

They become something more than a classmate reading word to the newspaper boy because of the sense of accomplishment that comes from knowing that people — grown up people — are depending on you. There are 75,000 young paper carriers in Canada, so today The Intelligencer, like the rest of the newspapers in the country, salutes them, and wishes the very best for the world on your front porch every day, we know our efforts would go for naught.

Employment News

By J. R. HAVELLY

Employment Relations Officer

Two factors have been quite noticeable at the Canada Manpower Centre in recent weeks. First, there has been additional labor requirements from local industry, the construction and services fields. Second, there has been an increased labor mobility, that is, a willingness on the part of the applicants, to accept suitable regular employment elsewhere in Canada as younger people.

Furthermore, age is not criterion of efficiency. The older worker offers the employer a number of prime virtues — stability, desire, responsibility, and concentration and experience. In terms of hard cash the attraction of qualified older workers is an organization's practical and wise investment. A nation's most valuable asset is its human resources, which should be utilized to the full extent.

Employers who are experience difficulty in securing suitable additional help are requested to consider the hiring of older workers. The Canada Manpower Centre will be pleased to assist in employment plans regarding hiring the older worker.

With the autumn well advanced, many of the community residents are thinking of the pre-winter check yet to be done. If you require some help putting on storm windows, raising extra telephone lines, and a suitable worker is available, contact the Canada Manpower Centre, 962-8631.

The following job opportunities represent only a few of those now available at the Canada Manpower Centre.

In the female division, there are two openings for bookkeepers on a regular basis. One position demands a full-time bookkeeper but the other employer will consider a bookkeeper having less experience. Another employer is looking for a salesperson.

portunities calls for a salesperson experienced in selling consumer goods. Experienced salesmen, 21 years of age or over, are in constant demand, as are reliable day workers. There are numerous unskilled employment positions covering a variety of occupations located elsewhere in Canada.

In the male division at a local book crating plant, a foreman is required to supervise over 100 men. A regular position is available for a qualified truck driver. There is a scarcity of experienced construction laborers, carpenters, and bricklayers' labor.

In the neighborhood town, the same firm is seeking the services of a permanent fourth class classification and on a full-time basis. In demand are stock clerks and retail salesmen and young men.

credit and retail fields. Both workers seeking employment and employers seeking workers are invited to contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 224 Church St., Belleville or telephone 962-8631. In addition, the Canada Manpower Centre is concerned with counselling, training, labor force mobility, upgrading, research and labor market information.

BASIC TRAINING

for astronauts, executives, diplomats, statesmen, businessmen, responsible citizens

The successful newspaperboy develops a background for future achievement that only a fraction of today's young men will ever attain.

He has a part time job with full time rewards, that pays off now—and in adult life. He operates his own profitable business, the only one that makes him salesman as well as purchasing agent; a delivery man and collector, as well as accountant; and gives him a real insight into human nature.

Today's newspaperboys — tomorrow's leaders. Statistically, that's how it stacks up.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15 IS NATIONAL NEWSPAPERBOY DAY

AWARD OF HONOR

PRESENTED TO A TRENTON CARRIER

Your newspaperboy is the grassroots symbol of free enterprise in action. He is worthy of special recognition as we salute him on this day. He's done more than 75,000 young Canadians in history to serve you.

Day after day, week after week, these youthful leaders are learning the business fundamentals of buying, selling and collection. More important, they're developing the personal qualities of road citizenship, dependability, thrift, punctuality and self-reliance.

What better preparation for tomorrow's leaders? In the community, in the nation, in the world, the hope of tomorrow depends on the initiative and ambition of today's young people. Your newspaperboy has a head start. He is already demonstrating his desire to succeed.

Canada
PRIME MINISTER — PREMIER MINISTRE

I am always pleased to be able to say that I was once a newspaperboy, but particularly so in supporting the recognition being given to all young Canadians who deliver our newspapers through National Newspaperboy Day.

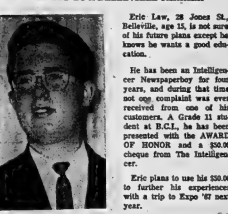

You are the real legions in the complex process of maintaining an informed nation. In all seasons and weathers, and often long before the sun comes up, you are making your rounds, bringing the word of human activity, the word of achievement as well as misadventure, to the doors of hundreds of thousands of Canadians.

Few school-day vacations offer a better combination of training, experience and discipline for the years of adulthood that await you. You are businessmen in the bud. You build up your self-confidence through your dealings with the customers along your routes. You learn responsibility and dependability through the necessity of getting the news to our doors on time.

The recognition of your important role in the daily affairs of us all is well deserved.

AWARD OF HONOR
PRESENTED TO A BELLEVILLE CARRIER

Eric Law, 12 Jones St., Belleville, is 15 in the year of his future plans except he knows he wants a good education.

He has been an Intelligencer Newspaperboy for four years, and during that time not one complaint was ever received from one of his customers. A Grade 11 student at B.C.H., he has been presented with the AWARD OF HONOR and a $50.00 cheque from The Intelligencer.

Eric plans to use his $50.00 to further his experience with a trip to Expo '67 next year.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, getting a record number of 300,000 male Pacific. Asian journey said today "I shall do my best" to promote peace and human progress.

The top layer of Washington's establishment gathered under the flag of the 10 states from the front of the airport's curative terminal building to say their farewells to him.

President and Mrs. Johnson. The president, who will visit at least six countries in the next 37 days, said he wants to leave "with the progress and problems, their hopes and their concerns."

A seventh country not listed on Johnson's itinerary - South Viet Nam - stands at the focal point of his arduous travels, however.

Johnson seemed a note of caution Sunday at the dedication of a Roman Catholic church at Doylestown, Pa., said "we must have an overall eye before flying Tuesday to New Zealand with a stop first at American Samoa."

Johnson will be the first U.S. president to set foot, void in office in Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Malaysia and American Samoa.

Johnson will visit the Philippines, South Korea and the return journey early next month.

Death Threats Build Tension

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) - Security problems for President Johnson's visit to Australia and New Zealand this week suddenly loomed larger today, as nervousness swept the two countries in the wake of reported death threats.

The Sydney Daily Mirror said a mail called in to say, "I'm going to blow Johnson's head off."

The Adelaide Advertiser had had a letter from a 20-year-old son in Viet Nam, who was going to "get Johnson" before the presidential motorcade through Sydney Saturday.

The Adelaide Advertiser also had a group of men plotting to take a high-powered rocket rifle to Sydney and shoot the president.

The West Coast Guardian reported the "constructive voice of no confidence." The opponents of a chancellor must agree to a measure before they can vote him out. It has never been tried in the 50 years history of the West German government.

The Adelaide Advertiser had had a letter from a 20-year-old son in Viet Nam, who was going to "get Johnson" before the presidential motorcade through Sydney Saturday.

The Adelaide Advertiser also had a group of men plotting to take a high-powered rocket rifle to Sydney and shoot the president.

FOR THE POLICE Slip Cases; Nail Top

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

I have just finished reading a book, "The Glory of Their Times" (McMillan, New York, $3.95) written by Lawrence Sanders, literary commentator published by New York University.

It is the story of those wild, wacky, woe and sometimes woe days of baseball and the turn of the century and the decades shortly after.

It is the story of those diamond games that were the glory of the sport; the story of the players who were the players of money; and the story of the players who were the players of the life of the game.

It is about the life of the players who were the players of the game. It is about the life of the players who were the players of the game. It is about the life of the players who were the players of the game.

The book takes about six counterparts of sports players of the Gilded Age. It is the story of the players who were the players of the game. It is the story of the players who were the players of the game.

These are the life stories that are the story of the players who were the players of the game. It is the story of the players who were the players of the game.

Modern baseball fans have their idols in the form of players, the Yankees, the Giants and the Red Sox. And again the life of the players who were the players of the game.

In the book, the old-time players, the players of the game, the players of the game, the players of the game.

Now, do they point out, although it is written, that diamond conditions like others in baseball were really different of those of modern times.

Baseball was not carried and growned like they are today. The game was hard, more and full of politics. The ball was a bawler; sometimes stained with ketchup; and sometimes were.

And it fits in on for the sake of the modern baseball club had a pitching staff that turned in about 120 complete games in 148 plays. Thirty-three who were added, but they were not counted as players.

Grover Cleveland Alexander had three consecutive seasons in which he won 26 games. A man could win the home-run title by getting 10 or 12 four-baggers. Tommy Leach was one who won the home-run title.

And baseball was not thicker than water in those days. How many brawls were there on the part of the players on their mound seats?

Each there was the Box War made headlines. Jess and Virgil Haines, Paul and Elmer Davis and his brother. The big mark began in the Matthews brawl. Matthews was 213 and his brother Henry was 204.

It is a book well worth reading for baseball fans. It is a book well worth reading for baseball fans. It is a book well worth reading for baseball fans.

"We used no mottos on our hands. No caps on our faces. We stood right up and caught the ball. With courage and with grace."

George Diller, 1880.

Battle Re-enacted

"Normans" Prove Hastings No Fluke

BATSFORTH MATTLEFIELD, England (AP)—Normans and Saxons fought the second battle of Hastings Saturday—just 100 years and one day after the first battle—on the course of English history.

By Saturday it was known the Conqueror only so unopposed to dispose of William King Harold before 10,000 spectators.

The original Hastings engagement lasted throughout a long and bloody day. And the five hundred students from London and the north re-enacted the battle as a culmination of the last annual invasion of England.

William of Normandy landed at Pevensey, west of Hastings, about 10,000 men, 1000 horses and 1000 oxen. On Oct. 16 he defeated and killed King Harold on the Shere Drove at Senlac Hill.

The repeat of the battle was just as colorful, if far less bloody. Men with long wooden spears in the ranks around keeping the ranks of pikemen and archers in position.

Norman knights were armed with long swords and horses which whirled in disarray. The Saxons, armed with long spears and shields, fought in the last of the battle.

Saxons arrived at the scene in chartered double-decker buses. Their ancestors marched against them from the north of England.

At the battle of the victors, the Saxons drove the Saxons away as the battle ended, 1000 Saxons were killed.

AP helicopters hovered in the sky to film the historic display.

After the battle, the Saxons were sent to the north of England. The Saxons were sent to the north of England.

Your Car

'Bum Steer' Can Cause Many Woes

By EUGENE R. MILMER

Your car is steering you wrong if it doesn't hold a steady course, respond easily on turns and curves, and try to straighten itself out when a turn is completed. And you'd better get it to your service station — fast. The trouble may be a common one — front-end misalignment or unbalanced wheels . . . or both. They're easily cured, but until they are you'll probably experience hard steering, road wander, weaving, abnormal one-side pull, another likely cause is uneven front tire pressure. Tires of different tread design, a tubular opposite a solid-type, or one worn and one new that live thru steering, too. Next on the list are worn or grease-starved wheel bearings. After that, check out springs and shocks. Finally, have the entire steering system inspected, lubricated and adjusted as needed.

W. I. asks: "What's the best way to keep a new car close and protect the file?"

A good layer of wax plus frequent washings with ordinary cold water.

J. M. writes: "You wrote about the fuel pump filter and sediment bowl. Would you believe my '63 sedan has none?"

Sorry about that — I should have mentioned that some cars weren't equipped with them because the self-cleaning filter in the fuel tank was considered sufficient enough.

From T. P.: "That annoying smoke to come from the oil filter pipe after my engine is running only a few minutes?"

Combustion gases — which get past piston rings and into the crankcase. The condition is called "blowby."

Medical "Impossibility"

Baby Born After Mother Dies

MAGNOLIA, Miss. (AP)—A university medical school in New Orleans, said it would have been "impossible" for the baby to have lived that long if the mother's blood had stopped flowing.

Dr. Robert E. Drake delivered the 4½-pound, five-ounce boy by post-mortem cesarean section one hour and 30 minutes after he had pronounced the mother dead at her home. His said the mother could have lived as much as an hour before she died, he said.

Dr. Dan W. Beacham, associate professor of gynecology and obstetrics at Tulane University, said the baby was born at 11:30 a.m. on Sunday.

Drake, whose specialty is obstetrics, said he went to the home Saturday night after the hospital received a report that Mrs. Pamela Anderson, about 25, had died at her rural home.

"At the time," he said, "I didn't know she was pregnant. After I got to the home, I found out she was more than eight months pregnant."

Drake said he pronounced the mother dead at 11:30 p.m., but discovered the baby's heart still beating. He said he took the body to the hospital and delivered the healthy baby at 1 a.m. Sunday.

One Gift Works Many Wonders

GIVE THE UNITED WAY

Out of every dollar spent by Bell over 95 cents are spent in Canada

This is remarkable for two reasons. First is the amount that's being spent by Bell Canada: over 275 million dollars for new construction and equipment every year to meet ever-growing needs for communications — and this annual expenditure is likely to grow in the future. And the second reason why this is remarkable is that practically everything, from simple gear to the most advanced electronic switching and transmission equipment is manufactured in Canada and can be bought here! That means, it must be as good or better, in price and quality, as anything we could import. We must admit — we and Northern Electric, our manufacturing subsidiary, helped lots of small companies to set up production facilities so that we could get things here rather than have to import them. But the big thing is that it's now being done, and that we're working on getting the remaining small percentages made here, too. Encouraging Canadian Production — one of the ways in which Bell contributes to our economy.

Smuggled Hack Saw Blades in Magazines to Lemay Tempted Other Guards With $100 Bills

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A jail guard accused of smuggling escape tools in Colliers magazine to George Lemay, Canadian bank robbery suspect, has a big heart and feels sorry for people behind bars, his lawyer told a criminal court jury.

Beginning the trial Monday, Peter J. Jaworski on a charge of smuggling a pair of tools, gloves and barbed wire, lawyer Donald Dubler said, Lemay carried notes on Lemay's Colliers daily cell news.

He took for three months before Lemay escaped Sept. 12, 1945. He then carried materials to Lemay only to be told later that they contained barbed wire and that if he didn't bring in the rope and gloves he would be exposed, Dubler said.

Jaworski carried the rope and gloves to his own locker, then threw them into a cage. On two subsequent occasions, he was provided with other tools of the trade and other materials. He then carried them to Lemay's cell.

Island Hops To East Australia's "Hooray for LBJ" Brings Yipes of Protest

SYDNEY (AP) — "Why all the hullabaloo?" Sydney newspaper editors asked. Australia's largest city added more invitations to the unprecedented welcome for President Johnson.

Among the special places are five government printing presses for the children under 17, a million "hooray for LBJ" stickers and television scripts, free distribution of thousands of American flags and the release of 10,000 balloons.

The president and his wife got a morning reception Monday in Honolulu. Tens of thousands of demonstrators, many in a friendly, colorful crowd, lined the route when it was announced the president would be in Hawaii on Oct. 20.

In two speeches in Hawaii, the president tried to discourage his hosts for his Oct. 24th meeting in the Philippines with leaders of the other countries fighting alongside the United States in Vietnam.

At the University of Hawaii, with several news, was a placard held above the crowd, Johnson said: "I want my fellow countrymen to know that we are talking with us no innocent words and no instant solution."

Without getting specific, Johnson said some have forecast the war in Viet Nam and charged him with discussing the matter for reducing to just an area question in demonstrations.

The college of four doors in the buildings, said to be 17 years old, which is still in the hands of the "Dewey" party, said the president would be in Hawaii on Oct. 20.

"We do not expect to pull any more out of any hats at Manila," Johnson said. "I am not going to pull any more out of any hats at Manila."

Workers Battle UK Police

LONDON, England (AP) — Police battled with English auto workers who tried to march on the city's General Motors plant.

Handers of protesting workers sent back a dispute about the British government about nationalizing the industry.

Strikes broke out as police tried to control the crowd. Vanish is owned by GM, the biggest U.S. auto firm.

The demonstration was the second of the plant in two days. Monday 300 angry workers tried to break the plant's American workers.

Today the plant sent home workers with orders of 100 workers who had been in the plant for a long time.

Police tried to move them to the plant. The plant is a lot of protest in the city.

Tsafendas Schizophrenic Doctor Relates to Court

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Government health officers testified today that the diagnosed Dr. Tsafendas as a schizophrenic "fast Joe," three months before he assassinated Prime Minister Sir John Vorster.

Dr. Ralph Kousser told the Supreme Court he examined Tsafendas after he applied for a disability grant. But he said the doctor's condition was not "certifiable" and not "sufficiently stable" to be confined to a mental institution.

Kousser's testimony came on the second day of the trial of Tsafendas, who stabbed Vorster in Parliament Sept. 4.

Until the court ruled on the issue, Tsafendas is not required today that he be charged with murder.

The court was told Monday that Tsafendas claimed that a "demon" appeared inside him, caused him to assassinate Vorster.

Today Dr. Hendrick Muijser testified: "I examined him and he was convinced he did not have a demon."

Muijser said Tsafendas told him he had a "little demon" which he described as "this horrible thing," which changed him completely and altered his whole personality.

Curtain of Secrecy Around Moscow Talks

The Communist summit meeting is taking place in an atmosphere charged with sharp Soviet criticism of China's brand of communism and its obstruction of aid to North Viet Nam.

Pravda, the Soviet party newspaper, carried a barrage of complaints against Peking's policies Monday as the foreign leaders were arriving in Moscow. In three separate articles it denounced China's lack of cooperation with other Communist states in sending aid to North Viet Nam, and the current purge in China as a disgrace to communism.

The Pravda attack implies that the Soviet leaders would seek a joint condemnation of China from its allies.

Meanwhile, Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik arrived in Moscow Monday for a five-day visit to discuss the country's $1,000,000,000 debt to Russia. He also may try to

Astrological Forecasts

By STONEY ONARR

For October 13

ARIES (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): Impulse on career, professional or political. Don't let things because of tradition, habit. Be true to your own feelings. Others may tend to make errors, but do so through sincerely, not fear.

Taurus (Apr. 20 - May 20): Get down to serious work, as a person, a business, a profession, a religion. No more money proposal... resolve to live up to the best in yourself. Look to the future rather than past.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20): Dig deep for information. Special interests likely to prove of no value. When made or part, make money proposal... take more which leads to furthering projects.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20): Fine for exchange of ideas with male partner... action based on current decision. Don't procrastinate. If you feel right... more about. Accurate the possible.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 20): Basic nature dominates. People may be falling in love during a color horror movie called "The Day After Tomorrow". Over. Key is to later - and to be over.

Virgo (Aug. 21 - Sept. 20): Tendency is to be selfish. Avoid action based on impulse... take special care in traffic, medical, religious, or in the future.

Libra (Sept. 21 - Oct. 20): You may face conflict. Involves questions of whether to rest or leave... or to break through. Some privilege is lifted. Travel now more is usually indicated.

Scorpio (Oct. 21 - Nov. 20): Features opportunity for travel, meaningful decisions, basic changes. Dealings with relatives increased. If faced with a dilemma... solve it by being true to your own feelings.

Sagittarius (Nov. 21 - Dec. 20): You can't spend and save at the same time. This obvious conclusion made clear to you. Key is to be clear in your mind. Make up your mind... the future is yours.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 20): Cycle moves up. Take initiative, be positive, forward. You get what you want if you people... don't expect perfection... but know goal is within.

LBJ on Viet Nam
 In a published response to communist unresponsiveness to peace efforts to end the war in Viet Nam, President Johnson said to the eyes of his South Pacific and Asian tour that the world was now only two countries: interested in a settlement.

He was referring of course to North Viet Nam and the communist, and the latter is the Soviet Union, while it is giving token aid to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, is just as anxious as anyone else to see the thing ended, if only because of its ideological estrangement with the Peking government.

President Johnson's recent talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko seemed to indicate a new understanding by the Russians of the American viewpoint on Viet Nam, and the need was not too far off for such comments from the Soviet camp as this: "The United States must be understood in Viet Nam, withdraw its forces, and recognize the 'democratic' government of Viet Nam."

That was the second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, Boris I. Bouzov, who said at a recent conference in the capital. Asked why he had refused to act as a mediator in the Viet Nam conflict, Mr. Bouzov replied there was nothing to mediate. "We are supporting the country."

As we noted earlier, Russia is helping the communist side in Viet Nam, but it is to no great extent and is more for appearance's sake than for anything else.

Mr. Bouzov was careful not to acknowledge any guilt on the communist side in Viet Nam, and the Peking government, which is helped by the Viet Cong guerrillas, subsequently pointed out Viet Nam's regular, established against communist designs for the future.

The United States has made strong diplomatic efforts to bring the communist side in Viet Nam to the conference. But thus far the efforts have been in vain. Can the United States be left in it, in view of such intransigence it has shown in its attitude towards the communist side of its ever-increasing military power in Viet Nam? Or is there anything insubstantial about the communist's attitude towards the cause of peace and of human progress?" he said on the day of his departure from Washington. Has anyone in authority in Peking, Hanoi, or even in Moscow, pledged as much?

Never Say Die

The people we admire most in this world are the people who have had the experience have left their mark and who nevertheless are young in spirit.

Robert Blosse-Roos once said: "Nothing can hurt me any more." And this is not the advice for the younger generation — the teenagers, and even young married couples setting up house. They should have the experience of life, and to all men and that, life, faced cheerfully and courageously, can lead to a melior and still active old age.

Indeed, old age for many is far from being the end of the road. Those who have seen a life of adventure in the family, and who have come from Kansas City (they belong, to many nationalities) who may be observed aboard sailing ships around the world.

And in the workaday world there are business and professional men who are still going strong after normal retirement age. And more power to them. The Canadian recent Nobel Prize winner is Dr. Peyton Rous of the Rockefeller University, New York. An expert in the field of cancer research and immunology, Dr. Rous is 87.

Closer to home, Marwan Stevens, of Hapnag, has just celebrated his 80th birthday. A born war veteran, Mr. Stevens runs a business of his own. He has just passed another driver's test for the second time in his life. He is believed to be the oldest working haulage truck driver in Ontario, and possibly Canada.

And in the family, too, Mr. Stevens' activities, The Hapnag-Banner mentions that James Burt took first prize in the 60 for the Hapnag-Banner. Mr. Stevens is 86.

There is still a lot of living to be done by those who keep fit and active — and above all those who, and aware of it, are going on around them and in the world at large.

Waistline Wends Elusive Trail in Spring Showing

By DOUG KLEIN

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The wretched waistline wended its elusive trail through men's fashion shows displayed by California designers Tuesday in sports and resort collections.

Ernie Chernie showed most of his at the hip line, the double-breasted suit of the California brand creator group—showing barely any waist at all.

Danville's famous model, who is able to move in and out of a striped linen safari dress as if he were a ghost, was seen for the first time.

When not showing, the line shows which predominates throughout the collection, were gathered at the waist.

By VERGE BERKE

PEKING (Reuters)—An American—born journalist, Anna Louise Strong, 80, white-haired and a widow who made a name for herself as an author of revolutionary policy journals, the Red Guard, as an honor member.

Like the millions of Chinese people and leaders, she fully embraced Mao Tse-tung's philosophy and looked forward to the "day when revolutionaries will be putting up posters in New York."

"Mrs Strong, the daughter of a Congressional minister, was born in Nebraska in 1886. She was the youngest woman to receive a doctorate of philosophy from the University of Chicago and was the first woman to receive a Ph.D. from the Soviet Union."

An active campaigner for China, she is a frequent figure at mass rallies, state

Nursery School Teachers Need Special Training

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—Nursery school teaching shouldn't just be left to "people who are left with children," says Mrs. Mary Hill, director of the Children's Creative Centre at Canada's Expo period.

"Nursery school teachers need very special training," Mrs. Hill, a former very school teacher and founding member of the Canadian Association of Early Childhood, said. "This child of pre-school age shouldn't be left to chance."

Education for pre-schoolers should include toys and programs that a child of this age would.

"They will follow any pattern they are given," and if it is not the right pattern, the child will be frustrated. "Then he may have tantrums, and people will think he's just spoiled."

The blue-eyed blonde mother of three children, the oldest 2½, says there is a tremendous interest in Canada in programs for young children in day care centres, hospitals and playgrounds.

"We have to be careful people aren't jumping on the bandwagon and setting up programs without proper training, and without training to experts in the field, of which we have none."

Most Canadian pre-school centres are privately run. "It's no bad, because they don't reach the kids who need them most."

PLAYGROUPS HELP
A delegate to a recent international conference on the pre-school child in Paris, Mrs. Hill says interest in the Expo children's centre is high. "They think it's a tremendous thing we're sponsoring it at 'an exhibition and probably concerned with education, when it will reach such a wide audience."

Delegates traded ideas on treatment of young children in their countries. "The problems vary so much. For instance in some European countries, they're so desperate they have to use one teacher for a class of 30 children, simply because he's better able than leaving them to the street."

Playgroups can sometimes solve this problem. Mrs. Hill describes a program "fairly popular in England" called "Mother's Club."

Mother's Night in high-rise apartments has helped pre-schoolers to specially-designed playgrounds where a trained staff come with the toddlers while parents eat lunch and watch.

"These young parents can't afford many hours, yet the playground provides rest for the mother and a program for the children."

The Canadian Committee for Early Childhood plans a national convention in Toronto this November. They will try to work out a program including ideas from Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Hill, but not duplicating work done by other Canadian organizations such as the Vanier Institute on the Family.

Ann Landers Child Needs Preparation For Visit to Dentist

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I say a word to "Anxious Mothers" whose child was interviewed by the dentist? I agree that a dentist should not say a child, but as a dental assistant for 14 years I am convinced that a child must be prepared for the dentist. It is the mother's responsibility to educate and condition her child so he will know what to expect when he visits the dentist. The dentist is not for the mother to take the child to the dentist when she goes for her appointment. The child will then see that is nothing to fear. The dental equipment will not look so monstrous and terrifying when his time comes. A great way to do this is to have a preparatory child psychiatrist for a visit to the hospital or the physician's office, who will explain to the child psychologically for the dentist. I hope you'll print this letter. —MISS C. ANN SANDERS

Dear Miss: Thank you for a letter my readers can really sink their teeth into. (Cue!) With the tremendous improvement in technique and equipment these past 10 years most of the agonies of the dental chair have been diminished or wholly removed. And now it is up to the mothers, as you said in your letter, to prepare children for that first visit, an experience which can shape attitudes near last a lifetime.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband passed away last week. After the funeral I went to his home to look over his things and find out upon my brother's wife, my aunt and myself. I was shocked to find that they had everything of value with my brother's wife and three other sons. The fine china, silver, fur coat, jewelry, the good pieces of art and the family home were gone. The only things left were our own lives and a few pieces of common jewelry. Their excuse was that I have a rich husband and I don't need anything.

It is true that my husband once had me whatever I want, but I am hesitant to think that they would do this. I am as only daughter and I certainly deserve some consideration. I don't insist that these values left but certain items my husband once had. I am sure I am not alone. —SAD DISAPPOINTED.

DEAR ANN: If you want to get tough about it you could get a lawyer into the act and exercise the legal right of most of Mrs. I do not recommend such action, however, because it's already so ugly that talking it before the community can only make it worse. The lesson he, he learned here is that everyone should have a will. It is the only insurance of orderly disposition of an estate.

Historical Society Too Little Heed Paid Styles of Older Women

TORONTO (CP)—The clothing industry made a mistake of paying too little heed to the fashion wishes of the older women. A survey made by the senior citizens' committee on the Bell City Council's Ontario division, brought a shock of comparison. Tail girls said the ready-to-wear industry was neglecting them, small women were neglected because they had to wear the same styles as their younger sisters. They said they would not wear the same styles as their younger sisters. They said they would not wear the same styles as their younger sisters.

"Meaningful Cuts" Asked of Canada In Tariff Negotiations at Geneva

By ARON MACDONALD

WASHINGTON (CP) — A steady line of the Canadian government's willingness to accept proposals from the recent Liberal party conference is shaping up in the Kennedy circle of tariff negotiations at Geneva.

The Geneva Conference opened the critical phase of break-down and a showdown with Canadian willingness to accept "meaningful" tariff cuts with the United States, an American official said Tuesday.

The Ottawa Liberal convention endorsed the idea of negotiations for a free-trade area involving Canada, the United States, Mexico and the Caribbean countries. The Liberal government in Ottawa was less than enthusiastic.

The American view was expressed here by Allan H. Green, director of the trade and commercial policy division of the bureau of international commerce.

He reviews the various hurdles cleared so far at Geneva towards reducing tariffs by 10 per cent. Writing in the current edition of the United Nations publication International Commerce he says:

"While problems in agriculture and a few industrial sectors still present the negotiations at this stage, a host of other problems remain. Probably the largest for the United States is the problem of the automobile, which is participating as a special manager category and therefore has not offered a tariff (across-the-board) reduction in tariffs, in some cases, trading partners.

Canada's demand is that the special position be world traded and producer of automobile primary or unfurnished component. It also requires a special tariff reduction for the United States.

Called "Steel Canada," the largest U.S. export market and so many U.S. office depend on the contribution Canada can make, the success of the Kennedy Round will depend on the United States will have to a large extent on getting some kind of concession from Canada. American officials have had little to say on this issue of a North American free-trade area. They indicated it would be a long time developing.

However, the weekly magazine U.S. News and World Report, calling Canada a "bottleneck of steel," Yankee sentiment for years," saw the Liberal convention proposal as a shift towards the policy which, he said, on an issue of free trade with the United States, defeated the Liberal party.

Reading Centre Ready to Open

With more than 100,000 copies printed, Eastern Ontario's largest reading centre is opening in Belleville.

The project, the largest being the Reading '70 Centre, is a serious one. It is located at 232 Front Street, south of Victoria Avenue, at the inspiration of the district's biggest publications distributor through his Upper Canada News Agency Ltd.

"The central lines behind the project is to provide good reading, of high standards for the mass of people in the most economic form available," explains Mr. Colbourne.

To this end, the new staff's main feature will be a large stock of paper-back publications of good quality.

It will make available a steady supply of high-standard literature costing more than 3,000 separate titles.

"This makes it the biggest centre of its kind in Eastern Ontario," points out Mr. Colbourne.

Hees Outlines Plan for Economic Progress

TORONTO (CP)—The government must take immediate steps to speed economic progress and keep the price level under reasonable bounds, George Hees, former trade and commerce minister in the Mulroney cabinet, said Tuesday night.

The former president of the Montreal and Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who is a Conservative MP for Northumberland, was speaking in the Toronto Broadcasters Association.

Hees said that the government must take the necessary steps to speed economic progress and keep the price level under reasonable bounds.

It's A Bumper Crop For Area Pumpkin Growers

By BOB PRADOCK
Staff Reporter

The "boom" days of the canning factory industry in Prince Edward County may be in the past, but there is at least one plant which still maintains a year-round operation.

At the Baxter Canning Company Ltd., of Bloomfield, now at the height of the annual pumpkin harvest.

Pumpkins have been arriving at the plant for the past two weeks and it is expected that canning will continue for another month.

And apparently it has been a good year for pumpkins with some farmers reporting a yield of up to 20 tons per acre.

Generally the pumpkins are a bit smaller than in the normal year but as one farmer put it, "There are lots of them" and it all adds up to a good yield.

And where the land has been properly fertilized pumpkins have grown to good times. Farmers at Bloomfield's Jack-Holmes are ranging up to 75 pounds were brought in for processing.

Mechanization has taken over as far as farmers have to do with a loaded truck, the driver in the field to beat the old fashioned way.

Bloomfield farmer H. Venstra says his bigger growers are "windrowers". The machine, an operation which not only takes care of the pumpkins but also hauls them to the plant.

With the "windrower" system two men with pick-ups can load a farm wagon of truck with pumpkins in "two time at all" according to Mr. Venstra.

At the canning plant it's the pick-up system in reverse with farmers loading the pumpkins from trucks onto a conveyor for moving them into the plant.

In the plant the pumpkins pass through both mechanical and hand washers before going on to the peeling and capping operation.

For flavoring, a few seconds are tossed in with the pumpkins which are put up in 100 per cent vinegar.

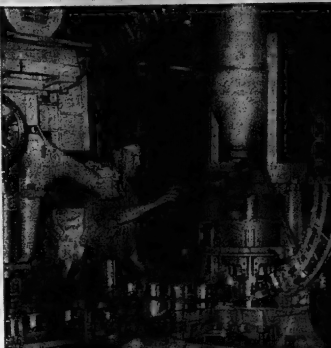

Putting up to one gallon capacity. Filling and chewing of the same is a 100 per cent mechanical operation.

From the canner the cans are "stripped off" into big steel buckets and packed into cardboard cartons for shipment or shipping.

Up to about 100 tons of pumpkins are handled at Baxter's in a 14-hour "day".

This year about 75 area farmers are under contract for growing pumpkins with contracts valued at over $100,000.

The farmers' price this year for pumpkins is $11.25

Filling and Capping

The canning factory process is largely an automatic operation. Here cans pass through rill machines at the Baxter plant.

per be delivered at the Long lines of wagons and trucks waiting to unload pumpkins are in every day operation at the Baxter plant, but factory operators have decided a reduction in the amount of pumpkins to be accepted from farmers without contracts.

Indefinite are related with 100-ton contractors getting the first call and so on down to 50 and 25-ton contractors. Farmers are allowed to deliver one load of their pumpkins crop and then the waiting starts all over again. If the company can handle the crop pumpkins will be accepted from farmers without contracts.

But pumpkins are only one farm crop handled at Baxter's. Beans, peas, and corn are also canned.

Other crops are tomato juice, peas, pumpkin and squash. The filling and capping of the beans and pork canning plant is run during the winter months.

But the tomato crop is the big item with as many as 100 farmers contracting with the company for filling and capping.

This year the tomato pack was smaller than usual and the company's pack is already completely sold at Bloomfield.

The Baxter plant at Bloomfield is almost new, the original plant started 25 years ago and was destroyed by fire a few years ago, and then rebuilt.

Food Gimmicks Must Go Council Head Contends

TOBACCO (CP)—The government will place strict controls on the Canadian food industry unless it returns to sensible practices, Douglas Williams, chairman of the Ontario Food Council, said Tuesday.

He told about 200 delegates at the supermarket, drug, variety and confectionery show being held here that horrors to be avoided are food items which are "heavily out of line" with the public's needs.

"Consumer thinking will have to go back beyond many of the gimmicks for trading stamps, the premiums, the so-called 'specials', the games, the coupons, the extra-off deals, the gimmicks in all their forms. All designed to excite the gullible consumer and all of which they pay for heavily out of their pocketbook."

Mr. Williams warned that consumers will demand a return to selling merchandise on the basis of quality "instead of trying to buy the consumer's attention with gimmicks, premiums and come-ons."

He said there is an inflationary trend and consumers are becoming more and more concerned about the buying power of the dollar.

The delegates were told by research consultant group that it costs an estimated $1.80 to handle 100,000 promotion cost per month.

Ray Bristol, A.C. Nelson Co. of Canada Ltd. said the supermarket chain only about $1 for handling 100,000 coupons but also makes a profit on the turnover of the original ad sales.

Some margins were creeping up slightly but were still modest and virtually unchanged from a year ago.

Technological Advances Said Cause of Unrest

BARNIA (CP)—The steadily increasing cost of living, the loss of jobs and the fear of the unknown through technological changes in industry were cited Tuesday night as some of the causes of the social unrest in the United States at a conference of the American Federation of Labor in Canada.

James Hugh C. Arrell, of Hamilton, Westmont County, Ontario, said the "new order changes" which will be the result of technological advances in industry which have "not been considered" in the past "even people's thinking."

He said it was time labor unions started thinking more of the "social utilities" than of the purely mercantile things.

Suicide Not to Compete

OTTAWA (CP)—Supermarkets are competing fast and the carter's work both ways on the price of food, executives of the industry testified Tuesday in Parliament Hill.

They make every effort to match the level bargains in town. But they also sell milk, eggs, cereals, frozen foods, and everything from meat to poultry and promotion to attract and keep customers.

It would be suicide for a food chain to offer the demanding bargain, the one of the industry's leaders said.

Steenberg's Ltd. told the committee on bringing costs.

Steenberg's Ltd. told the committee on bringing costs.

Domestic stores, with 200 stores in 10 provinces, reported it kept its profit only 2.07 cents of every dollar last year, when sales were $101,000,000.

Steenberg's, with 127 food stores and 18 department stores in Ontario and Quebec, earned last year a profit of $1.1 million with sales of $102,882,000.

R. F. Chisholm, executive vice president of Dominion Stores, said his company would rather not offer such promotions as trading stamps, but it has been forced into the game.

The promotion has cost Dominion more than $1,000,000 a year over the last five years.

Advertising, public relations and other promotional cost more than $800,000 last year.

And other executives of the Canadian-owned company also noted the trend to these luxury items as frozen dinners, instant coffee, dehydrated meats and frozen-dried foods.

"Obviously," said the Dominion brief, "since these foods have a built-in profit margin, they must cost more than the consumer is now buying the basic food plus a service. The large-scale acceptance of these products has forced them to place on our store shelves."

Steenberg's said it has been up in one generation and controlled entirely by the company.

Seven South Viet Nam Cabinet Ministers Offer Resignations

SAIGON (CP) — A Saigon-based newspaper, will go to Manila as a member of the South Vietnamese government delegation, the paper said.

Earlier The Associated Press reported Ky was said to have rejected the resignations but was reported trying to win three or four of the ministers back and to fill the other vacancies with new men.

The cabinet ministers' resignation was reported in the Ky's summit conference. AFP said, Ky's efforts to prevent a lapse of unity at the Manila conference on Viet Nam next week. It was be unable to hide the fact that they knew nothing about," and that they had demanded "the government show some signs of accomplishing something to help the life of the people in general."

The ministers also said the "corruption is so rife they find it impossible to carry out their duties with any degree of efficiency."

This resigning ministers included Deputy Premier Nguyen Lam Van, and Finance Minister An Truong Thanh, both members of South Viet Nam's Manila delegation.

The crisis dates from several years in the cabinet against domination of the government by men from North Viet Nam who came south after the 1954 Geneva agreement divided French - ruled Indochina into North and South Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

Ky and most of the military men who held the real power are northerners. Critics in the cabinet, including most of the southerners, have been confined largely to administrative roles. The cabinet was made up of 10 military men and 10 civilians.

Discontent with the cabinet became apparent several weeks ago following the arrest of a health ministry official, by the national police chief, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, a northern Viet Nam, and the other five ministers resigned shortly after.

Ky promised them to remain in their posts until after the Manila conference.

The announcement today said Ky had decided to go ahead with their resignations because they had been frustrated very early by "a few responsible for this crisis."

"The crack in the government has weakened the public beyond repair," the statement said.

In addition to the deputy premier and finance minister, ministers who resigned were: Nguyen Van Truong, education; Nguyen Han Hong, labor; and Truong Van Thuan, transport.

Source said government leaders were concerned about the possible adverse effects the resignation would have on their talks from President Johnson and other allied leaders in Manila.

"The Ky government has been asked by U.S. officials in recent months for his cohesion and endurance. It has survived 18 months thus far, longer than any other government since the fall of Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963.

Visit to Haiti Good Experience for Canadian Medical Students

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (CP)—Thirty students from Canada's 12 medical schools have returned home after spending six weeks in Haiti where they gained experience in the handling of diseases they would normally have read about only in textbooks.

The students were participants in the first summer school in tropical medicine sponsored by the Canadian Association of Medical Students and Interns.

This year, too, the capital served as headquarters for a large part of the population.

far from any medical situation. They made rounds in the city and learned a lot of the local Creole dialect. Every morning they handled the local public-health-inspection going where in the city for a clinic or a health centre and clinics at the faculty of medicine and the university hospital.

For most it was the first encounter with the realities of medicine in a country where resources are scarce and where diseases are acute and where shared the same bed and more than was too expensive for medical use.

The Canadian group also had an opportunity to witness the government's attempt to combat the problems. A 30-year campaign has been waged against yellow fever but it has been virtually eliminated.

Another big worry, malaria, has been eliminated in the same systematic way. A visit to the National Institute for the Treatment of Malaria served to enlighten the young doctors of the methods used to combat this malaria disease. Formerly endemic and now also on the road to disappearance.

During the afternoon and evening, the Canadian look in the night and enjoyed the warm Italian hospitality. They found themselves in the role of good will ambassadors in a whirlwind of official reception and practical.

President Prévost Desrosiers, himself a medical doctor, welcomed them in an official reception at the National Palace.

He stressed the long friendship he has always enjoyed with Canada, resulting from an article he had written as a young doctor for a French-Canadian medical journal.

Haiti's minister of agriculture, V. N. Constant, invited the students to a small agricultural settlement outside the city of Cape Haitien. There they planted trees along what will be Haiti's - Canadian Avenue, in honor of the Canadian visit.

The trip was the brainchild of Andre Latonde, a third-year medical student at the University of Ottawa and current affairs officer for the Canadian Association of Medical Students and Interns.

Mr. Latonde persuaded a Montreal pharmaceutical firm to underwrite a good proportion of the expenses.

The 60 delegates, including eight women, were chosen in the spring by a committee of students and professors at each university.

Province Goes to Davis' School Closes

Grants Same: Ellis

Belleville, May 2. R. Ellis said today he is also disappointed that the Ontario Ministry of Education's appeal to have the Ontario government pay a higher percentage of education costs has fallen on deaf ears.

"We are all disappointed," he said, "but at the same time we realize the Government also has its problems."

Mr. Ellis attended yesterday's brief presentation and said no province had been received from the Prime Minister or the cabinet other than they would take the brief under consideration.

"I am also disappointed that the brief would have to bear the heavy cost of education," he said. "The fact is," he said, "that the state of the house which you or I own actually has no bearing on the use of educational facilities. Children educated in Belleville go out of the city and paid their education to be in all parts of the province."

Mr. Ellis said that Prime Minister Robarts, in refusing to yesterday's brief, did point out that in the past much legislation had evolved from bills presented by the mayor and council. But the premier stressed that the province would carry any cost of the bill.

"That he did not say that the province would carry any cost of the bill," Mr. Ellis said. "That he did not say that the province would carry any cost of the bill."

Report Recommends Dozens of Changes In Operation of Canadian Post Offices

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Postal commission officials and union leaders are in a bitter dispute over the government's plan to create a new postal service, and the federal postal service's troubles.

The report, a direct result of the 1963 postal strike that shut down service in Ontario, Quebec and parts of the Atlantic provinces, says that the postal service is in a "state of emergency."

He says part of the solution is a better management - employee communications system to produce what both groups desire - maintenance of the now efficient postal service.

The 1963 strike was settled after the government intervened in a wage dispute, leading to the issue of a new postal service to the commission.

MAX GORDON, ACTING

Another strike threat has been raised by the postal unions in a text month-to-month demand for wage increases and other benefits.

A key recommendation is that joint management - employee committees be set up in each post office and on a national basis to consult and negotiate all matters affecting working conditions.

Mr. Smallwood said all but about 500,000 horsepower of the development's initial 6,000,000 horsepower would be sold to Quebec, but this left Newfoundland with "100 per cent" of an estimated 10,000,000 horsepower on other parts of the Churchill River and other rivers.

The report defends the limited use of observation galleries to try to catch suspected thieves and advocates full freedom to non-supervisory employees to engage in political activity, including the right to run as fed-

The report has two recommendations about the legislation now before Parliament dealing with collective bargaining, for civil servants.

It says the employers' representatives should drop their strong opposition to the proposed legislation and give it a fair trial.

Canadian in U.S. Marine Corps To Retire After Viet Service

DANANG (CP)—The way in the States will end in November for Bill Monk of London, Ont., and as far as he is concerned that will complete his fighting career with the U.S. Marine.

It may have been the last of a long night under fire or a machine gun through the jungle and paddy fields to his battalion headquarters, but Monk, a 35-year-old with almost a year's service in South Viet Nam, was definitely about to retire to civilian life.

"I have been there three days to go home and a year and half in the Marines. That's all I'm getting out."

Monk, just out of a school, joined the Marines at Detroit in May, 1965, and came to Viet Nam a year ago this month. He has been in the Danang area, about 225 miles north of Saigon on the South China Sea coast, since his arrival.

It was a blazing hot day when he was called in from a forward position to take to a newspaper correspondent and press officer dressed from his boots to his head. He recalled his experience in almost a year of fighting in an area most of which he said was a blazing hot day when he was called in from a forward position to take to a newspaper correspondent and press officer dressed from his boots to his head. He recalled his experience in almost a year of fighting in an area most of which he said was a blazing hot day when he was called in from a forward position to take to a newspaper correspondent and press officer dressed from his boots to his head.

The previous night had been quiet. The Marines at the VC soldiers are called, and about 100 men with automatic weapons and a few tanks. The Marines at the VC soldiers are called, and about 100 men with automatic weapons and a few tanks.

Monk's company is located about the perimeter of a hamlet of about 100 people where the South Vietnamese still go about their daily lives of planting and gathering rice despite the frequent barrage of rockets in the area.

The young Canadian, in charge of a machine gun, calls a standing bunker his home and seems more concerned about the fire with automatics at about 8 p.m. and for the next 30 minutes and red ants that he is about the fighting.

"When those big ants laid on to you men here, I think it would cover get that than be blown by one of them."

Monk was shot once—a bullet went through his helmet and out touching his head.

"I hope that's all I'll have to show for the war."

Monk and his Marine mates get on well with the Vietnamese villagers whose home they defend.

"It's a regular every day thing. I like peace as much as though there was no war except that it's better off than they would be if we weren't here."

"They do one laundry, sell us beer, coke . . . you know it and they provide it. We help them when we can and they help us, too. It's a good thing."

The fighting is an on-again, off-again affair and in the first three weeks of September, the men of Monk's battalion had a confirmed total of 47 Viet Cong killed. This was more than their own losses in killed and wounded.

After an hour's rest at headquarters, Monk picked up his rifle and set out on foot to return to the front.

"I've got to get back before dark," he said.

It was on the second side of the perimeter for most of the fighting last night and he didn't want to miss anything that comes tonight.

"I'll try to be low here."

The wife Sharon is out of the reason Monk wants to get back to London. They were married in 1962. They were married in 1962. They were married in 1962.

"NEARING END OF THE WAR" — For Bill Monk of London, Ont., a private in the U.S. Marines, the Vietnamese war is nearly over. He has less than 60 days left to serve in Viet Nam, after a year fighting the Viet Cong in the Danang area. When his hitch in the Marines ends, he plans to return to civilian life.

India Fights Inflation With Austerity Program

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India has begun a grim and determined struggle to hold prices down in the wake of devaluation of the rupee during the summer.

Though devaluation of the rupee is said to have affected the price of imports, workers immediately began striking over the price of all goods. Thus, within the first few weeks of devaluation, there was an all-round increase in prices. Food prices, for example, rose by as much as four per cent in four weeks.

This trend was to continue. The benefits of devaluation would be wiped out by inflation, and the government is determined to see that this does not happen.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, the prime minister, immediately announced a wide range of austerity measures for the government itself. Current government spending is to be reduced by three per cent, and capital expenditures by five per cent. Government offices will now recede from staff and these posts will be filled by those who have been notified by all-round staff economies.

Ministers and officials must travel by economy class on airlines. Instead of first class, to emphasize the atmosphere of austerity, ministers have also been asked to travel to work in small Indian-made cars instead of imported limousines.

Prices of many items such as wheat, rice, sugar and kerosene are strictly controlled. These items are either rationed or are sold at government fair-trade shops in the main towns.

To force down prices of other essential commodities the government is sponsoring operation "super-bazaars" in all the big cities. The first co-operative super-bazaars opened in Delhi recently and has been jammed with buyers every since.

It sells fruit, vegetables, groceries, medicines, schoolbooks, soap and cloth at prices between 10 and 20 per cent below the prevailing market rate.

THE OLD AND NEW RIDEAU GATE—The federal government's new Ottawa residence for its guests, 7 Rideau Gate, is a century-old mansion built by a lumberman and cloth manufacturer. Two-Storey House Becomes Posh Home for Visiting VIPs

By MARILYN ARNETT

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has gone out and bought a house. It isn't for them; it's for their guests. Lucky guests. The house, 7 Rideau Gate, is a big two-storey structure with 10 bedrooms, five bathrooms and 100 rooms, living, dining and two sitting rooms. And that isn't all.

The old kitchen, 30 by 18 feet and soon to be modernized, has the master's study and several sitting rooms off it. There's a screened porch, breakfast room, den, walk-in cedar-lined storage room and a electric chair that whirles up and down the stairs. All that, and three marble fireplaces, too, for $152,000.

The handsome residence is situated just outside the gates to Government House, home of the Governor-General, and just around the corner from Sussex Drive and the prime minister's residence. The entrance to Rideau Gate Park, a showpiece of the capital area, is a stone's throw away. State guests, who used to be put up at a hotel or at the Governor-General's residence, now will be booked into 7 Rideau Gate. Interior decorators will be on the scene first for about $20,000, including air conditioning, modern kitchen and swimming pool.

ROOM TO STRETCH Once installed and redecorated, 100 visitors can easily take short stints up the winding, lined driveway to Government House or park across the street to the prime minister's place. Or they can take a walk in the park or enjoy a smoking trip.

They can also take a walk in the park or enjoy a smoking trip. The house was built in 1887 by Henry Burritt, a cloth manufacturer and lumberman. Arsenius left over from the 1884 completion of the Japanese Economy Expands Following Two-Year Lull

TOKYO (Reuters)—After nearly two years of relative stagnation, the Japanese economy is believed to be entering a new phase of expansion.

Industrial production has been rising steadily since the early months of 1945, and is expected to reach a new peak by the end of the year.

The steel industry, which has been one of the leading sectors of the Japanese economy, is expected to show a significant increase in output.

The Bank of Japan, which has been maintaining a cautious view of the economic situation, is expected to announce that all economic indicators are showing a steady upward trend.

Some economists now believe that Japan will have to be revised upward to about nine per cent.

RELAX CAMPAIGN OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has quietly given up its campaign to have NATO Commanders-in-Chief, who had been in the hands of the United States, to be in the hands of the United States.

They Talked on and on...and on Some More

By RONALD LABEL

OTAWA (CP)—Conservative MPs were accused Wednesday of proposing "an open market" and of falling into the hands of "20th-century revisionism."

The first was fired at the end of Opposition by New Democratic Party Leader J. C. Cross and Liberal Minister Charles G. Cullen, who said the medical care insurance would be for the 20th century. Conservative speakers replied that the government had no right to interfere with the medical care insurance and that they were not any more to be taken in by the 20th century.

insurance sent July, as they had pledged during the 1965 election campaign. The delay of the target date to July 1, 1966 had not been explained by the government and amounted to deception of the electorate. It was a "complete betrayal" of election promises. To blame the delay on the fact that the government was in a position to do so was ridiculous.

NOB WILL FIGHT

Mr. Douglas said his party will fight to the last stage of the debate to ensure insurance coverage for the 20th century. He said Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, who has not entered the debate as far, is neglecting the duty of his party in the "great test" of the 20th century government.

In other business Wednesday, Mr. Diefenbaker unsuccessfully argued an emergency debate on a post office plan to remove the Canadian center of arms from postal troops.

A royal commission recommended improved working conditions for postal workers. The report criticized the post office department for ignoring employee complaints and accused postal union leaders of making extreme demands.

Dr. Shulman Has to Take Driver's Test

HAMILTON (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman, Metropolitan Toronto chief coroner and a strong campaigner for road safety, said Wednesday night a policeman confiscated his driver's license earlier this week.

Dr. Shulman said he was stopped in a traffic chock by a police officer, who took his license when he found it was two years out of date.

He told the Hamilton Inquirer that he had not received his renewal license, and that he would have to take the regular test again.

He said he is being chided by his wife while waiting to take his driving test now.

Many dryers use only one system for controlling the operation which is simply an electric clock timer. With the Simplicity, 2 or 3, two methods are used... (1) the conventional clock; (2) An automatic humidity sensing device which reads the moisture content of the clothes. OTTAWA (CP)—A bill to create the Bank of British Columbia was pushed closer to parliamentary approval Wednesday.

More changes in the bill will be made at a still greater distance from the concept originally framed by Premier W. A. Bennett.

Wednesday's approval by the Commons Finance Committee inside the bill on to the Commons where it will come among the bills to come up in the private members' hour that occurs here or twice a week. No one knows when it will appear in the House.

Opposition to the bill by a small group of Liberals angled in the second day of the committee's hearings.

Ben. Baskett, (C.-Vancouver) pointed out changes that will prevent any civil servant from becoming an executive officer of the bank, but he was voted down on an earlier amendment as bank directors.

This would have effectively removed from the scene E.A. Henderson and William Meares, two of the five provisional directors of the bank have to defend the bill.

Both men are executive officers of the provincially-owned B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, and as such, civil servants.

Mr. Henderson is also the executive vice-president of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway, and chief mail carrier of the South Coast ferry in B.C.

Mr. Baskett said a committee between the bank and Mr. Henderson and Mr. Meares would leave the public with a continuing suspicion that the bank is an arm of the provincial government.

Mr. Henderson deared one obstacle to approval of the bill when he agreed to drop a clause that would have required a no-majority of bank directors and of executive officers. As long as B.C.

The committee felt these requirements would have made it impossible for the bank to consider itself a national institution. The bank proposes to have an authorized capitalization of $100,000,000, but would start out with between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000.

Quakers in Prince Edward County To Give Last Meeting House to Village

Once a predominant religious group in the area with as many as a dozen "meeting houses" in regular use, the Quaker movement has all but passed out of the picture in Prince Edward County.

At the end of this year the Quaker Meeting House at Wellington—the last remaining Quaker meeting house in Prince Edward—will close its doors to be presented to the village for use as a museum.

In being turned over as a museum the Wellington Meeting House will assume the fate of one other village Quaker meeting house which many years ago was sold and now forms part of a garage.

"We didn't want to happen to our meeting place," said Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Willis of Wellington, one of the few remaining Quaker families in the county area.

In the last remaining Quaker meeting house at Wellington will remain the property of the Quakers as long as it is used as a museum. Otherwise it is to be returned to the donating group.

The reason for the closing of the meeting house is simply one of declining numbers.

"We have been just adding one we could do," said Mr. Willis.

And Mrs. Willis, who for the past three decades has acted as clerk of the monthly meeting, was elected as clerk of the Wellington monthly meeting, voted a similar role.

"There were so few of us left there was no point in trying to carry on," she said.

In addition to acting as clerk of the monthly meeting, Mrs. Willis is superintendent for the group's "First Day" (Sunday) School, which will attract up to a dozen or more attendees.

Properly known as the Society of Friends or simply "Friends," the Quaker movement in Prince Edward dates back to the time of the United Empire Loyalists.

There was a presence, however, ever. The Loyalists came to Canada as they could remain under the British Crown, whereas the Quakers came for religious freedom.

"We came to Canada at the same time, but actually there was no connection," Mrs. Willis emphasizes. Prince Edward county Quakers came from Quebec county in New York State.

Founded in England more than 300 years ago, the Quaker movement held a protest against the formalism of contemporary religion.

There was little formality or ritual in the religious life of the early Friends. They assembled to worship in private homes or in the open air rather than in churches, cathedrals or chapels.

They had no bishops or clergy, believing that every individual has direct access to God. Special emphasis was placed on simplicity in speech, dress and personal life.

But the spirit of harsh persuasion, the Quakers grew in number.

both in England and on the continent of Europe their growth continued as well as to the West Indies and in North America.

Quakers believe they should pray for themselves rather than have someone pray for them. In the Quaker movement the place of meeting is known as the "Meeting House" instead of a church; the pulpit is called a "desk" and the Meeting House pews are termed "benches."

The first meeting house at Wellington was built some time between 1800 and 1810. It was a log structure on the site of the present old cemetery; the former Quaker burying ground on the north western outside of the village.

The old log meeting house remained in use until 1890 when the West Lake Monthly Meeting decided to build the present brick structure in the centre of the village.

Mrs. Willis says that at one time there were at least 120 Quaker meeting houses in the county, including two at Wellington, two at Bloomfield and three on the Glaxo Road.

A former Quaker boarding school at Bloomfield has been changed with a plaque by the Historical Sites and Monuments Commission.

Mrs. Willis explained that while the Quakers had their own schools in the early days, the Bloomfield school was closed when the public school system came into being.

The Wellington Quakers had two distinct branches, the Orthodox and the conservative or Hicksite Friends.

The Hicksite Friends were more severe in dress, manner and speech, and during meetings men and women sat on different sides of the meeting house. Mrs. Willis recalls some of the Hicksite Friends who years ago used the Bible script, addressing others as "them" and "thou."

The Hicksite Friends never allowed music at their meetings. In this way also differing from the Orthodox group which sing hymns and have music.

"But we are all one now," Mrs. Willis pointed out, stating that Quakers in Wellington now live much as others do.

But judging from the falling off in numbers, even here the Quaker movement has a few years of life of the younger generation.

Due to the lack of work opportunities many of the families and young people have moved away, while others have intermarried and joined other religious groups.

Mrs. Willis says some of the Hicksite Friends who years ago have failed to build this proper belief and attitudes in their children.

"Maybe we were not diligent enough in presenting the picture to young people," he said.

In any event, young people like to be where there is a crowd.

But according to Mrs. Willis, the decline in the Quaker movement in Prince Edward does not hold true in many other places. There is still a Quaker monthly meeting at Water and another in Kingston. Also in Toronto Quakers are increasing in numbers.

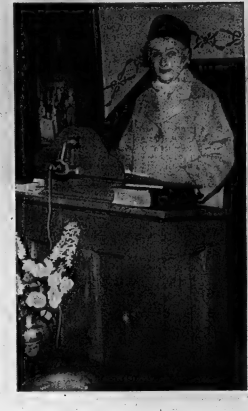

And despite the fact the Wellington Meeting House is to be closed, the Quaker movement will not be completely out in the village.

"We will continue on by our executive meetings," Mrs. Willis says.

One of the younger generation Quakers in Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. Willis' son Mr. J. J. Willis, now with the Dominion Department of Transport and acting as assistant light-house-keeper on the Main Duck Island in Lake Ontario. Mr. Willis is at present in Ottawa taking a refresher course in radio navigation.

One of the reasons for keeping the Wellington Meeting House open until the year end is to accommodate a late November wedding of one of their young people.

The wedding was the first in the Wellington Meeting House since it will be the last," Mrs. Willis said.

Clerk at Desk

Mrs. Leonard Willis, clerk of the Wellington Quakers is seen at Meeting House Desk. Term "Desk" is used instead of pulpit. Quakers have no ordained ministers.

Padded Benches Were Comfort Move

Century-old Friends Review is read by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Willis, who are seeing their Quaker Meeting House at Wellington close because of too few members. Hard, straight-backed "benches" in Meeting House have been padded in a move for comfort.

Ky Still Having Political Troubles As Ministers Decline Olive Branch

BAGNOR (CP)—Three of the seven ministers in South Vietnam's government resigned today to turn up today for a press conference that was supposed to demonstrate resigned cabinet unity.

President Nguyen Cao Ky was able to sit down at the conference table with four of the ministers who resigned in protest over the influence of mercenaries in the Saigon government. Led by Deputy Premier Dr. Nguyen Van Thieu, the four ministers had agreed to withdraw their resignations and demand a united front for the Manila conference.

Dr. Vien, who also is deputy minister, is scheduled to speak in Saigon for Premier Ky while the air marshal is in Manila.

He is best prepared at the talks by Economic Minister An Thong. Thach was embarrassed today empty and had to be removed from the table before photographs were taken.

Thach, with Youth Minister Vo Long Trien and Tan Ngoc Long, secretary of state for social welfare, had apparently decided to go through with their resignations, political sources here said.

President Nguyen Cao Ky would tell the conference nothing about the political crisis, and declined to answer questions on the resignations. He did confirm that the composition of the Vietnamese delegation in Manila had not yet been decided.

Unofficial newspaper reports stated the South Vietnamese government is at least as high as the Viet Cong and probably higher. In addition, U.S. headquarters disclosed earlier that 36 of the helicopters which ferried South Vietnamese infantry into the battle were hit.

Viet Cong machine gunners were turned in on the two July corps, leading some and others some on the troops' progress.

Tsafendas Judged Insane

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—A South African judge today declared Daniel Tsafendas, the assassin of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, insane and ordered him committed to prison indefinitely.

Justice Minister Pietrus Pretorius said today that the government accepted the finding without reserve and will abide by the decision of the court.

Tsafendas said gazing blankly. During his trial, which opened Judge Andries Beyers, judge president, ordered him detained in prison during the "pleasure" of the South African government.

Tsafendas, 41, a parliamentarian, was arrested in 1963 after several weeks in the low-level office of a newspaper.

A first report will be due at the end of the month for consideration at the meeting

No Parking Spot So Trains Halting

BRIGHTON, England (AP)—British railways cancelled all trains today after four Brighton Engineers' work when they couldn't find space to park their cars.

A rail worker spokesman said seven Brighton-to-London trains failed to run and four local trains were cancelled because of revised schedules.

The spokesman did not say what action would be taken against the four engineers, who went home when they could not find parking space at Brighton depot.

"searching respectful" of what the alliance now needs.

The situation is rapidly changing when it was founded 17 years ago.

The Americans and British, worried by the large outflow of foreign exchange their NATO defense effort requires, threaten to call their troops home unless West Germany speeds its march on British and American goods as they have to spend in West Germany.

This amounts to just under $100,000,000 a year: $700,000,000 for the Americans and $200,000,000 for the British. The West German are offering the Americans half what they want and the British about one-third.

It is because of this disagreement that today's meeting has been called.

The Americans and the British are expected to press the Germans to make it a matter of what they are spending will be taken into account.

Regardless of what happened in the NHL, players last night are free men. It is the Montreal Canadiens who will sweep up all the glory, glad and what-so-ever with the red ending up in a fiery day last night.

The Hawks will whet out their 1964-65 puck-chasing jobs with some time in the wilderness under the hood to sup all at the very.

And if that fails, or shows signs of failing, they're enough open to more than take up the slack.

Forget that first paragraph prediction. When the flames whetting down the home stretch for the week, I expect to see the Hawks line up in front of the city while trying to bring it off the Detroit Red and Boston Bruins for the top spots in the league. Toronto Maple Leafs struggling under the mask and will be sent a length or so off the coast of the East.

If the Hawks can lure Glen Hall out of retirement they stand a good chance for the place money what with the scoring power of Bobby Hull, Stan Mikita and a new thrust in Dennis Hall, Fred Sanford and Ken Hodge.

I'm one of the few crystal-gazers in the news department that believe Detroit's Red Wings will bring up the old place that. They have a line up of Bobby Hull and Bill Gadsby but the fourth Ranger Center (last night for five years) held them up behind a shaky defense and can do so again. They reached the cup last year.

There's been a lot of talk about diamonds in the camp at the Maple Leafs and unless this is cured, the team will have to leave the arena. The Leafs have been and back carried the scoring load last season, but then, too, the Leafs have an age problem with center, Stanley and Armstrong. Puffed in a stand-out performer.

I look for a resurgence Boston Bruins was in fifth in the fourth night although a 20-point jump from fifth to fourth seems a bit high. Their weak spot is in the scoring department. They have four veterans: Murray Oliver, and Johnny Bucyk as well as Wayne Cassaday and Ken Hodge.

Individually the Bruins look good what with the acquisition of the junior sensation Bobby Orr and Ted Green back from the injury war. Goals by Ted Green and Francis Power carried the last last year and look like they are even better this season.

Despite the prediction of Manager Lyle Francis and headlined Gotham fans, the New York Rangers may make it tough for some of the top-10 clubs, but won't be too much the league's junior apartment.

The Blues supporters hope that the management can buy Tony Hawthorn from Toronto for the $250,000. This appears a little weak even with friend and manager the top players. But the fan of the future hopes of Blues-Born Geoffrion was should get for twenty goals plus but the former likelihood say may find for other league that expected.

Then Bob Nevin is out with injuries that could sideline him for a month with Rod Gilbert, a top winger may not be up to form following a summer back operation. Jean Ratell won't play for a couple of months due to an operation.

So that's the way I see it. Canadiens, Chicago, Detroit, Bruins, Leafs and Rangers. Don't hold your breath.

Buckpasser Bankroll Tops Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Buckpasser easily won the $100,000 Lawrence Reclamation at Aqueduct race track Wednesday to run his winning streak to 11 as a two and his career bankroll to $1,000,000.

The three-year-old colt, owned by Otis P. Boudreau, was first taken back at the head of the stretch, but quickly made his mark by the 100-yard under the mile ending of Jersey Boulevard. He drew out in the last 30 yards for a impressive victory.

In the fifth, the son of Tom Fool by Boudreau was 3/4 lengths ahead of the head of the stretch. Pacer, an entry with Buckpasser, was third after setting the pace for most of the 1/4 mile.

Buckpasser ran the distance in 2:24.15.

National Junior Body Planned

Frank Boucher, commissioner of the outboard Canadian Major Junior Hockey League, said Wednesday he is working on plans to form a national junior league.

He said that in an interview he has received reports from all parts of Canada in form of a letter and independent league. He said that in an interview he has received reports from all parts of Canada in form of a letter and independent league.

"I have been working on the formation of a junior association for some time and when the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association decided the CMHL would not be affiliated with its organization, the need for such an association became even more obvious."

Bumper Crops Now Grown On Kazacksthan's Virgin Lands

BY JOHN REIST

MOSCOW (CP) — Nikita Khrushchev must be chuckling again at the reports of bumper crops now coming out of Kazakhstan's virgin lands.

Sir K. Kaula's former premier, now before ousted over his enemies when the virgin lands poured forth a flood of grain after years of crop failures.

Now living in retirement at his dacha near Moscow, Khrushchev must welcome the reports from the vast territory that he first brought under the plow a decade and more ago.

He was alternately praised and ridiculed for the program, which set grain waving from the Russian Federation to Soviet Central Asia.

In recent months, there has been a good deal of discussion, especially in the Soviet press, about prospects for the virgin lands.

The consensus seems to be that they indeed have a promising future—if only certain fundamental principles are observed in their further development.

BOOM OR BUST

"One of the most chronic problems of agriculture from the standpoint of scientists and state planners alike, is that of instability. In recent years especially, the virgin lands have displayed a decided boom-and-bust pattern."

Part of the reason for this was a recurring problem of drought that set in about five years ago.

However, managerial and technical failures also contributed. The practice of deep-plowing, obviously in part derived from other grain areas of the Soviet Union, proved disastrous for the dried land of Kazakhstan.

The responsible people were slow to recognize this. As a result, there were widespread losses due to lack of moisture and wind erosion.

Experts say that what the virgin lands need is subsoil, much plowing as used in southern Saskatchewan, which moves the roots of harvested wheat stalks and leaves available to hold down the earth and catch winter snow, a precious source of moisture.

Other mistakes were in plowing up non-productive land that should have been assigned to livestock raising rather than grain-growing, and failure to allow the land to rejuvenate itself through regular periods of rest.

Despite the manifold errors, according to Soviet experts, virgin lands output now accounts for one-third of the national grain crop. In addition to Kazakhstan, they include large areas in the Urals and Siberia.

Given the importance that the virgin lands have attained in the total scheme of Soviet grain production, it is understandable that the Soviet government is bending every effort to see that their future development takes place on a sounder footing than hitherto.

"The good harvests obtained in the virgin lands of Kazakhstan this year indicate the importance of developing these lands," wrote an agricultural specialist in the English-language Moscow News recently.

Two years ago, when the virgin lands had another good crop and bounced back from the disastrous harvest of 1963, Khrushchev had a field day at the expense of his critics at home and abroad.

The previous year "enemies of communism" had pronounced the virgin lands project a failure, he told an audience in the new lands.

"You virgin land people have now stuffed their gullets with your grain," he chortled.

Within a few months of that belated triumph, Khrushchev was abruptly removed from office. If he were still the boss today he might again boast of how the virgin lands had stuffed the purses of his "enemies" with grain.

Smugglers Sell Australian Parrots Abroad for Huge Sums

STONEY, Australia (CP)—What, Australian customs officers are taking, well these smugglers think of next?

Already this year there has been an alarming increase in the amount of illegal exports from Australia. And last night a ship arrived from an East Asian port without some crew members being fined $7500 to meet before the law (The Daily Worker).

Now the smugglers have a new trick at the disposal of Australia's precious natural assets—birds. Some species of Australian parrots are threatened with extinction because of the number being smuggled out of the country.

Australian parrots, among the world's most beautiful and colorful birds, bring high prices overseas money collectors and at private sales. Smugglers are believed to be getting up to $1,000 for a white-shouldered cockatoo, one of the rarest and most sought-after

Australian birds. During the last two months, Sydney customs officers have seized three shipments of Australian parrots being smuggled to The Netherlands and France. In one of the latest parcels of New South Wales, said the export of native birds is banned because it is a crime to export parrots the demand would increase so much there would be no birds left in Australia. Overseas markets are breeding Australian birds and the high prices are being offered for fresh blood lines to improve their stock.

The only legal trade in Australian parrots is from one to one. The maximum penalty for illegally exporting native Australian birds is $10,000 but with the profits on the overseas sale of the birds on high the few, say customs men, is no deterrent.

The birds are usually smuggled by air in cartons fairly marked as containing other things like.

One customs official said: "These Australian parrots are so intelligent they can be taught to talk. If you spend enough time with them, they can't resist and when they're being smuggled about a plane, it would save us a lot of searching time."

Sydney, Australia (CP)— Sydney is becoming known at the shocking city that nothing is sacred.

It is going through the worst crime wave in its history and a worried New South Wales police chief has urged the state government to take urgent action to control firearms.

There have been 30 armed holdups and safe robberies in Sydney so far this year and more than 1000 robberies. The safe robberies alone have cost the state more than $400,000 and more than 1000 have been stolen in bank holdups.

Police Chief Allen, is a deep person but highly criticized, has ordered 100 armed detectives stationed in banks throughout the city to prevent robberies. Critics said the banks should provide their own protection but Allen replied it was only a matter of time before there was bloodshed in a bank holdup.

"An accused of pandering to the banks is great but someone can get caught in a bank robbery," Allen added, "because criminals use high-powered sawed-off rifles."

Acting on police recommendations, the state government has increased the maximum sentence for armed robbery from 14 years to 20 years. Banks, hotels, clubs and businesses handling large sums of money have been ordered to tighten their systems, install better alarm systems, and "to take other reasonable safeguards."

While the people of Sydney are criticizing the police for "letting their job properly, police must do the city better to blame."

One writer detective said: "Many Sydney people think the state and moderate to tolerate graft and vice—until they themselves are hurt. It would be much easier to close up Sydney if Sydney really wanted to be a better city. The more honest of being at honest jobs where there is no crime and—lost—and there are most the hours but some of the police are honest as men, believe themselves."

Police are convinced heavy gambling losses at poker machines, which are legal and barroom and roulette, which are illegal but "wide open" in some of the places, have led many to robbery and violence. But the safe and bank robberies are the work of professionals who use stolen guns and stolen gear for sale.

Robberies were not the only things worrying the police. There have been 30 armed holdups and safe robberies in Sydney so far this year, six of them are still unsolved.

Carleton Economists Veto Full Throttle Deflationary Policy

OTTAWA, (CP)—The Prime Minister's economic plan is being opposed by a group of economists at Carleton University, who say it is too tight and will hurt the economy.

They say Canada has not experienced too much inflation, and that the government's policy is too tight for goods and services, as frequently stated by Finance Minister Flaherty in recent speeches.

Price increases that have appeared can be traced to "mismatching of supply and demand in some particular sectors of the economy," the economists say in a statement from their continuing seminar on economic policy in Canada.

They blame the actions for most of the concern over the inflationary effects of new wage increases. Some recent "disappointed" contract settlements and a "general bias in favor of a wage-push approach in the economy." The group claims "none of the reasons" is in order this year, at least for workers in the manufacturing sector. But the long-term effect of the policy is to "reduce the growth rate of the economy," they say.

Major price increases have climbed in the last year or two at a rate slightly higher than the compound annual rate for the 1960s period.

And pressures in some economic sectors "might have been eased by some of the policies that have weakened the international competitive position of Canada."

But the group also observed slackening demand here and there. The unemployment rate increased slightly in recent months—so as a result of lower per cent—and the index of industrial production prepared by Statistics Canada showed a decline from April to July, latest month available.

"Finally, the increase in the real gross national product was only six-tenths of one per cent in the second quarter of this year, far below the average quarterly increase of over 1 1/2 per cent in preceding quarters."

This meant there must have been a diminished supply and demand in specific sectors, pushing up prices not matched by decreases in output, the economists argued.

Prior to consumers, especially in food, were showing increases. But this could be explained by a decrease in the supply of some commodities, which could be pursued by the federal government at full throttle now.

Afro-Asians

Delay UN Resolution

By TOM BOGE

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—

After four Afro-Asian nations held up action today on a resolution calling for the United Nations to take over South Africa's mandate over South-West Africa at once.

The General Assembly was to take action on the resolution, but the vote was delayed for a day because the United States objected to the resolution.

The resolution would transfer the mandate to the United Nations

League of Nations mandate over South-West Africa, and set up a UN-administered authority to perform the territory for settlement with 1,800,000 white

South-

Africans.

R. It also would call on the Security Council to enforce the assembly's decision by imposing sanctions if necessary.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur

Goldberg and Sen. Jesse Helms of Delaware, have been consulting with the president,

F. R. D. of the United States, in an attempt to delay the resolution.

There were reports that the Africans have agreed to drop the demand for an immediate transfer of the mandate, but that the United States is still not WANT BACKING

The sponsors are believed to have the support to secure adoption of their resolution in the General Assembly, but they are also anxious to have the backing of the United Nations.

It is felt that the resolution is adopted and the United Nations will have the support of the United Nations.

As it is, the South Africans have warned that they will not accept a UN-administered authority and will "use whatever means necessary" to resist the transfer of the territory.

Most of the African members have urged the use of force if necessary to compel South Africa to give up the mandate, but there is no chance the resolution will take such a drastic step.

It's A Mini-Preview Of the Biggest Show on Earth

By HARRY MURJAL,
(Staff Reporter)

The biggest show on next year's earth is being given a mini-preview in Belleville today.

Until a week tonight, quietest citizens can get an idea of the world exhibition in Montreal marking Canada's centennial year.

The preview, small enough to travel in six compact cars and titled the Expo 67 Montreal Caravan, set up on the city-hall Plac-nade Street parking lot outside the Memorial Arena this morning.

Object of the caravan is to plug the exhibition across the country and boost sales of Expo passports — tickets to the exhibition.

However, much of the monetary gain will go to committees where the caravan goes on display.

The passports are sold at the rate of $1.00 each, a local service club and the profit on each ticket — estimated around 30 per cent — is given the club by Expo for its community service work.

In Belleville, the proceeds are being donated to the Kinneton.

Among first visitors to the exhibit today was Mayor Jack Ellis who was greeted with a short-written greeting from Montreal mayor, Jean Drapeau and an Expo lapel pin.

On display were models of the Ontario pavilion and the biggest single exhibit scheduled for Expo — the pavilion of the host country, Canada.

Visitors can also view photo slides — 20 in all — of other pavilions and exhibits now being built on the Expo site.

The caravan arrived from Kingston and will journey through Ontario as far as Windsor, says Expo co-ordinator Harry Moll.

It will reassemble after winter and visit other centres across Canada where necessary.

At last report about $10,000 in cash was on hand from the advance sales program.

Expo passport mail, an official, are running "in excess" of estimates.

Originally it was estimated that sales would reach more than $22,000,000 by February last year.

"This figure will be reached much earlier, however, since sales reports from nearly 10,000 outlets in the United States have just started coming in," said a spokesman.

Expo's advance sales project has been underway almost six months. By comparison, the New York world's fair took a year to reach its first million in ticket sales.

Old West Jail Break Every Hour

MONTREAL — "We're going to have a happening every hour, or so."

The speaker was producer of entertainment at the La Ronde, the 135-acre amusement complex at the 1967 World Exhibition in Montreal.

A man from Edmonton, part of a delegation attending the city's participation as possible sponsor of the Golden Gate, looked at David Haines, the producer, as if he were a slightly fading beauty.

"Let me explain," said Haines, detecting the excitement of his audience.

"By happening, I mean a real happening. Every hour or thereabouts there'll be a jail-break. This happens, will escape from the jail at Fort Edmonton. He'll dash through the street, he'll dash out of the station, climb over rooftops. He'll be followed by the sheriff, firing from the hip."

"Of course, the horses will get his man. The whole thing will have a moral tone."

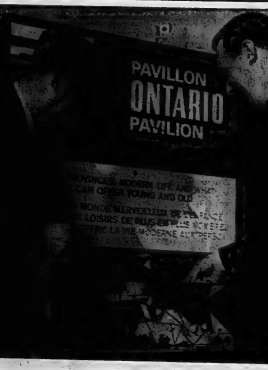

"And the kids can come and talk about that day in 1967 when they witnessed the capture of a bank bandit."

"Historically," continued Haines, warming up to his subject, "there'll be other happenings at La Ronde. It's not all heavy lock either. We'll be presenting something from the east, west, north and south."

"There'll be big brawny guys competing in a roll-a-ball show, and pretty maidens competing in a water-ski show and tinsy youths doing a frog, or whatever is the style now."

Somewhere asked why La Ronde has been described so handsomely as "revolving the wheel with a unique experience."

"That's right," he was told, "it's not to be missed. It's a hybrid of Disneyland and a Copeland's Thrill. It will have elements of both but it will have its own flavor and character."

Mayor Gets Close-Up View

Expo exhibits are viewed by Mayor Jack Ellis with Expo co-ordinator Harry Moll. In a ceremony this afternoon Mayor Ellis was presented with an Expo lapel pin.

Accommodation: $2 to $40

Where to lay your head during Expo 67 needn't be as big a headache as it seems at first glance.

Even though you're the number of visitors expected to visit the international exhibition at Montreal — there's no reason to lose sleep over finding a bed.

Actually, accommodations already are being booked and Expo authorities are confident that housing requirements of all visitors will be met.

Legions, the housing bureau for the exhibition already has reserved more 15,000 beds for visitors in 1967.

At present, the service is looking after the exhibition, time accommodation needs of 200 persons each day. They daily are confirming reservations on approximately 100 rooms daily for various periods of Expo's six-month operation.

More than half the requests have been from Ontario, but other reservations range around the globe from Europe to India.

There are three types of accommodations booked to date: hotels and motels; apartment houses offering full services; and dormitories with dormitory facilities for groups or young people.

Daily average rates range from $2 to $40. Apartment houses are charging $25 to $35. Dormitories range from $2 to $4.

Legions already has begun its inspection of potential sites and what the province offers the bureau. Premises have been inspected to make sure facilities meet required standards and agreed prices. Private rooms may range from $2 to $14 with the average rate $10.50 for two persons.

Peak month, says Expo organizers, will be August when some 40,000 persons will have to be available each day.

Legions expects to handle more than the peak figure and is organized to find lodging for 300,000 on a given night.

You're planning your trip now, Legions prefers all inquiries to be made by letter.

Legions, Administration and News Pavilion, Cite de l'Expo, Montreal.

Ontario Pavilion Top Magnet

Among the first magnets to attract Quebec-dwelling visitors at Expo 67 will be the Ontario pavilion.

Expo officials have ordered one of the most impressive plans unveiled thus far for the world exhibition.

Ontario has gone all out to match the sophistication and glitz of display before the world.

The pavilion is expected to cost around $10,000. The view it, spectators will have to cover 50,000 square feet of floor space and let their eyes travel to a height of 115 feet.

In design, the pavilion is a multi-prismatic structure of stylized and futuristic in form.

Its theme is to describe the contemporary Ontario scene and what the province offers its citizens, youth and old.

June Wildman Welcomes Visitors

Expo 67 is not only a must — but a first —

The major theme actually is only the popular name for the 1967 Universal and International Exhibition — the first of its kind in North America.

Fairs — among the biggest in the world — have been staged on the continent before, but there is a difference between a fair and the kind of mammoth production being realized in Montreal.

The International Exhibition Fair is a must for all people who are interested in their goods. It exists principally to aid business.

In an exhibition the idea is not so much to find money-spot buyers. The intent is to demonstrate vitality and usefulness through originality of presentation," says Expo officials.

Expo is the first exhibition in its category to be held on over 120 acres in America.

Festival Entertainment Lures Top Performers

It's called the World Festival and it's for its duration — it's shaping up to be perhaps the biggest program of entertainment ever presented in any city.

The city, of course, is Montreal.

And the festival, naturally, is part of Expo 67.

It begins April 28 with a gala concert and ends Oct. 31 with presentations by two world-famous drama companies and an out-of-the-box ballet company.

Between then, the festival will feature many of the world's leading opera, ballet, chamber music ensembles, comedians, athletes, film festivals and mammoth shows.

Statistics give some idea of the scale of the festival. It's star-studded anatomy.

The festival will involve about 15,000 participants, 200,000 spectators, and the printing and sale of more than 1,000,000 admission tickets.

The more serious presentations will be staged in the Place des Arts in downtown Montreal, that time, Place des Arts will consist of 100,000 seats.

The festival's timing, Place des Arts will consist of 100,000 seats.

British National Theatre with Sir Laurence Olivier will appear, along with the Stratford Festival, Theatre de France with Jean-Louis Barrault and Jean-Pierre L  aud and other leading world actors and personalities.

Sports will feature an international soccer tournament, an artistic gymnastics tournament and a two-day track meet that will feature the best of the world's top athletes.

Canada Exhibit Covers 21-Acre Site at Expo

As last night, Canada will have the largest exhibit at Expo 67.

To create the sweep and character of Canada, plans call for an exhibit now being built on a 21-acre site.

Squigs, Jigs, Wobblers -- You Name It -- He Makes 'Em in the Basement

WINNIPEG (CP) — In 1964 Jack Platt turned 18 finished fishing lure out of his basement workshop in a good day. Today, he sells 40,000 a year, employs up to five people on a piece-work basis, and modestly concedes that he has built up a "profitable hobby" through the production time and sale of lures with impressive best-seller records. Among fish — killing lures that have figured regularly in top catches at fisheries are the wobbler spinner, known as the wobbler, and the wobbler, which caught the first muskie ever recorded in Manitoba. Platt's latest creation is a Norseman, especially aimed at walleyes (meeting below several falls in deep, fast northwestern Manitoba rivers. He came up with the Norseman by streamlining another lure, the Pelican, whose group of northern fishermen came to him looking for a heavy build that would not obtain any kind of lure, so he began sawing, filing and sanding them in his basement — after himself. The sleek Norseman is the best indication of how far Platt has gone above he began making wooden plugs 18 years ago. At that time it was almost impossible for fishermen to

Co-star of Rat Patrol One Hard to Recognize

By CYNTHIA LOWY

NEW YORK (AP)—Chris George, co-star of "Rat Patrol," the new television war comedy which has been running on New York City radio for 24 hours not a single fan recognized him. "But that if I were that crazy Amex hat, they might hear," he thought. "A lot of people don't know who I am, even as if they thought I looked familiar from TV was in a few of the most famous last night and even one or two of them with a good name—then he gave up."

It is hard to recognize actor in a world when his show is on the air only a few hours a week and his character wears a hybrid military-movie and dashing hat as a member of a Second World War Allied commando unit fighting the Germans in Arabia.

But since Rat Patrol has been running for a full season, it is recognized to just a question of time.

The series, which filmed its first episodes on the coast of California, is a continuation of the property. The beach location was chosen because of the sunny weather, and a military-style commando unit looks like Arabs desert and looks like Arabs desert and looks like Arabs desert.

Producing costs have been modest. The trade publication Variety estimates that they are more than 30 per cent lower than they would be in Hollywood.

But the Hollywood studios have been grumbling at the fact that when Rat Patrol's shooting is resumed, it may be among the most cost-effective of the Hollywood studios.

There were three times when the show was in a bit of a jam. The first was when the show was in a bit of a jam. The second was when the show was in a bit of a jam. The third was when the show was in a bit of a jam.

Hungarians Split Three Ways On Anniversary of Revolution

The writer of this dispatch has covered the news in Hungary at intervals in the last 15 years. One of several Annotated Press reporters there at the time of the 1956 revolution, he was arrested and expelled in mid-December that year. Since then he has been back to Hungary several times.

BY ERIC WASH
BUDAPEST (CP) — "You from the West did not help us in 1956—why are you interested in the Hungarian Revolution now?" the former revolutionary asked bluntly.

At the Hungarian foreign ministry a spokesman said the great majority of people here are not interested in the revolution but are concerned about the future of the country.

A taxi chauffeur, after making sure nobody else was listening, said: "You're talking like a Jew!"

The revolution broke out on Oct. 23, 1956. There was a brief wave of jubilation before the Russians smashed it Nov. 4. The impact of the Soviet action was tremendous. Thousands of Hungarians tore up their party cards. Demos- trations were held in various parts of the country. In the West, anti-capitalist and many Communist party officers were arrested. The revolution was crushed, but it left a deep mark on the Hungarian mind.

Communists were wiped out in Parliament and have not been invited to come back. DEVIATIONS FROM THE FOREIGN REVOLUTION

The foreign revolutionaries to arrange interviews with the revolutionaries in the revolution or to visit to factories such as the huge plant of Corvinus which had a role in the revolution. Without support, such interviews or visits to plants are in fact barred.

Western observers here agree the regime's apparent ill will is not due to fear of unrest on the anniversary date. But the regime obviously feels that even small incidents could be embarrassing. There are signs of increased police activities on roads to and from Budapest.

About 30,000 Hungarian revolutionaries were killed in the first year of the revolution, of whom about 40,000 were killed in the first year. The military age group of 18-25 was reduced to about 10,000.

The number of Hungarian revolutionaries in the revolution is estimated to be about 10,000. The number of revolutionaries in the revolution is estimated to be about 10,000.

For one thing, the revolutionaries have never been given the right to work in the economy. Thousands of revolutionaries have been given the right to work in the economy. Thousands of revolutionaries have been given the right to work in the economy.

OTAWA (CP) — A guide to minimizing automobile accidents and a "Spel-Tire" list of safety standards may be issued by the federal government by the end of the year. The Common Justice committee on road safety is working on a guide to minimizing automobile accidents and a "Spel-Tire" list of safety standards may be issued by the federal government by the end of the year.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate "What's Your Problem?"

BY BERNARD C. MELTZER
The problem of getting a new house established, new window or old house in an old town and a new house in a new town. The problem of getting a new house established, new window or old house in an old town and a new house in a new town.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I want to buy a family room to the house. I have one problem concerning the house. I have one problem concerning the house. I have one problem concerning the house.

ANSWER: The main advantage of an older house over a new one is the cost paid for space. Currently, in a typical new house, space is purchased at a cost of 10 cents per square foot. In an older house, space is purchased at a cost of 5 cents per square foot.

Value wise, new houses are more expensive than old ones. However, the cost of a new house is not the only factor to consider. The cost of a new house is not the only factor to consider.

ANSWER: I've looked over the $20,000 dream house plan and conclude that it is a good plan. At a price value, the minimum cost of construction is at least $20,000 and $25,000 would be more comfortable.

Having closely observed the market for many years, I have found that the best buys are new or old houses, but houses that are 10 to 15 years old are the best buys. I have found that the best buys are new or old houses, but houses that are 10 to 15 years old are the best buys.

Retest All Drivers By 1968

TORONTO (CP) — All Ontario drivers will face competency tests by the government, the Ontario Motor Vehicle Association says. The tests will be held in 1968.

ANSWER: Experience indicates that a 14 by 20 foot family room is a good size. It is a good size. It is a good size. It is a good size.

Quinte TV Brief Prepared

Briefs supporting the re-allocation of channels in Ontario and other parts of Canada will be heard in Ottawa next Tuesday and Wednesday by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

An application for a television station license to serve the Kingston-Peterborough district would be considered by CRTC broadcasting if proposed channel re-allocation is allowed, Dr. G. A. Morton of Belleville said this morning.

One of the loopy problems to be decided by the future board is that of Toronto, and the providing of alternative television viewing to the millions of Eastern Ontario and the London, Ont. area. At present each of these latter two areas is served only by CMC stations.

One of the problem areas is the re-allocation of channels in the Kingston-Peterborough district. A decision on the Toronto matter is expected to be made by a third station license, and outside of that, the board will be interfering with the signal of present stations.

The proposed alternative is the re-allocation of the present CMC channels in the Kingston-Peterborough area. This would free Channel 6 and enable both a London and a Toronto station to be added to the service.

In addition, such a change, if a television station was located in Belleville, would not interfere with the signal of Channel 12, Kingston, and Channel 13, Peterborough.

In the brief to be presented Tuesday, Quinte Broadcasting estimates the granting of an unlimited Channel 6 to Belleville area would enable an alternate television area for a population of 300,000 and 8,000 television households in the Kingston-Peterborough area.

At present the only alternative television programming available on a Monday to Friday reach is CMC's Channel 6, which is a limited number of homes in the Peterborough area, or dependence on television viewing.

The Quinte District, with a population of 17,000 and a television household total of 4,700, would be a truly local television coverage. The Quinte District could mean the establishment of a television station with extensive coverage. The Quinte District could mean the establishment of a television station with extensive coverage.

Toll Up to 130 In Mine Disaster

ABERPAFF, WALES (CP)—The total of bodies recovered by lifting crews were reached 130 today in this south Wales mining town after a landslide brought tragedy Friday.

Of the 130 bodies, 123 were those of children trapped when an enormous, man-made slag heap engulfed a school and at least 16 homes. The 2,000 rescue workers had little hope of finding anyone alive in the debris, but failed on.

Prince Philip flew here from London, put on rubber boots and waded into the mud this afternoon. He watched the search teams at work and spoke in some of the bereaved townspeople.

As an early hour today only one of the bodies had been positively identified by parents and relatives. Except for four children, the other victims were those of children.

Rescue operations at a furious pace in the valley town's progress, most of the bodies were the result of a landslide along one of the 800-foot high, cone-shaped slag heaps, still covered by recent rain, still were on the move. If another major collapse occurred, the 2,000 miners working Friday's victims would be in danger.

New Brunswick Schools To Abolish Grades in '68

FREDERICTON (CP)—Instead of informing their parents of having been graded at the school year's end, pupils in New Brunswick will be talking of making "continuous progress."

Under a tentative program approved Friday by Education Minister W. M. Williams, the grade system will disappear in the province's primary schools by 1968.

Mr. Williams told a press conference the program will provide along a tailor-made education for each student, depending on his rate of learning and his abilities.

It is expected to provide the maximum amount of education for the maximum percentage of children, he said. The 1968-69 province could reasonably hope to start the program in 1968, but pilot projects consisting of some of its elements already are under way in several schools.

He said the program is the result of years of study by educationists and represents the best thinking and research on education in North America. A key principle at the elementary and junior high school levels will be what is called "continuous progress" in which a student moves ahead at his own rate of learning.

At the senior high school level, a major principle is "self-paced instruction," involving the use of individualized learning materials.

In elementary classes, so-called "levels of work" will be established as a substitute for grades, permitting a student to advance at his own rate of learning.

The elementary stage will be for five years, but will be extended to six from five to seven years.

It was estimated 254 children and 28 adults were in the school when the avalanche struck. The school was not severely hurt and was not seriously damaged.

U.S.—Russia Rapport Feared by Erhard

BOON, Germany (AP)—West German officials are worried over signs that the United States and the Soviet Union are drawing closer together on a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear arms. This could be another blow to Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's much criticized government.

West Germany has resumed the production but not the accumulation of nuclear weapons.

The German officials view the situation this way: A treaty probably would close the door to any hope of their sharing some day in the operation of a European nuclear force, with weapons supplied by the United States.

While Britain and France would continue to have their own nuclear arms, West Germany would be in a position of being a nuclear power.

It was barred even from participating in a policy-oriented nuclear weapons system. Erhard's government thinks it should have some responsibility for the coming-very-to the 70-mile-long Berlin wall.

The Soviet Union and the Communist East German government would find certainly the most serious danger.

Erhard's government would either have to sign or to refuse the treaty. West Germany would either have to sign or to refuse the treaty.

Workmen Side by Side With Students In Rush to Complete Centennial High School

Centennial Secondary School

New high school in west Belleville costing nearly $4,000,000 will not be completed at least until the end of the year although 450 students are now attending classes. Picture shows front entrance area and library section with auditorium in the background.

Quinte District Enjoys 'Indian Summer' Weather

The present bout of brilliant, balmy weather is on the forecast books at least for the next few days.

Over the weekend, an ideal Fall climate drew hundreds of Quinte residents outdoors while the sunny, cloudless spell continued today.

The daily forecaster at Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, reported the mercury reached a high of 61 Saturday and 57 yesterday—although the warm temperatures at times were tempered by cool breezes in the open spaces.

Last night, the official low recorded at Trenton was 35 degrees.

And, says the weatherman, the current mildness seems good for the "next two, or three days"—as far as forecasts went this morning.

"Temperatures are expected to continue in the mid-to-high 50s."

The warm spell also has shown up in the clothing business.

A quick canvass at Belleville stores showed wide purchases of winter clothing were slower, sales of women's lighter apparel are running ahead of last year.

"We've had an extremely good season selling dresses," one store owner said. "Actually, we've been selling winter clothing since August but the weather has to be cold and chilly to get a lot of action."

Another owner confined slower sales in heavier clothing "...but our sales in suits and dresses are up approximately 30 per cent over last year."

PRAY FOR THE FLOOD
REBELLY, England (CP)—The vicar of a Staffordshire parish led an intercession for Britain's flooding.

"Our Father, I pray for guidance in our country's economic crisis."

In partial view since the beginning of September, Belleville's newest—and most costly—secondary school is expected to be completed by the end of December.

At least staff members and the six grade 9 and 10 students now attending the ultra-modern $4-million Centennial Secondary School in west Belleville, hope that it will be finished.

Principal James Musgrove says most rooms in all probability will be finished by the year-end, but mechanical tradesmen will still be on the job installing air conditioning and ventilation ductwork and checking out various other mechanical services systems.

Both teachers and students have been attending classes under difficult circumstances the opening of the school term.

"First, only 19 of the close to 30 teaching areas were ready for use. And the school library, gymnasium, cafeteria and auditorium are still in various stages of completion."

Until a week ago there was no heat in the building and to make things a bit more uncomfortable many of the classrooms were still without doors. The first of two locker rooms was used for the first time last week.

And since the rainy weather started, the school campus has been a sea of mud right up to the school doors.

It's still a bit chilly in the corridors where tradesmen are putting on finishing touches, but with bundles of doors about completed, classrooms are more comfortable and the students are beginning to treat their jackets and coats for class study.

Air conditioning and ventilation are important aspects of the new Bay of Quinte District High School. The reason is that 60 per cent of the close to 30 teaching areas were planned "essentially without windows."

In fact when board members approved the planning, the new learning institutions was immediately dubbed the "windowless" school.

But the attitude taken by the board members was that light was on all day in your school anyway so they might as well go all the way.

In any event the final cost was not expected to be too much over $4 million as compared with a conventional school.

Heating, air conditioning and ventilation equipment for the new school is installed in a roof-top section and the main gymnasium air circulating ductwork, air filter units, heating boilers and other equipment is beyond the comprehension of the layman.

The equipment in the penthouse area would fit several Grade 9 and 10 science and chemistry class students are doing slightly limited work, as ventilation and gas service connections in many instances are not hooked up.

The home economics room and shop areas of the school are still to be completed.

With the mass of electric work and other services being going in to the school, architects had to come up with a new solution to get them out of sight and still be readily available for servicing or future expansion.

The answer was a special service corridor running between rows of rooms. Service lines are installed in these corridors.

Which also double as fire exits for classrooms.

This week representatives of almost every conceivable trade in building trade are hard at work at the school.

On the inside, plasterers, electricians, painters, plumbers, heating installers and air conditioning experts are all swarming all over the place.

On the outside, paving as a landscaping man is at work on sidewalks as is an driveway and parking areas are prepared for paving. To conquer the mud problem as quickly as possible and to present a tidier appearance the area in front of the school is expected to be sodded.

Locker Area

New school will have locker facilities on both floors where special locker rooms have been provided for 1,250 students. Krynyna Pivovarski and Marjory Layton, with Principal James Musgrove, check new lockers which went into this week.

Needy Countries Require More Aid, Cof C Told

MARMORA—Canada's role in the Commonwealth was the subject of an address given to members of Marmora Chamber of Commerce on Monday by Rev. Douglas Miller, minister of St. Andrew's United Church.

Outlining the assistance that Canada had given to Jamaica and the Caribbean Islands, Mr. Miller, who has travelled in India, compared the present of famine in Canada and the U.S.A. to the abject poverty in many countries of the world.

"Although the wealth of Canada is increasing rapidly," he said, "Canada's contribution to needy countries is not increasing at the same rate. A very small amount of money by Canadian standards would accomplish a great deal if made available for food and clothing."

During the business meeting that followed, a nominating committee was formed consisting of Alex Fraser, Ritchie Wells, Mr. Miller was thanked by Ritchie Wells.

The meeting, held in the United Church hall following a meal served by the U.C.W., was presided over by the vice-president Gordon Bonnett in the absence of Ron Stephens.

Ten Associated With Kennedy Assassination Die Violently

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters)—Barracks magazine says at least 10 persons connected with the assassination of President Kennedy have since met violent or accidental deaths.

Formerly a Roman Catholic layman's publication but now secularist, Barracks had said earlier to say the least:

The young Dallas reporter who was writing a book on the assassination. His body was found pressed in a tank in his apartment Sept. 12, a month after the assassination, said cause of death was asphyxiation from a broken bone in the base of the neck, "apparently the result of a karate chop," wrote the book, it was missing.

Within a week a 29-year-old ex-con named Larry Earl Reno, was picked up selling KKK's personal effects and held on suspicion of murder. However, Reno was never indicted, but sentenced to imprisonment for robbing a bank.

His brother: A police reporter "with a knack for getting along with cops," he covered the Kennedy assassination. Catherine Winick, his wife, was an "accidentally" shot by a policeman April 25, 1964, eight hours after the assassination. A witness testified before the Warren commission about a meeting in Jack Ruby's apartment attended by Hunter and Winick. Hunter said he had "been playing cops and robbers" with his friend and it went off. "Wiggins was given a suspended sentence for involuntary manslaughter."

Two friends: He was Ruby's legal lawyer who arrived at the police station a short time after the assassination. He was Ruby's owner, the late Harvey Oswald, when the Warren commission concluded killed Kennedy.

Climax Wednesday Report Shakes UK Churches

LONDON (CP) — Bumbling of capital and clergy, from the Archbishop of York, to parish councilors, are echoing through British churches in the wake of a controversial report on morality that appears to condemn pre-marital sex and adultery.

The report, commissioned 20 years ago by the British Council of Churches, was intended to define and propagate the "Christian way" but the churchmen's marriage and faithfulness within it.

But the working party of 12 clergy, doctors, writers and teachers, assigned this job found themselves unable to define or recommend one simple Christian standard of morality.

In the end they decided that their brief, presenting all sides of the issue but reaching no conclusion. And when their aim to consider criticisms of the orthodox Christian doctrine, the authors of the report declined to condemn pre-marital or extra-marital sex as immoral, only warning the view that some circumstances might justify it.

Most Rev. Donald Gordon, Archbishop of York, immediately condemned this as "a disservice to the personal and family life of the nation." Other leading clergymen followed suit.

The new study will reach a climax when the British Council of Churches debates the report at its annual assembly today and Wednesday. A council adopted if the report is accepted, it will be "recommended" to council members.

The British Council of Churches, founded in 1940 by the main church unity, embraces 15 Protestant denominations. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Anglican Primate of All England, is president.

Rev. Kenneth Lawton, secretary to the working party, said in an interview he felt the report has been misrepresented, although he conceded his own members have reached conclusions that would "surprise some Christians."

The postulated report, entitled Sex and Morality, has already gone into a fourth edition within a week. It points out that the authors do not say all rules are valid.

"We have tried to show that rules by themselves are as to people's behavior for morality," the

Belleville Pulls Ahead In UA Race

Belleville's United Association has gone into pending race and revealed by Chapter in two races between the two cities to their campaign gain.

Belleville officials said today their goal is now $100,000. They have $33,668.92, a lead of over 60,000 and just about 10 per cent of the money.

A liberal campaign board "Ted Bennett" said today: "They'll never catch us. We're just beginning to show them our teeth."

"They jumped off at an early lead and ran well. It looked like we'd never catch them. But now it's their turn to try to catch us."

Belleville overcame a huge Chapter during the last week of the race, when it was $15,000 behind and looked as if it was going to have things its own way.

Ready For Peace Feelers

MANILA (CP) — The United States and the other allied nations in the forces in South Viet Nam today agreed to withdraw them within six months if the North pulled back its troops, halted infiltration and reduced the level of violence.

The formula for peace was contained in the final communique of the seven-nation summit conference here attended by President Johnson and the leaders of South Viet Nam, South Korea, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and Thailand.

It was backed up by a reaffirmation of allied determination to maintain the present military effort "as firmly and as long as necessary" in case consultation among co-signing parties the aggression is resumed.

(Agence France-Press) said the communique "had no prospect for an early negotiated settlement."

EXTENDED OVERTURE
The announcement was clearly intended to be an overture to interest the Communists in a negotiated settlement. On the contrary it was stated that Hanoi was to be given a "very long" step toward the end of the war by entering into discussions or negotiations.

Spain Eases "Rock" Ban; Workers Arrive by Bus

GIBRALTAR (Reuters) — Spanish authorities today officially ended a new bus and road traffic route to Gibraltar, in getting South British workers from the peninsula.

British officials were told today that the new route would allow 7,000 Spaniards who work in Gibraltar as far as the two border fences that run across the isthmus linking the British territory to the mainland.

When the restrictions were lifted Monday night, it appeared that no vehicles would be allowed to cross the border of La Linea, leaving the Spanish workers a walk of 10 miles and a half to the frontier.

The new restrictions, barring vehicle traffic across the frontier, were the latest stage in Spain's dispute with Britain over sovereignty of the 1,700-foot "rock," held by Britain since 1704.

The massive double gates on the Gibraltar side of the border swung open today shortly before the usual time when the Spanish road gates re-

Swedish Teachers Strike; Angry Students Protest

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Angry students today drank beer, smoked in classrooms, and threatened to stop studying as a strike by Sweden's 25,000 teachers entered its second day.

Many senior students directed to teach themselves, others clamored over desks, danced to records, and played cards in school corridors.

The strike followed a seven-month lockout of 20,000 teachers in an effort to break a strike by nearly 10,000 teachers over a work-day pay dispute.

Commons Refuses Censure of Reporter

By RONALD LEBER

OTTAWA (CP)—After a two-hour debate, the Commons decided Monday against a censure motion against the newspaper.

The House debated in 14 to 17 Commons a censure motion to censure reporter Marcel Pepin for breaching the privilege committee's ruling on publishing news articles.

The 47 Conservative votes were opposed by 13 Liberals, 12 New Democrats, five Credit Union Social Credit members and six other members.

Opposition and Independent MP Gilles Duceppe.

Governments House Leader, Jean Charest, said a broad censure motion would "interfere with the work of the members of the press to freely report the proceedings in this House as they see them."

Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton) introduced the motion, accusing Le Droit of "impugning the honour and integrity of a House member."

The Edmonton lawyer, MP, also questioned Mr. Pepin, but who was the source for the article is questioned.

Spokesman for the smaller opposition parties said Mr. No-quest was being too sensitive to press criticism.

DEBATE MEDICAL BILL
The Commons later debated the medical care insurance bill, the day. The Conservatives and NDP which they knew took issue criticizing the government.

Just before the 10 p.m. EDT vote, Conservative Charles (PC—Windsor, South Ontario), MacKinnon perhaps would get a chance today to close the debate on second reading.

Mr. Charest said his party will present a motion to censure the Liberals' medical care plan when it receives a chance to vote after the second reading.

He indicated that most Conservatives will vote the second reading, but some Liberal MPs are expected to break the party line.

Conservative Whip Eric Wick said the opposition is only doing its duty in questioning the medical bill. His party was not alone in dissenting the major issue.

He said there have been 11 speeches by Liberals, 12 by New Democrats, seven by Independents and three by Social Credit members.

Jail Term in Injunction Cases May Become "Badge of Honor"

TORONTO (CP)—Court decisions in cases involving court injunctions in labor disputes may become a badge of honor rather than a deterrent among militant unionists, lawyer warned Monday.

E. W. Joffe, counsel for 74 militant unionists, said the court decision in the case of the Ontario Court of Appeal.

"Defence could be measured by the direct adversity to the workers when they are dealing with recent decisions of good faith," Mr. Joffe said.

Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder said: "Don't you think others will be deterred by knowing of the jail sentences?"

Mr. Joffe replied that there are situations, as there were in the case of the Ontario Court of Appeal, where being in jail could be a badge of distinction.

He argued the Ontario Court of Appeal decision in the case of the men had violated an injunction. He said the court should have accepted the defence.

He said the men were taking part in a demonstration against the law which permits the use of labour pickets in Ontario.

Chief Justice L. A. Gauthier in the Ontario Supreme Court decision said the men were taking part in a demonstration for the picketing.

provision with picketing. The action of the demonstrators, he said, did not correspond with the definition of picketing in any legal or dictionary available.

He said that during demonstrations the demonstrators were picketing separately in specific areas.

All those charged had walked a few miles outside the plant but there was no evidence they entered the plant picketers at the plant's law entrance.

He also argued that the men were not informed that they were being charged with criminal contempt when they were arrested.

"The only charge those applicants were asked upon to meet was that they had disobeyed the order by picketing, picketing and picketing."

He said that if the men were demonstrating with a purpose but not picketing they should not be convicted under the law.

Mr. Joffe said the labor demonstrators sentenced to jail for contempt were not picketing at the Peterborough plant in any legal sense of the word.

CRIMINAL EVIDENCE
Evidence at the trial showed the men did not "picket" the plant and "no categories" were set of those applicants as picketing amounts to an extension or enlargement of the meaning of the word, which would not be picketing.

Canadian Mine Union Rebuffs U.S. Mergers

By JOHN LEBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — The long tooth-and-claw battle between two huge unions in Canada's iron-ore belt is coming to another crucial turning point. All eyes are now fixed on the old foe—the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America—who are to meet the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' union in a referendum on Oct. 30.

The marriage would end up with a deep impact in this area of the country. At the moment, the potential Canadian effect is a quiet one.

When the 16 sections of the union have been amalgamated with the U.S., the Canadian forces are far from that. There have been attempts at an olive branch with one first and losing Mine—Mill with the other. The Canadian Mine-Mill problems in determination not to have its Canadian identity and autonomy "blown up by the larger U.S. union."

But below the water events are moving rapidly towards a merger, or more correctly an amalgamation of the 60,000 U.S. Mill members by the 1,100,000 member Steelworkers union.

No voting next year was agreed in late August, and the U.S. union members are to hold a referendum on Oct. 30. The full merger, as American Mine-Mill members expected to follow suit, with the exception coming early in the new year.

STRENGTH AMERICAN

Nothing like that is happening in Canada, partly because the Canadian section of Mine-Mill became a separate entity in 1955 and has the first right of refusal to be merged into the U.S. union.

However, if the Canadian headquarters has made such a decision, the U.S. union will be in the last year. Both have been in the last year of the Mine-Mill convention. Canadian President Ken Smith of Mine-Mill also says his union earned down an invitation to explore the merger with the U.S. union.

Steelworkers International executives heard this in Toronto last week. At the time, Mr. Smith observed, the Steelworkers were being merged with the U.S. union.

The difference between the U.S. is that it has a national union. The Canadian union is a local union. "Having established a Canadian union, we would be taking a backward step to bring it into an American union."

It is tough and expensive fight. Steel's bid for the certification covering 100,000 Pittsburgh workers is being fought through.

As for the referendum, "President Smith is determined," he said, "to maintain the U.S. Mine-Mill union in Canada based on our Canadian conditions. We do not need to be as subject to the steel industry conditions and in every other way we run from the U.S."

Harvey Murphy, national vice-president and head of the U.S. Mine-Mill, said that "We have in Canada had no intention of becoming hard-mine members to the Steelworkers. What the officers of Mine-Mill do in the U.S. is their own business."

William, director of the U.S. Mine-Mill, said that "We have in Canada had no intention of becoming hard-mine members to the Steelworkers. What the officers of Mine-Mill do in the U.S. is their own business."

Newspapers in Saigon

Publishing Is A Numbers Game

By DOUGLAS AMARON
SAIGON (CP)—It takes courage, patience and money to be a newspaper publisher in South Viet Nam.

Courage to get into the uncertain profession in the first place; patience to cope with the high degree of government control; money to keep pace with ever-increasing costs of printing on a daily paper.

Keeping count of the number of dailies in Saigon is a numbers game. In 1961, in mid-August, there were 37, three English, two Vietnamese, seven Chinese and two French. In mid-September, the total was somewhere around 35.

Some risks for authorization to start newspapers were met early last year by Nguyen Han Thong, assistant to the secretary of state for information and by Mai Tran Van An, the government's press director.

They announced that authorization would be granted to five or six groups of journalists. There would be no more than 10 members—who had been in the profession for at least five years. Each group must have a printing press with no less than two yearly subscription.

They also said that no authorization would be granted to political and religious bodies. About 30 new papers were in the process of being set up.

paper owners say some have reached the street. Their backers drew the money sums of newspaper, said it on the black market and called it a day.

SAIGON'S RATIONED
Saigon's three English, language papers—The Daily News, The Guardian and The Free Press—publish eight-page papers six days a week and The Free Press has a Sunday tabloid edition.

Newsprint is rationed and the monthly quota is not enough to meet the needs of the 30,000-day circulation of a paper such as The Guardian. Additional paper is bought on the black market at up to 30 per cent more than the 30,000-day quota (about 200 shares) official cost. That official price is double what it was earlier in the year.

All very small but submitted to the ministry of information for censorship—although there is no censorship of news going out of the country—and then to the ministry of defense for the editors. The Guardian has a special double that frequently would not be noticed was not at night.

For that reason, almost every paper appears with black spots indicating where they have been obtained to meet the censor's orders. If guidance cannot seek enough, they have a revision or a promotional advertisement is used as a replacement.

The government said political censorship would be lifted for two weeks before the South Viet Nam election Sept. 10 but still was dealing with Communist opposition to the election were killed.

When Premier Nguyen Cao Ky visited the Philippines in August, reporters in hostilities were out from stories until the Philippine press in Saigon commented on the demonstrations a few days after his return.

REDACTION CENSORSHIP
A series of glowing incidents in Saigon in September led to a publisher to write an editorial calling for closer supervision of weapons. Most of the incidents involved United States soldiers and although known to be correct and not critical of anyone the editorial was not published.

A high-ranking future war going on the Vietnamese curious appeared with an inch-deep page, page half-way down the column.

ment. The censored paragraph mentioned some troops were showing a common local habit of urinating against a wall.

Publishers do not object to military censorship but recent political editing that appears to be left to the whim of the censor. Many stories cut from papers were up in United States publications that came back over the country and were to comply the content to their readers, editors felt the impression is being created that they are not doing their job.

Suspension and cancellation of licenses is a threat that hangs over the head of all publishers. The News was suspended for five days last month and The Post for three for publishing a picture of a genetically-died girl who had entered into a party given by a high government official.

Both papers received the pleasure from a photo service and published it in good faith. But it had been taken on a night-vision where the girl was a corpse, a mutilated, but at the party.

Despite that, page apologies, the suspension ended.

Taxpayers "Shortchanged $1,000,000" in Car Deal MPs Claim

OTTAWA (CP) — Industry Minister Drury told the Commons Tuesday the revenue department is conducting a "special judicial investigation" into a car import transaction involving Studebaker and Volkswagen.

Revenue Minister Senneker continued that the transaction is under investigation.

Neither minister offered a direct reply when T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, asked whether they were aware the transaction involved Studebaker of Canada buying Volkswagen in the U.S., importing them into Canada duty-free under the Canada-U.S. auto agreement and then selling them back to Volkswagen at a "Canadian profit."

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux disavowed the notion of Albert Heale (PC-Wellington South) for an emergency debate on the issue.

Michael Starr (PC-Ontario) said Studebaker, in the three years of going out of business at Hamilton, made a deal with another company to evade duty and that the government was party to the deal.

Mr. Senneker said a letter was written to officials of his department asking whether a "certain transaction" would fall under the terms of the auto treaty, which permits Canadian car manufacturers to import foreign cars on parts duty-free.

An official of his department had replied that if the transaction was carried out in a certain way "it would fall under terms of the treaty."

The question now is, Mr. Sen-neker said, whether the transaction was carried out in conformity with the opinion given by the officials of his department.

Opposition leader J. Diefenbaker demanded to know whether the government had given permission for what he alleged the minister of the public trading said.

Mr. Senneker said it had not.

Mr. Heale said in his motion that Canadian taxpayers were "short-changed" about $1,000,000 by the two automobile firms. He asked immediate debate on "this very scandalous and shocking situation."

He said Volkswagen Canada Ltd. and Studebaker Canada Ltd. each saved roughly 200 to 300 dollars on the deal.

Mr. Senneker said his department will see that the law is complied with. If there had been any evasion of duty, corrective action would be taken.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Senneker's explanation indicates there is something rotten in the state of Denmark.

He quoted the president of Volkswagen as saying he had misgivings about the transaction and that his company wouldn't enter into any similar ones.

He also quoted the Volkswagen official as saying the company had obtained legal clearance in writing for the deal.

Mr. Diefenbaker said car manufacturers were "sneaking" $1,000,000 out of the $20,000,000 they had been given under the auto agreement. A foreign company had been given permission to mislead the public investigation before the matter was raised in the House Monday. But they seemed to be double that the transaction had been carried out in conformity with the opinion given by his departmental officials.

He asked whether similar deals had been made by other Canadian car makers. Were there other loopholes in the agreement?

Mr. Senneker said he accepted full responsibility in the matter but gave no direct reply to Mr. Heale's question.

Mr. Senneker said he would not like to prejudice his ongoing department, which had started on June 1965.

In Toronto, a spokesman for Volkswagen Canada Ltd. said Studebaker Canada Ltd. was in the duty-free status, imported about 10,000 Volkswagens into Canada between January and June, 1965.

Shah Plane Workhorse

EDMONTON (CP)—A buzz-saw-thrilled airplane that once belonged to the Shah of Iran now flies between Edmonton and the Rainbow Lake airfield in northern Alberta hauling fuel, supplies and work gear.

The Transwest Pioneer, a two-engine high-wing transport with a tailfin in natural colored leather, was disposed of by the Shah when he joined the 44th.

An Iranian flying club bought it and flew it until Air Transport Ltd. decided it needed a plane that could handle short, primitive runways in the northwestern Alberta wilderness.

Among the plane's special features is a triple tail that makes for good control in most weather conditions. It can also haul a 4,000-pound payload on short trips and get in and out of airfields with barely runways 400 feet long.

Captain George McLeod and patrol built its own fire and were tested for first aid, fire-

Each patrol was responsible for choosing and organizing a guide

Hospitals Not Just Spectators in Battle For MDs, Nurses, Wages Association Told

TORONTO (CP)—Oscar hospitals may not be able to keep pace with community need for the province's output of qualified doctors and nurses does increase, the Ontario Hospital Association was told Tuesday night.

William A. Holland of Oakville, newly-elected OHA president, told the association's annual convention that the need for doctors and nurses is increasing and that hospitals are not doing enough to train qualified personnel in medicine and not just a topic for wit-tled discussion.

"Hospitals are not just interested spectators in this matter," he said. "They are right in the thick of it. For it is the hospital that ultimately is held responsible by the public for providing an organized and comprehensive health service."
Mr. Holland, administrator of the Ontario General Hospital, said it is also time for hospitals to clarify their position on salaries. "The often we find we selves cast in the role of St. Peter in the eyes of the public," he said. "But the recent of salary increases to nursing personnel and other staff members past few years hardly justifies the image."

Mr. Holland said nurses' salaries have increased by nearly 50 per cent since 1960 and "hopitals are as anxious as any employer to pay fair and reasonable salaries, but the public must realize that higher salaries inevitably mean higher hospital costs."

In another address, Dr. W. H.
Allen, the Paul C. O'Brien told delegates that the university must be more communities services in the province must be revised.

"There is duplication of services and considerable problems with regard to communication," he said. "There is no constant pattern of service."

Many community organizations, he said, are not aware of personnel courses. Dr. Allen said that the OHA must be available. "Dr. Andrew said that a matter of training some for a specific illness."

"It involves consideration of environment and development.

are involved in the granting of hospital beds.

"A doctor may practically ask is available," Dr. Andrew said.

"Later the physician may find he has been given the bed be-

Farm Production in Ontario Ahead of Rest of Canada

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—
Tuesday night.
Dr. John A. Dawson of the Economic Council of Canada told the opening session of the conference that Ontario's farm output 27 per cent between 1963-65 and 1961-63. This compared with an increase of 21 per cent nationally.

Largest increases were in vegetables, livestock and poultry.
The types of products for which demand is rising most rapidly, Dr. Dawson said.

The four-day conference, organized by the provincial government, will examine Ontario agriculture with the aim of developing helpful legislation and government policies.

Ontario agriculture has changed quickly in the last 25 years, Dr. Dawson said. The 27 per cent increase in output was produced by 20 per cent fewer workers using five-cent less improved land.

In the 18 years up to 1963-65, the number of farm operators in Ontario declined to 8,000 from 125,000, he said. Output per farm rose by 22 per cent.
Premier John Robarts said at the conference that the meeting is the most significant yet held to train the province's food production industry and its future.

The premier said the small family farm is no longer the economically sound unit it was 25 years ago. Many farmers, he said, are now carving small hungives farms some because of high-cost mechanization and low prices.

Dr. H. L. Patterson, director of the farm economics branch of the Ontario department of agriculture, told delegates that Canada will have peratures supplying its citizens with enough food to feed from five to 10 years.

Protein foods, such as meat, milk and eggs, will become increasingly expensive, he predicted. "They will be available at a price, but will be prohibi-tively for many persons."

They're Looking for Manitoba's First Man

CARBERRY, Man. (CP)—A point.
Whitney anthropologist searching for clues about Manitoba's earliest man, says he has his pencil in the Carberry Plains area.

Prof. J. A. H. Reineberg of United College says he and a group of students have unearthed natural and man-made evidence of a prehistoric site.
The Carberry Plains have been found on two Carberry district farms near the course of the ancient Assiniboine River, 10 miles from the river's present channel.

The anthropologist says he thinks the objects found belonged to tribes of the Plains Indians who came to North America from Siberia 20,000 to 25,000 years ago.

Ottawa Expected to Budge Slightly On Splitting Cost of New Schools

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government today is expected to budge—on not much—on its proposed plan for helping the provinces finance increasing education costs.

Informants said it is likely that the cabinet, as a result of a Tuesday afternoon meeting, will move part way to dampen objections to the federal-provincial fiscal conference to curtailment of contributions to technical and vocational training programs at the secondary school level.

Ottawa plans to end its $1,800,000-year grant to operating costs next March 31 and is likely to stick by this.

But there was some likelihood that the government would modify its plan to phase out construction grants by 1973. Informants said the phase-out period might be extended, or more money might be pumped in during the same period.

Negotiations were still in progress over a complex formula to distribute a proposed federal tax transfer to the provinces to pay 30 per cent of the operating costs of higher education.

The government is not expected to increase its offer to turn over an additional four per cent of personal income tax and one per cent of corporate taxes.

But definitions of terms such as "post-secondary education" and "under maintenance" are still being worked on. The outcome will determine which universities and technical schools and which students will qualify.

After reaching what Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson termed as "impasse," the conference adjourned Tuesday noon to permit the federal cabinet to consider provincial objections and demands.

Prime Minister Pearson is to state the federal position when the conference resumes at 10 a.m. EDT today. In the afternoon, the conference will turn to the problem of reviving tax-sharing arrangements which lapse next spring.

After the premiers protested against the plan to curtail the shared-cost technical and vocational programs, Manpower Minister Marchand said it is essential that Ottawa withdraw.

... Unless you are prepared to agree that we should have the permanent influence or your programs that shared-cost arrangements give us, I suggest that you must accept the principle of our withdrawal," he said.

"Otherwise the level of government that doesn't have constitutional responsibility for education would more and more be riding the money for it and having an increasing indirect influence on the school system."

It would not make any kind of sense, he said, to have a federal government in Ottawa and a provincial government in the provinces.

At the same time Mr. Marchand declared the government's decision to take over full financing of adult retraining programs on the grounds that the central authority has responsibility for employment and economic development.

His views ran counter to those of Mr. Johnson, who has charged that Ottawa is trying to enter the educational field through the back door.

The federal government says the tax transfer would give the provinces about $90,000,000 extra for higher education in the first year of operation. Part of the transfer is over provincial estimates of their gain which fall short of the federal estimate.

The decision to split spending from the fact that the post-war baby boom has moved on to university level. Mr. Pearson says.

Premier of Newfoundland was somewhat happier Tuesday, saying his province might gain $2,000,000 (instead of losing $2,000,000 as he first thought).

Nova Scotia Premier Stanfield said most provinces agree with the plan to help financing of higher education but are distressed by the curtailment of federal contributions to the schools at the secondary level.

Premier Campbell of Prince Edward Island said he thinks the federal government has underestimated the full effect of the withdrawal on the province.

Premier Robb of New Brunswick said that on balance his treasury will gain but not sufficiently to cope with over-all inflation.

Most residents was Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan.

"It gets worse hour by hour," he said. "I can't afford to come to any more of these conferences."

Premiers Manning of Alberta and Bolduc of Manitoba said their provinces will receive less money than they first estimated.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia said he still hopes the federal government will make some changes.

U.S. Naval Officers in Viet Nam Have Unusual Patrol Task

By SCOTT STONE

WITH THE U.S. FLEET (FLEET)—American naval aviators, wearing distinctive black berets, live a strange and hard life in the least-populated section of the U.S. Navy's share of the Viet Nam War.

They are advisors to the captain of a Vietnamese fleet of armed junks which patrol the coast to prevent the movement by water of Viet Cong guerrilla fighters or supplies. They also search thousands of sampans sailing South Viet Nam's inshore waters and river estuaries, particularly in the Mekong delta leading up to Saigon.

The officers, who live and eat under the same conditions and hardships as the Vietnamese sailors whose they advise, have seen plenty of action. One was killed or wounded by fire from boats junks at the smaller sampans carrying Viet Cong, or from small boats positioned on river banks.

They work in close association with the U.S. Navy's own river patrol force, made up of some 70 boats carrying men and equipment which carry out similar task. These boats, 40 feet long and drawing only 18 inches of water, are commanded by senior ratings with three-month crews.

SEARCH BOATS

Their Operation Green Warden patrols last normally about 10 hours and, on recent day, they and the Vietnamese junk patrolled in the coastal waters. These boats, with a speed of 15 knots, are based at key stations along the coast.

For similar patrol purposes, the United States Navy is experimenting with three all-weather craft or vehicles. These can travel over water, marshlands and any reasonably flat terrain at about 80 knots.

Backlog in this mixed force of patrol vessels is a detachment of Neptune patrol aircraft for spotting, armed helicopters, landing craft and river boats guard entire mouth of a river as well as sea-lane ships.

Federal Payments to Drive Taxes Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian tax payers will have to pay more than $100 million in increased federal contributions to education, social services, health care, and other programs, according to a report of the Finance Minister, Mr. Pearson, today.

The education and social services payments are being increased at this week's federal-provincial conference on education and social matters. The guaranteed income program, scheduled to go before Parliament soon, was announced last week.

When Health Minister Marc Riches announced the guaranteed income program for the aged last summer, he estimated the cost would be about $200,000,000 a year.

Finance Minister Pearson had said later that this would have to be met from increased taxes.

The increased contributions to education, announced by Prime Minister Pearson before the conference, were estimated to amount to about $120,000,000 for 1966-67.

"Mr. Pearson said in his statement."

"The total amount to be paid out of this report for higher education will be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in a year or another—limiting the replacement of the revenue transferred."

At a press conference Wednesday, Mr. Pearson said the transfer to provinces for higher education would be accounted for, adding:

"I think we will have to raise taxes for this purpose."

Added to this is a new equalization formula, outlined in September and confirmed at the conference Wednesday, that will cost the federal treasury about $130,000,000 in 1966-67 in increased payments to the provinces.

In other developments Wednesday the federal government announced its plans about phasing-out grants to technical and vocational training at the secondary school level and decided to limit a new tax - sharing agreement with the provinces.

Both steps helped to partly provide the money.

Mr. Pearson said the provinces in the morning that during the phasing-out of the transfer in this field there will be about $50,000,000 in federal money available for the provinces.

Instead of phasing out the program over six years, a spending limit of $80 per capita will be introduced.

The extra money will permit provinces which had used up their quotas of $80 per capita to undertake more construction.

The second change was anounced by Mr. Sharp who stated that the federal government was willing to sign a two-year tax-sharing agreement instead of the three-year agreement Ottawa had proposed.

He agreed with several provinces that two-year contracts would allow both levels of government to review, study and perhaps implement in 1968 recommendations of the Carter royal commission on taxation.

Provinces for a short time agreed to make the transfer of a federal-provincial tax structure continue for two years so that some provinces say has been "bait" by the end of the decade the federal government will find itself in a situation financial position.

At the same time the provinces would still be in a deficit position, it was argued.

Mr. Sharp refused Wednesday to make public the findings of the commission.

To pay for increased education costs, Ottawa is to turn over an additional five points of personal income tax and one point of corporate taxes.

The changes in the plans for technical and vocational grants at the secondary school level brought varying comments from premiers.

Mr. New Brunswick's Louis Robitaille said he was "very, very disappointed" by the end of the decade the federal government will find itself in a situation

Unification Icing on Cake: Allard

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gen. Victor Allard, chief of the defence staff, Wednesday compared armed forces integration to a three-way cake and said the icing, top-to-bottom unification, is about to be applied.

Gen. Allard was speaking at a press conference after addressing a private dinner meeting of the Honorary Canadian Association.

He said unification does not mean the disappearance of existing divisions. "There is much value in regimental ties, badges, that represent pride in history."

The general made it obvious he is enthusiastic over defence Minister Paul Hellyer's unification program for the armed forces.

"I must tell you the feeling I get when I stepped out the plane at Ottawa, B.C. after being home on Thursday," he said, "was missing my brother officers. ... I was at home at what is strictly an air force station. This, after only two years of integration."

He said that the barriers which must be broken down are chiefly those now preventing an officer in one branch, such as the air force, from being able to fill positions in another branch of the service.

He said it is a bright and capable air force officer is bound the RCAF to be surprised, he is relieved to find full realization such as officer could continue his career uninterrupted in some other branch of the service.

Erhard Under Fire

BERLIN (Reuters) — Chancellor (Ludwig) Erhard's government coalition broke apart today when the minority Free Democrats' four cabinet ministers resigned over a budgetary dispute, the party announced.

The coalition, an increasingly uneasy one, broke up a year after its formation, which Erhard's triumph in 1963 general election.

Erhard, under fire within his own Christian Democratic party for alleged weakness and indecisiveness, could theoretically argue on ruling with a minority government, since the West German constitution is designed to strengthen the position of the party in power.

But his position would be one of extreme difficulty, political observers said.

There was no immediate statement from the Christian Democratic party or the chancellor on the intention of the party's chairman, who recently reaffirmed his intention to continue in the office he has held since he succeeded Konrad Adenauer three years ago.

The dispute with the Free Democrats was over wage of raising an estimated $200,000,000, $100,000,000 deficit in next year's budget.

The Free Democrats want the government to reduce military and abolishing tax concessions, which Erhard's government has refused to do.

The Democrats said they did not see how tax increases if this was the only way to cover the deficit.

Erhard does not try to Young Pilot Ejects From Jet Trainer

MOOSEJAW (CP) — A young Bellview air force officer - asked yesterday ejected safely after the alarm system on his jet trainer aircraft failed a warning shortly before landing.

Cadet James Rutherford, 21, of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Rutherford, 21, Moose Jaw, was flying the trainer at 10,000 feet preparing to land, when the fire - warning indicator flashed on.

He and his instructor, under strict discipline and procedure, decided to eject.

The second man was ejected safely.

Adverse investigators are assigned the warning system.

Robert Rutherford telephoned his parents in Moose Jaw, Sask. at 7 p.m. (EST) to tell them he was safe. It was his first experience he had of his escape.

A graduate of Miles Secondary School, he was in the RCAF last year and took an officer - training course.

Rutherford was sent for training here and was expected to return by ship next March.

John North Langley, Jr.

John North Langley, Jr., a salesman, and David King Langley, Jr., a student, pleaded guilty to throwing plastic bags at Johnson as he was en route to a reception at Government House.

The innocent's bubble top protected the Johnsons but the secret service moved to prevent persons in the crowd from being dashed by the red and green paint.

Margaret E. L. Danaher ordered the pair held for 34 days to await sentencing.

The threat of "people's war" seems real enough. It is the announced intention of China to support one in the style of Viet Nam. A Thailandian Communist has broadcast last month called Viet Nam "a shining example for us."

Free in Bangkok doubt the threat in the impoverished northeast, noting a sharp rise in year in guerrilla activity. In 1965 there has been an average of 10 or more assassinations each month as the guerrillas try to get control of an area, from over 100, that could be the nucleus of a "liberated zone."

Military men say guerrilla attacks are better organized than ever. Guerrillas in the south-east operate in bands of up to 100. Many are equipped with weapons which swing into villages, incite peasants and intimidate or murder officials. The incident is reminiscent of the Viet Cong in the late 1950s.

The government is trying to establish links between villages and Bangkok. Economic and social measures help an effort to build an Asian democracy, the sort which begins at village level. There is often more democracy at that level than at the national one, where a rather backward military dictatorship prevents a constitution and representative government from being established.

Attempts are made to better local government, raise income, increase authority of the village level.

Abernethy Silent but for Tears of Bereaved

ABERNETHY, Wales (CP) — Paga flew at half staff throughout Britain today in national mourning for the children killed by a landslide of coal waste in last week's Abernethy disaster.

For the first time since the landslide crushed the village school, killing at least 160 persons, Abernethy did silence as the towns swelled this afternoon's news hours. All of the victims were children.

All work stopped on the disaster site, where perhaps up to 50 bodies have yet to be found. Salvage men believe many more have been completely crushed in the landslide.

Many families are believed to have been wiped out in the stone houses crumpled by the landslide and grid - written villagers appealed to outsiders to stay away and grief - stricken Black - edged funeral trains were lined up in the streets of relatives of the dead, who will be buried in two communal graves only half a mile from where thousands of tons of slag were in a colliery waste dump crushed the Pagaia village in 1965.

The town was crowded for the funeral and all traffic stopped.

Funerals of other victims have been arranged privately. The Queen will visit the disaster zone Saturday and later meet survivors in a hospital at Pontypridd.

Four of the 143 known dead still are unidentified.

They topped 471,000 (£210,000), with donations from the Queen and other members of the Royal Family leading the list.

Post offices are swamped with thousands of letters for the bereaved, and thousands of letters from all over Britain have arrived in Abernethy.

Too Involved to Care

A remarkable note on this page today goes to the very roots of the meaning of democracy. It speaks of the public and its freedoms, including those of free speech and the right to express opinions and to criticize. It says that the majority of people, with some truth, — that the majority of people are, firstly, too involved in the whole frantic swirl of present-day life, — to consider old values (in this case the Royal coat of arms) and the proposal to replace it with modern insignia on post office vehicles and mailbags) and secondly, too inarticulate or helpless in the face of circumstances (creeping republicanism) they feel are outside their control. The note calls to mind the words of Thoreau, that "most men lead lives of quiet desperation." Although Thoreau died in 1849, the inference is that there goes another century since the time when men began to feel intensely that way on.

In Thoreau's day Canadians and Americans like himself had other problems. They were poor and life was not easy. Still, people likely were happier than they are today — an age of affluence that has almost the entire nation caught up in the scramble for material status, as today's letter puts it, and this at the cost of most men's spiritual life.

How does republicanism fit here? The letter suggests there is a sort of inevitability about this trend which might ultimately be too late to change. Yet, if we really want to, must we break with traditions going back a thousand years, with a heritage that helped shape this country and its people, and the values of the still-powerful Commonwealth?

A republican form of government may suit the United States, but it is not the answer for Canada. The answer is a quieter, more peaceful, law-abiding and in many ways more mature country than the neighbor is due largely to its history. The answer lies in the past, and which includes the indefinable strength and resilience, even the mystique, of the monarchy which the great majority of Canadians honor and adore.

Riverfront Walk

It was a quiet Sunday afternoon — all the kind few people take away from — but it could have been anything else.

Life tends to move in cycles — old things, fashions at all, often are transformed so that they are new again. In the case of the riverfront walk, it may come a time when a Canadian will tire of their car to the point that a stroll in the countryside or along the riverbank may enjoy fresh appeal.

Yes, along the riverbank — in Belleville. Members of the local branch of the Community Foundation Association took such a walk last Sunday, looking over the river area from the lower bridge northward to the upper bridge. They were accompanied by the proposed land-use plan and the proposed plan for the riverfront and access road submitted last summer by a firm of Toronto consultants.

The group walked and their impressions, there to share, reflect the fact that in Belleville's riverfront, along with other aspects of the city scene, there is room for improvement.

R. C. Craig, who headed the group on its tour of observation, noted afterwards: "Despite the fact that the riverfront is a beautiful area along the river, the rocks and the water, formed a pleasant picture in the sunny afternoon."

"The group picked up a lot of rubbish and trash along the bank and the most remarkable collection of rubbish under the footbridge."

It is clear from this that a clean-up of the riverfront is needed at this very time. And the thought occurs that in this respect, Belleville is no different from our urban appearance than the grassy fringing some of our city streets and avenues.

There is an exploratory effort then, last Sunday's permituation has focused attention on one area of the city which is in line for probable re-development, to the benefit of the city and its people.

Accent on Courtesy

Ontario may lose 15 per cent of its 55 per cent share of Canadian tourist revenue next year because of drop in courtesy.

The Ontario Department of Tourism and Information. All the more reason then why we should heed the words of the Tourist Information Council of America. James Alder, who held the Transportation Chair of Toronto last week that the public "will not countenance any rudeness or discourtesy, any impatience or service or attitude which might tend to discredit this country for years to come."

Courtesy of the many are to be neglected by the actions of a few. And it is difficult to find many any less than more than the minimal degree of poor service that is bound to occur now and again.

It is Mr. Alder's point, out the province cannot afford such hostility toward the tourist. Conversely, even a little courtesy, a readiness to go the extra mile on the part of everyone, can build up goodwill for years to come.

You Good Health To Young People in 20's Often in Poor Health

By JOSEPH G. MOLEY, M.D.

"Why don't you write a more about my age? I am 20 years old and I am in poor health."

The answer is simple enough. Most of the people who write to me about their health are in poor health because of the bad habits they have picked up in their 20's.

I think I have said too much. For the most part, but you've got to be realistic. You can't be too healthy, but you can be in poor health because of the bad habits you have picked up in your 20's.

Figure counts to point of the importance of potential danger. It is a danger. It is a danger. It is a danger. It is a danger. It is a danger.

Dear Dr. Moley: I pay to live by money. I pay to live by money. I pay to live by money. I pay to live by money. I pay to live by money.

Removal of the cancer must be done. It must be done. It must be done. It must be done. It must be done.

Neither. The body may perhaps be saved. The body may perhaps be saved. The body may perhaps be saved. The body may perhaps be saved. The body may perhaps be saved.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure. Not to make sure.

Wicks is too often dismissed as a small corner of Great Britain with plain names so small and full of w's and d's that they cannot be pronounced by the non-Wicks.

Actually, it is a proud land, distinguished by its history. It has done so much for the world that it is hard to believe that it is so small.

Some of the most talented of the world's writers have lived in Wicks. It is a proud land, distinguished by its history.

A short editorial in one of your last week's issues raised interesting questions about the proposed land-use plan for the riverfront and access road submitted last summer by a firm of Toronto consultants.

The group walked and their impressions, there to share, reflect the fact that in Belleville's riverfront, along with other aspects of the city scene, there is room for improvement.

R. C. Craig, who headed the group on its tour of observation, noted afterwards: "Despite the Woman Minister Directs UK Transport Smoothly

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — "I have perfectly well might be called a failure at this job," said Transport Minister Barbara Castle, looking calmly at the camera behind the bar, carved and polished with its line of helping hands.

"I have 110,000 I took in. Everybody said: 'Oh, that's the hot seat, it always breaks up political reputation.' I may break mine, but I have learned to learn from the possibility of failure. No one can ever succeed without first coming to terms with that."

Barbara Castle was the red-haired, vital Yorkshirewoman who led to Harold Wilson's cabinet-filled British women to lead the rank. It only because of the remarkable Mrs. Castle and her country persistence that her personality matters.

At 54, the first anti-minister Mrs. Castle has achieved the 14 headwinds for women in British politics. Not only she had a job of a technical complexity no woman ever tackled before, she also had a woman's touch in a struggle to have a woman in charge of Britain's ports, highways and railroads.

POSITIVE MERRY CAB — So far, indeed, criticism has been light at a job that usually attracts it from all quarters. Even the Telegraph that she drove to winning this. A colleague explained: "It's no more reasonable to expect a transport minister to drive than it is to expect an artist to paint for a year."

"Vividly photogenic," it is surprising that Barbara Castle is frequently on the front pages, whereas most British could hardly remember the name of her predecessor, Mr. Fraser.

"What is surprising is that in the months she has stamped her own unmistakably socialist approach on a job that has fascinated many political leaders by her weight of administration."

Planning and Migration Minister in the new cabinet, she has taken to the main task of "balancing British to terms with the new age," reconciling the automobile explosion with improved public transport.

Barbara Castle both for the horse-and-buggy era without weakening the character of the British countryside.

FIGHTS CONGESTION — Projects in the decade modernization of British ports, co-ordinating public, owned road and rail freight services that now compete, and a long-term idea of "road-pricing" to discourage automobile congestion on city centers — all these measures likely to be operated by the female minister in each particular.

Trail — girls on highways, common in past centuries, have largely disappeared in Britain except in the mountains to some bridge.

Barbara Castle's approach is based on social measures, but she has been reluctant to support restrictions to limit motorists' freedom from Britain.

Barbara Castle, who grew up in a remote area where cars would have been a hardship in people's remote areas or where they would have been a constant heavy spot by switching heavy traffic to the roads.

She had long been fascinated by the prospect of "re-creating an industry in a 'really creative way,' but as a passionate self-styled socialist in the days of her first husband, where her father, Frank Castle, a newspaper editor, poet, scholar and militant socialist.

"Politically assimilated even in her school days, Barbara was a scholar to Oxford and turned herself to journalism on the subject of transport."

Barbara Castle is driven by an emotion, product of a childhood in the depressed north of England, where she grew up in the city of Bradford, where her father, Frank Castle, a newspaper editor, poet, scholar and militant socialist.

Greek Career Girls Under Family Yoke

ATHENS (Reuters) — The smart career girls of Athens, with their city not clothes showing off their lively good looks, stop back a century when they are their father's daughter. Although they won the vote of "voters" age 18 and over, the career most professions in 1987, the most educated women in Greece are still restricted by a rigid family law.

Determined women like Elyfina, virtuous chairlady of the Greek Women's Rights Association, insist that while, on paper, her counterparts hold legal rights which surpass even their European sisters, in practice they are among the worst off.

Miss Phillips said that the majority of men demand a dowry from their future wife's parents — and the bride is, in essence, the property of her father's house. She said:

"After marriage they discover that the husband has complete legal authority over the child, even when absent, and can countermand any decision affecting them although he may not have supported the family for years."

KEPT UNDER WRATHS

While Greek women have progressed to receiving equal pay in public service, they are mainly confined to the lowest positions. Banks, which started employing women clerks several years ago, now employ them only as typists.

Even Greek girls returning home after a long spell abroad suffer the restrictions of family law.

Princess Helen Kallikratis, secretary in New York, is no exception. She is not permitted to marry until she is 25, and she is not permitted to marry until she is 25, and she is not permitted to marry until she is 25.

Not All Children Have Similar Needs

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You said in a column not long ago that some children like to snuggle during sex. They will be noticed. I wish you would explain this to me because I have three children and one of them is driving me nuts.

The middle boy is 13 years old. He is so slow about everything that I lose all patience with him. The teachers say he is smart in his studies and his grades are good, but he is slow to other kids' games now — pushes them down and gets into fights all the time. I have tried spanking, punishment, no TV, no dessert. Nothing helps. Everytime I talk to him I have to tell him that I should say I am LAMING him. I have tried telling him that I should say I am LAMING him. I have tried telling him that I should say I am LAMING him. I have tried telling him that I should say I am LAMING him.

DEAR TROUBLED: Dear child should be treated as an individual. It's not this child more loving and I hope you'll see that he gets it.

The middle child is a difficult one. Most parents with the older one who gets special privileges, and the younger one who is forever making the baby. The middle child is indeed "in the middle" — in more ways than one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 13. We are considered pretty well off financially.

Several months ago my cousin gave me a bike. It originally belonged to her mother. The bike is at least 20 years old.

The group I go with all have bikes — the latest model. When I showed up with this antiquated toy bike up. The front tire was flat and the handlebars and the rear tire makes a wheezing sound like a person with asthma. The bike doesn't hold and nobody else fits it because nobody has ever seen one like it.

When I asked Mom for a new bike she said this one is good for you. I wish you'd tell her how embarrassing it is for a girl to have to ride a piece of junk when everybody else has nice new bikes. — VERY ANGRY.

DEAR VY: Ask your mom how you can own the money to pay for half the bike. If you own half, I think your mom should give you the whole half. And this is the solution I am recommending.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a man 30 years old who has been keeping steady company with a girl 22.

I want to settle down and I have been thinking about asking Margaret to be my wife.

Last night we had a long talk. I asked Margaret some questions about her life and I was very disappointed with her. She has conducted herself these past two years.

Margaret had an affair with a 27-year-old man who is married and the father of three children. I was so shocked I couldn't sleep.

I come from a strict family and my religion means a great deal to me. I don't know if I could ever get this other man out of my mind. I also don't know if I could trust her. She had me completely fooled. Please answer, I'm going to do as you say, MICK.

DEAR MICK: Don't marry the girl. You'd have just sealed her fate for the rest of her days.

It takes a mature, compassionate, generous person to forgive a transgression of this kind and not just because you're so deeply proud and Margaret is brave and takes a risk.

"That's in a Name"

The Collingwood "A" hockey club is the current edition of a team that for obvious reasons called themselves the "Bully Builders" for fifty years.

This year, they came up with, of all names, the "Gowanus Glaciers," presumably a spontaneous last-minute change.

It is not to be penny-panic, but the loaded by the name "Glaciers" for if their power shows to date is a criterion, this club is far from being the fragile "Dewey Dicks" and not likely to crack up. (All right, most, but go figure.)

They form the opposition to the McHawks here Friday night — and they come with an ambition, so that record, but will collect their share of the "bucks" and not likely to crack up. (All right, most, but go figure.)

Mr. Briggs thinks the "Glaciers" should be one of the major threats in the revamped senior OHA hockey league. He says the coach Jack O'Brien has the proper mixture of youth, experience and guts to defeat even these and greater.

However, in the back ground at the moment is Harry Lawless well-known for his NHL years with Detroit, Toronto, Chicago and Boston. He will be in the regular line-up behind the scenes.

As it is, they are pretty well out between the pipes with Chuck Fawcett, last season's Central Ontario Senior "A" League's all-time netminder.

And in passing it is noted that Collingwood was the original Ontario senior champions for the past two seasons.

They have plenty had plenty of experience on the first team steadily behind the benches by Gary Murphy and Gary Chalk. Murphy has several AHL years and under his belt and made an appearance or two with the Toronto Maple Leafs. He coached the Hawks club two years ago.

Collins is no stranger to senior hockey. He was with the Galt Hornets last year and previously with the Toronto Marlies last year ending service with the Quebec Aces.

Wickie Kay, Ron Taylor and Ted Henderson round out the defense corps, all with years of experience. Owen Sound has more than a passing interest in the "Glaciers," six "Glaciers" forming the first two attacking divisions of the club.

Former Cleveland Barons Dave McMahon comes to the second line with flakies Dave Pitzer and Bud Brundage. All three are former Owen Sound Green Jackets.

The second line is composed of center Arnold Smith and wing Phil Abbott and Guy Hanley. They are said to be fast and have some power.

Garry McKinnon, Fern Giga and Gary Watts make up the third line used primarily for penalty killing. All are former junior players.

The club's expert tip is a couple of forwards to bolster what looks to be a pretty strong defense on paper — had on the record.

If the McHawks can produce a few "goals" to run loose in the Collingwood "Chin" shop Friday, it should be quite a tonic. It should be, anyway.

Few would have believed that Dennis Hall would match his record-breaking brother Bobby when the two started the National Hockey League season with Chicago Black Hawks, but so far he has.

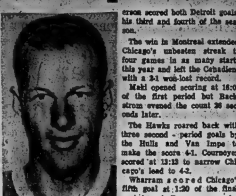

Bobby and Dennis 'each scored a goal Wednesday night as the Black Hawks defeated Montreal Canadiens 2-1 in one of two scheduled NHL games.

In the other, Eddie Shack's first goal of the season midway through the final period proved to be the winner as Toronto Maple Leafs edged Detroit Red Wings 2-1.

Bobby Hull, who set blazest records in the NHL, had scored 14 goals and 27 points, had scored four goals this season—three on power plays.

However, Dennis appears to have come into his own this year and with many goals he is only two points behind Bobby in the individual scoring parade. The other Chicago marksmen Wednesday were rookie defenseman Ed Van Impe and veteran winger Chris Mak and Ken Wharran.

For Montreal, Ralph Backstrom scored both Detroit goals, his third and fourth of the season.

EDDIE SHACK

Ron Crouched his first of the season in the opening period. Yves Cournoyer hit second in the middle frame and Bobby Bruesen hit third in the third period. In Toronto, left winger John Breennan and defenseman Keith Douglas got the other goals for the Leafs. Paul Harris scored both Detroit goals, his third and fourth of the season.

Private Bank Firm Ordered To Pay $5,001,900 Cheque

TORONTO (CP)—Société Financière Inc. is ordered Wednesday to pay $5,001,900 plus interest to Royal Securities Corp. Ltd. in an Ontario Superior Court case involving a worth less cheque that led to the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd. in June 1965.

Chief Justice G. Gale, in a 16-page written judgment, ordered a preliminary note by Atlantic for $5,001,900, paid to RSC, to be turned over to RSC.

The preliminary note is a senior secured note. Investment dealers estimate that eventual recovery of this claim of security for Atlantic Acceptance, which is in receivership, will range between 70 and 90 per cent.

The case arose when RSC paid a weekend loan of $500,000 to Atlantic Acceptance for $1,000 interest, with Royal Securities acting as the guarantor.

Royal accepted an unsecured cheque for $500,000 from Atlantic Acceptance in its Montreal office, cancelled the cheque in its office, and ordered its Montreal office to pay the note to RSC. It was later learned that Atlantic's cheque was not honored at the bank.

CAUSED FAILURE
Following Atlantic's cheque led to the collapse of the finance company. The case was heard by Chief Justice Gale. RSC's payment of $500,000 to RSC was made in the mistaken belief by the company that it had received a valid cheque from Atlantic.

It said Royal was acting as agent for RSC in the weekend loan. It must be taken that Royal Securities was given the authority to act in the weekend loan. It said it was the practice in the trade, according to testimony by RSC, to pay money market for dealers to secure unsecured cheques from corporate concerns and to deliver securities on receipt of the cheques.

RSC must have known the practice of dealers according to unsecured cheques in payment of loans and overdrafts of securities for the cheques, he said.

"Numerous Difficulties"

UK Common Market Bid Once Again Bucks France

PARIS (Reuters)—Recent soundings about a renewed British attempt to enter the six-country EFTA as a common market have produced unfavorable reactions in France.

The latest assurance of British's desire to join the European Economic Community was given by George Thompson, British deputy foreign secretary, at a press lunch in Paris Sept. 26.

Although it is a relatively new brought solemn warnings to British from at least three French sources against underestimating the difficulties ahead.

The French government seems to have felt the danger of new misunderstandings to security that within a couple of hours of Thompson's speech, French deputy foreign minister, Jean de Broglie, held a special press conference on the subject.

Mr. Broglie said his service to France's Williams. He said to all members of the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) into the common market, but urged that they make "concrete and precise" proposals if they appeared to be more of a warning than a threat.

He declared: "France emphasizes that serious difficulties remain because of Britain's position as an importer of agricultural produce, because of her balance-of-payments problem, because of the importance of her short-term debt, and because the pound is an international reserve currency."

At the time of the collapse in June, 1965, the first United States purchase of Atlantic's notes and preferred shares were U.S. $100,000. The purchase was by the trustees of Princeton University, the J. Walter Thompson Trust, the president and trustees of Colby College and the Goodwill Home association.

German Commandant Responsible for Executions Says Witness

HAMILTON (CP) — Frank Trzaski of Hamilton, a former German naval officer, said Thursday he witnessed the May 1945, most martial of the two German naval ratings who were taken to the second World War. Trzaski, a sailor, said he saw the 15- to 18-year-old martial of the two German naval ratings, Deck 15, and Bruno Dreyer, 18, at Camp Sanderson, a prisoner-of-war camp 10 miles from Vancouver.

Trzaski said he did not see the execution, but the day after the execution, in a letter to his Canadian army truck with a selected group of men in it, down to the two men, their hands bound behind their backs, were placed in the truck and driven away.

The trial and execution of the two German sailors was reported in the Sept. 13 issue of the West German newspaper, the West German news magazine, the Spiegel. The magazine later could not find a judge who conducted the trial was ordered by Canadian Army officers.

Dietrich Martin Hoyer, told the Ochsford Oct. 11 that he was called there was no reason to the magazine's allegations that the trial was conducted in a private by Canadian officers. He said the military court did not have power to execute.

Mr. Trzaski said the court martial was held under the command of the camp. He said Canadian authorities should not be held responsible for the German commandant's action.

Mr. Trzaski said he decided to tell about the court martial because "the stories that are coming out are being twisted as to what did happen."

He said Beck, and Dreyer, found themselves over to the Dutch police on Oct. 30. They were transported to Sanderson. The next day after the war was over.

Top Farmers to Operate One Club for Whole County

Hastings county Junior Farmers will combine their various clubs and activities and will co-operate in form one county club.

This was the decision of the county executive which met at a meeting this week to review operations and programs and consider a survey which showed most members felt one county club was necessary.

Accordingly the county executive will operate the program for the whole county for the balance of the current Junior Farmers year.

At the time of the annual election the time decision will be made on the formation of a whole club to represent the county by pooling their individual strength, the county executive felt they can come up with a profitable program to attract new members.

It is that a farm must be a regular club practice for the Junior Farmers group every Friday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in Balfour United Church. More members are needed to balance the club. Then on Friday, November 12, the Hastings County Junior Farmers will hold their annual general assembly in the Legion Hall, Belleville. Tickets and details are available through members and executive officers.

In a continued meeting, the Junior Farmers Association of Ontario has been asked to open their county club for one week of more period this time.

Bar regulations are the same, but it is that a farm must be a regular club and in active operation, owned by direct descendant of the family for at least a hundred or more years as a condition of membership.

It is a collective action which must be taken by the county. As other speakers had said, Mr. McQuay said that the club must be a regular club and in active operation, owned by direct descendant of the family for at least a hundred or more years as a condition of membership.

There was something in all people which needed to be criticized in the public office, but it was only after a person got to know the public office that he could really appreciate what public service is all about.

It is hard and demanding work, and before we criticize the public office we should take a look at ourselves. To coincide the evening, Mrs. and Mr. Hall were presented with numerous gifts from county council members. There was a large and by members of the family.

County Officials and Guests Honor Warden at Banquet, Special Gifts Are Presented

More than 300 county officials, who were and invited guests, attended last night's annual Hastings county warden's banquet.

The banquet was held at the Club Ontario in Belleville. Guest speaker for the evening was Leonard McGraw, Hastings district farmer, formerly with the Ontario Department of Agriculture Extension Branch.

Invited guests included district M.P.s and Federal riding members. Also guests were County Judges J. C. Anderson and Supreme Court Justice Mr. Justice J. P. Bouché.

Warden Hall in welcoming his guests referred to his role as county council head and stated service is municipal and county council work of the greatest schools.

"I am county council you learn to live and work with other people," he said.

At the same time he admitted that today the job of a county warden was a full time job.

Since he took office last Friday night, Warden Hall said he had been invited to attend no less than 20 different functions or meetings. Out of that number he had attended 27.

"And I still have two and a half months to go," he said.

Warden Hall said that he was not a rich person, but he was certain he would be able to meet any requirements as far as the trend toward regional government.

Guests introduced County Clerk-Treasurer, who acted as banquet chairman and introduced speaker.

At present the program is expected to cost about $225 million a year. The supplementary benefits are not expected substantially to shift this figure.

The legislation is expected to go before the Commons after the Christmas recess and will be approved by Parliament, more operative by the new year.

Old Gals Keep Young In Hockey

CHIPPewa, Ont. (CP)—When Jean Walker played hockey she didn't need leg padding. She just ducked a hit, and her long skirt kept the puck from brushing on.

Miss Walker played goal for St. Edna's College, University of Toronto, in 1960 and 1961. She says if hockey playing was mandatory, she'd not care and her team - mates care.

"I don't know that we were as tightly padded. I don't think we were as very different from girls today. After all, we were teen-agers. I was 19 when I graduated in 1965."

Miss Walker will be one of the guests at a luncheon Saturday to mark the 50th anniversary of the University of Toronto Women's Athletic League. About 100 past and present members will be there, including Mrs. M. A.

Burwash, Toronto, who was the league's first president in 1908.

Miss Walker, who believes she is the only member of her team still alive, saw a Canadian Press story about the luncheon in the Hamilton Spectator.

She wrote CP to say she remembers playing hockey against Mrs. Burwash.

"She was a terrific player. We were scared to death at her."

- 1) 5 year 50,000 miles on the power train, steering, suspension and wheels.
- 2) 2 year 24,000 miles on the entire car.
- 3) Only one dealer certification per year.

Used Car Factory-Backed Warranty

2 year or 50,000 miles available on 1964, 1965 and 1966 models!

New Car "3-Point Warranty Plan" Used Car Factory-Backed Warranty

5/50,000 Power Train, Steering, Suspension and Wheels

Our 5 year or 50,000 mile warranty on the power train, steering gear and linkage, front and rear suspension, and road wheels, of our 1967 cars provides free repair, including labor, of parts in those systems with a defect in workmanship or material found in normal service.

2/24,000 Entire car

Our 2 year or 24,000 mile warranty on the entire car provides repair and related labor by authorized dealerships, at no charge, of any part with a defect in workmanship or material ... if found in normal service (except tires which continue to be warranted by the tire companies).

Only one dealer certification per year

And only Ford of Canada gives you a whole year (instead of six months) between required dealer certification ... no matter how many miles you drive. The Ford Motor Company's "3 Point Warranty Plan" is the most convenient a new car buyer can get. It also adds a new standard of value during the time you own the car, and also when you sell or trade, because it can be passed along to the subsequent owner.

2/50,000 on 1964, 1965 and 1966 models

Ford of Canada takes the doubt out of buying a used car. This unique warranty applies to any new 1966 model or used 1966, 1965 or 1964 Ford of Canada car eligible and certified by a participating dealer. The power train is covered for 50,000 miles total operation or 2 years of your ownership — whichever comes first. Over all, this new power train warranty could give protection for up to five years from the date your car was made.

If you now own one of our cars, no more than three years old and driven less than 50,000 miles, this warranty is available to you, too, provided the car is certified by a Ford of Canada dealer and registered at a cost of $35.00. After certification, you'll never have to pay more than $55.00 for any single power train repair that's covered. Ask your Ford or Mercury dealer for full details.

Great news for light truck owners!

Every Ford of Canada light truck, through series 350, is now covered by a 5 year/50,000 mile power train warranty in addition to the 2 year/24,000 mile warranty on the entire vehicle. See your local Ford or Mercury dealer for full details.

*Never before have car owners had a better package of investment protection...

Collective Problem

It is the story of our collective lives these days... the cost-of-living, that is, and higher taxes.

The report from Ottawa put it bluntly: "Canadians face higher taxes to pay for more than $500 million in increased federal contributions to education, social services, health care, and the proposed program of a guaranteed $105-a-month income to the aged."

From Prime Minister Pearson the message was the same, even if he sounded apologetic about it.

"I feel bound to point out," said Mr. Pearson, "that the cost of higher education must be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in one way or another — including the replacement of the old income tax system."

Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp had already said as much when he spoke at a press conference on Wednesday.

While it must be acknowledged that this trend toward more Canadian spending and taxation is the price Canadians must pay for the program, it is also the product of past extravagance on the part of that same government.

The Intelligence Ottawa correspondent, Gerald McNamee, in his column on this page today, Unnecessary waste and extravagance by successive Ottawa administrations have squandered the country's resources and contributed to the inflationary spiral we are facing today.

Drugs and Medicine

The question of including drugs in the province's health plan is being discussed by Ontario Health Minister Matthew Dwyer in Belleville the other day.

Queried on this point, Dr. Dwyer said the "only workable program I can envisage" might have to be applied through retail pharmacists, as was the case in the United States.

Pharmacists that drug benefits "have been the ruin of any plan that has tried it yet."

He wavered when he was asked to put in mind the statistics that show that in many countries where drug benefits have been the ruin of any plan that has tried it yet.

He wavered when he was asked to put in mind the statistics that show that in many countries where drug benefits have been the ruin of any plan that has tried it yet.

Dr. Dwyer was uncertain when pharmacy would "get in on the picture," as one area practitioner put it, but he inferred it was simply a matter of time. First, though, the government would have "long and searching" discussions with pharmaceutical groups.

His reference to the probable inclusion of drugs in the medical plan, sooner or later, is significant. As matters stand, the cost of drugs to anyone requiring them is astronomical — very high. If they were made available under the government plan, or ultimately, through Medicare, this would represent a great relief to people who, through no fault of their own, must take these medicines for reasons of health.

Anglo-French Contacts

They may not have signed on the dotted line, and as yet there is no channel tunnel, but citizens of Britain and of France are indulging in a little common marketing of their own flesh.

One Englishman we read about has started taking in French laundries. He is hoping to make a fortune out of it. He is a Frenchman, and as yet there is no channel tunnel, but citizens of Britain and of France are indulging in a little common marketing of their own flesh.

They are certainly winning the smiles of managers of supermarkets in towns on the south coast of England," says the Montreal correspondent. "The managers report French women are coming across the English Channel on the ferry boats to do the shopping. The prices are lower than in Normandy towns."

Now there is an interesting situation. It is like the traffic across the border between Canada and the United States. The women of both countries seek bargains in each other's stores. But English and French are so different in their way of life, and their cultural background, that the shopping spree of the Frenchwomen in England likely provides them with much more than bargains. They are enjoying the two basically similar societies on this continent.

Ottawa Offbeat 31% Tax Cents in Every $

Now Ottawa Needs More
 From the Intelligence Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Happen to be in Ottawa today? Then please don't forget to take the other day at Montreal!

To wit: Canadian taxpayers "on duty," as it were, in Ottawa today, are paying 31% tax on every $100 they spend. That's not a bad thing, but it's not a good thing either. It's not a bad thing because it's a fair tax. It's not a good thing because it's a high tax.

But let's not forget to take the other day at Montreal! To wit: Canadian taxpayers "on duty," as it were, in Ottawa today, are paying 31% tax on every $100 they spend. That's not a bad thing, but it's not a good thing either. It's not a bad thing because it's a fair tax. It's not a good thing because it's a high tax.

It also means, on the basis of that cost on the income side, that out of the working year you're laboring for, you're getting back only 69% of it. That's not a bad thing, but it's not a good thing either. It's not a bad thing because it's a fair tax. It's not a good thing because it's a high tax.

It's still there, described by Commonsense Committee members as "a tax on the tax." It's still there, described by Commonsense Committee members as "a tax on the tax." It's still there, described by Commonsense Committee members as "a tax on the tax."

RC: Anglican Priests Officiate at Wedding

STAYTOWN, Ont. (CP)—Romanian look another step forward here Saturday when a Roman Catholic and an Anglican were married in a church with Roman Catholic and Anglican priests officiating.

Rev. J. L. O'Rourke, of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church and Rev. Frank Tomkinson, of St. Stephen's Anglican Church officiated in the wedding of Mr. Tomkinson's daughter, Patricia Elaine MacIsaac, 22, and Edward Gary Smith, 22, of New Hamburg, Ont.

It was the first time that priests of the two churches have participated jointly in a wedding ceremony here.

"I don't know if it was the first in history but I'm sure it's the first in this area," Mr. Tomkinson said.

Father O'Rourke conducted the marriage service at St. Joseph's Church. He took the actual marriage vows. Mr. Tomkinson took the epistle and conducted prayers.

Mr. Tomkinson said the ceremony was made possible by decisions of the Vatican Council last year, which declared that a non-Roman Catholic clergyman could assist with a mixed marriage in a Roman Catholic Church.

The ceremony compared almost identically with a report of a wedding in Ireland, New Orleans on Saturday. A news service said it was a historic event. The report said the ceremony in New Orleans was "probably the first time such a joint ceremony has been conducted anywhere in the world."

Ann Landers

Nightie Sporting Mate Is Far From Normal

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read in a household hints column recently that a wife bought herself men's pajamas because she discovered they were much more comfortable than her own.

This little line gave me the courage to write to you about something that has been bothering me for a long time. My husband likes to sleep in his nightgowns. Before you get any wrong notions I want to make it perfectly clear he is normal in every way. We have two children and get along fine together. There is nothing funny about this guy. His just likes the idea of a silky fabric and the looseness of a nightie. I bought him a man's nightgown for his birthday last April but he didn't like it and went right back to my nighties.

When I suggested to a few women friends that they ask their husbands to try these nightgowns for comfort they looked at me as if I had gone stark, raving mad.

Please tell me why it's all right for a woman to sleep in her husband's pajamas but if a man sleeps in his wife's nightgown he is considered some kind of a nut — SAUCE FOR THE GANDER.

DEAR SAUCE: If your husband wants to sleep in army socks it's his business. From the point, however, a wife should not look around a description of her husband's sleeping apparel.

A man who wears his wife's nightie to his own pajamas is plenty odd in spite of your insistence he is perfectly normal. Consider yourself fortunate that his oddities stop there.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Rick (aka name) and I have been married five years. We have a son three years old. Don't tell me that women are having trouble because we were married too young. I realize that, but it's too late to do anything about it now. I was 18 and Rick was 19. His folks tried to persuade us to wait, but we were smarter than everybody.

Money is not a problem any more. Rick has a good job and he gets a lot of overtime because he's making more than most men. I guess I should consider myself lucky. Since married men don't want to go home, but they don't want to work either, I don't have to do anything about it. Rick is always picking on me about something. Either I'm too heavy, or he's afraid I don't look right or I'm making him think I'm pregnant because I can't discuss current events with him. Current events are depressing these days and I have so many problems of my own that I don't want to read about anybody else's.

Can this marriage be saved or am I going to be just another divorcee at age 31? — S.W.W.

DEAR S.W.W.: Rick who got married too young, so you did what the doctor always said: that there's more to making a life together than teen-age kids. Now that you know marriage is not an glorious dream, but rather the difficult business of living with another person, you'd better grow up and accept your role as a wife.

Now, something must be very odd. The YMCA has a superb counselling program. Get going — and good luck. You'll need it.

Susanna's Family Fair

WATER TIGHT EARS

Dear Susanna: A tale told of "wax" that is, both ears before shampooing has. A tremendous help in keeping out unwanted water. — Mrs. L. E. Schenckel

STAR GENTLY

Dear Susanna: I am only 13 but I read your column every day. This helps me at home and in school.

We are Europeans and our ways of cooking are different, but I find no matter what kind of cake you make, it turns out fluffier and lighter if, after adding the flour, you only stir it gently with a spoon.

Gently does it, my young friend, every time. — and thank you. — SUSANNA

Fans Love Girl Soccer Referees

BUFAPIST (CP) — People generally agree that soccer, just like football and hockey, is a man's sport. But in Hungary today two pretty females are an important and successful part of it.

They are the country's only women referees. To the surprise of many observers they are loved by fans and players alike.

"We can't ask for more important decisions from a man," a player said recently of Anna B. Bón, who referees in the Budapest county area, about 50 miles east of here.

Women referees have improved the men's soccer world in recent years in West Germany, Holland, and a few months ago the Dutch Soccer Association decided to teach its young women the finer points of the game to cope with a referee shortage in that country.

"Anna is a good referee and she's capable of handling even any problems," writes a friend, says Tibor Kodai, secretary of Hungary's county league system.

Since there are only two of them in the country, a woman dressed in a referee's uniform drawn and armed with a whistle is still something of an unusual sight to Hungarian spectators, who take their game rather seriously.

"I've haven't had too many complaints about her," Kodai said. "In fact, the demand for Anna has been so great that we're thinking of obtaining another woman for our circuit."

New Mother Hates All Her In-Laws

DEAR GORM: My new daughter-in-law didn't show her bad teeth too much before she was married but now she hates all her in-laws, and even her own mother and father. She goes into hysterics. Yesterday she walked out of my house and said she would never come back. I think she would be the worst new mother I have ever known. But she hates everyone. I think this girl has a mental disturbance. What can a person do to keep the family together? — A TORNALD GRAYED MOTHER.

DEAR GRANDMOTHER: Is this really true? Or are her parents about as bad as you are? DOGS CLARE If husbands are habitual with her, that's one thing. But if your D.I.L. is refusing an emotional upset following your money or related, to stand with her husband, she needs professional help.

Your role? To stand firm as a rock. Love the little fellow, be forgiving and helpful to his mother when and if she will. But you, and urge your son to see a marriage counselor.

DEAR DORIS:

1. Do I have to send a personal invitation to my bride and groom?
2. Is it only proper to send an invitation to the bride and groom if they are not well known to bride or groom?
3. When is the proper time to give the bride and groom their gift?
4. Does the bride have anything to say about the type of gown her bride and groom are to wear if it's not budget?
5. If the two mothers disagree with each other as to type of wear at the wedding, who makes the choice? — SANDRA.

DEAR SANDRA:

1. Yes.
2. Any guest must receive an invitation. There is no obligation to include parents of attendance, unless you would like to.
3. At a social get-together, or privately, just before the wedding.
4. Yes, a great deal. This is all done in consultation, and bride and groom expect to pay for their gown.
5. Time of day, formality of occasion, determine type of dress. Presumably the hostess, who is the bride's mother, decides these things in consultation with the bride.

DEAR DORIS: Poor "Bridezilla" (who "just can't understand" her girl friends' continued indifference). They're supposed to be the bride's friends. That girl friend, the student nurse of his, should get rid of him but still she will show 2. In her own mind, feeling the way to go. — MISS J.C.

DEAR MISS J.C.: Perhaps your comment will help him to see that he would be better off to decide whether he means to hold out on some important unknown.

To AUGHTON TO WRITE: Watch for the little innocent thing, see the funny side of this little character's stupidity with others. Let's suddenly down her head later. Take special note of the style of journalism and authors you enjoy.

Many vocational articles and universities give attention courses in writing. We need more advice by Canadians with ideas and you can start to learn to write by actually putting words down on paper.

Free Trade Only Possible If Independence Assured: PM

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's recently completed a free trade with the United States and the Caribbean countries unless it is assured it would not be in political independence, Prime Minister Pearson said Sunday night.

He also said the country, though in an independent world, would strengthen the chains of the hand, heart and spirit to retain its identity as a nation.

Addressing the Quebec wing of the Liberal Party of Canada, Mr. Pearson repeated the opposition parties in Parliament, the Conservatives for heads of political offices and the New Democratic for labor.

politics policies that would back the country.

Mr. Pearson did not specify what the address would give to reporters in advance of delivery of the speech.

The Liberal party, he said, has always advocated realistic freedom of trade, but all barriers cannot be removed overnight.

NEEDED LAWFULNESS

"Canada could not seriously consider a free trade with the United States and the Caribbean countries unless the Canadian economy were strong enough and Canadian citizenship of some," he reflected the desire to have a national prosperity complete enough to identify.

French PCs Get Agenda — In English

QUEBEC (CP)—Paul Tremblay, president of the Quebec Progressive Conservative Association, said during the weekend that Quebec Conservatives are "happy and impatient" at the agenda prepared for their party's annual meeting in Ottawa.

They will name that the agenda be scrapped at the start of the meeting and replaced by one allowing more time for general discussion.

He says the agenda's emphasis on separate monthly meetings, at which delegates could be handled more easily than in general assembly" as an attempt to restrict free speech.

"They want to prevent delegates from expressing themselves and I assure those who drop out of the agenda of you."

He also complained that he had received the agenda for the meeting, scheduled for Nov. 13-15, only last Saturday and that when it did come it was in English only.

Claims Evidence Suppressed in Assassination

NEW YORK (AP)—Bishop (Anglican) Bishop James A. Pike and Edward M. Keating, publisher of Ramparts Magazine, said Saturday they are forming a committee to ask President Johnson to release "suppressed evidence" bearing on President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

Bishop Pike discussed the committee with reports on his arrival from the Wheeling, W. Va., meeting of the Episcopal House of Bishops, which accepted a committee recommendation that Bishop Pike charges against him not be started but confined him for "irresponsibility" in some statements expressed in the past.

Pike said he has come to the conclusion that Kennedy was the victim of a conspiracy and not a lone assassin. The bishop said his thinking on the subject had been shaped by a year.

Keating charged that about 60 per cent of the information from the Central Intelligence Agency on Nov. 22, 1963, assassination of John F. Kennedy was withheld from the FBI's evidence was withheld.

The Warren Commission, in the forward to its report, said it got full co-operation from all agencies, including the CIA and FBI.

The commission found no evidence, it said, that anyone assisted the accused Lee Harvey Oswald in planning or carrying out the assassination. It said that neither Oswald nor Jack Ruby, convicted of killing Oswald, was part of any conspiracy, domestic or foreign.

Civil Service "Crisis"

Tea Brew or Not Tea Brew Becomes UK Government Problem

LONDON (AP) — A new school day is brewing behind the latest fracas of a government office in Whitehall Gardens that could have serious repercussions throughout the British civil service.

The diplomats are the management and the staff. Both like tea, but it's all a matter of timing.

Red Tape, the journal of the Civil Service Clerical Association, brought the struggle to light in an issue out Sunday. Things became hot when the management went as far as to suggest bringing in those unwieldy tea-venting machines, and lined up support from Her Majesty's treasury.

The trouble started weeks back in the ministry of agriculture, fisheries and food. The tried and true system of serving tea to the staff of 300 by a trolley service—push cart trays—broke down.

The club was organized overnight, and electric kettles appeared from every available point," Red Tape said. Large jugs of steaming hot tea were available twice a day, at a reasonable price, and what's more, generally brewed by civil servants for civil servants.

"Everyone was happy and the department's efficiency was well maintained," said the journal. "But eventually the authorities were not so happy. The improved arrangements were untidy.

Some hallowed rules were bent, it is not actually broken." After high-level discussions the proposal was cautiously put forward by officials that tea-venting machines be installed and the management can have tea from vending machines if it wants to.

Leaders of the union representing the staff protested. A compromise was reached and while negotiations continue the "tea club" can keep operating and the management can have tea from vending machines if it wants to.

REPORT

By Geo. H. Carver

As the Leafs' first game of the season, and already the season longed for an beginning, was judgment.

It is hardly fair to be critical on a team that has never won a game in a month of a season.

The valuable play-off and the winning goal would remember that the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season.

"A hockey is not what most of the fans expect to see in the days of the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season."

And that goes for clubs who have played together for a number of years. In the Leafs' case it was a matter of getting players from various parts of the district, some of whom had never before in other clubs.

General manager Bob Dumas and playing coach Fred Crawford had to use a few fresh faces players, and in all fairness they have tried to get the best available.

Branch-by-branch transfers, releases and other moves had to be made in the days of the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season.

However, it looks from here like the club, after it gets some of the off-season of the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season.

The Leafs' season is a rivalry here tomorrow night that should bring out the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season.

In the days when the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season.

It is not the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season.

I recall after a week of the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season.

After informing my first reader, "I think I've read the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season, and the Leafs' staff and management of the club had only broken camp in the previous season."

Leafs Tie Habs Bank Bares; Wings Bump Bruins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings swept their 43 opening night loss to Boston Bruins by sweeping the Bruins 6-1 in the only scheduled National Hockey League game Sunday night.

The Red Wings opened the season as early as they could and buried them with three goals in the second period and two in the third. They lost their first four games.

In Saturday's NHL action in Montreal, Claude Provance scored two goals for the Canadiens as they defeated the Bruins 4-1.

In Toronto Saturday, 24-year-old rookie forward Wayne Gretzky scored in the third period to lead the Bruins to a 3-2 victory over the Red Wings.

The victory moved Detroit into the tie for third place with the Maple Leafs while Boston led the race with New York.

The Bruins had a better night than they did in a 3-1 Toronto loss.

The game was wide open in the first two periods but both teams tightened up in the third.

The Leafs opened the Bruins 3-1 but Boston made the game more competitive in the second period.

British Papers' Ire Aroused by Warning Comment on Aberfan May Be in Contempt

By CARL MULLINS

LONDON (AP)—The British press in its first major editorial campaign, Mr. Elyon Jones, the what the newspapers view as a "threat" to their editorial freedom.

Sunday newspapers' (Kendall) comment that ranged from warnings to defiance of a two-sentence by Jones that even, rather than being a threat, is a threat to the integrity of the press.

The Sunday Mirror, a member of Cecil Harcourt-Smith's "great international" publishing group, published a full-page editorial warning that politicians can be damned for bullshitting.

The Associated Press News of the World around Jones of changes in behavior and the Sunday Telegraph proclaimed that "this newspaper will not be shocked by any such threat as that made by the attorney general."

SAYS NOT PRESIDENT
Lord Taverne, Sunday Times said Jones' observations were justified in law, but in fact, "justified in principle."

The newspaper called for a change in the law so that "the sense of contempt of judicial inquiries should be much more heinous" than for regular court-room misconduct.

The circumstances of the Aberfan tragedy also, it is believed, that killed at least 25 persons, mostly school children, in the Welsh mining village.

"It is highly undesirable that any comments should be made either in the press or on the radio on an incident on matters which it will be the express function of the tribunal to investigate," Jones said.

The tribunal may refer to the High Court any case of contempt considered to be interference with the tribunal's work and, therefore, contemptuous of Jones said.

The Observer, like The Sun, the Times, and Jones correctly defined the law of contempt. However, the National Union of Journalists and the Press Council, self-appointed watchdog over the ethics of British newspapers, have described Jones' statement as an "unsubstantiated threat to press freedom."

The published post-mortem on the Aberfan disaster have included reports of past warnings about the danger of the coal heap and rumor that the site was seen to be moving by two village children gathered in the school that was crushed in the slide.

The Observer, like The Sun, the Times, and Jones correctly defined the law of contempt. However, the National Union of Journalists and the Press Council, self-appointed watchdog over the ethics of British newspapers, have described Jones' statement as an "unsubstantiated threat to press freedom."

Wilson Thinks Russia Ready To Cut Forces

By ARTHUR L. GAYSON

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson said Saturday he believes Soviet Russia may be ready to join the West in a balanced reduction of forces in middle Europe.

The British leader has had two meetings with Premier Alexei Kosygin in Moscow this year in which he pressed the proposition for East-West treaty.

A reporter asked Wilson if he thinks East-West tensions have eased to the point where content of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Alliance can safely negotiate force reductions in central Europe.

"This is a matter for international study, Wilson replied.

"In my two visits to the Soviet Union, this is a proposition I have pressed very strongly on Mr. Kosygin and, without discussing the results of confidential discussions, I feel there could well be a readiness on the other side to respond to initiative here."

CUT CARBONS IF SAFE
British, the United States and West Germany are responding NATO force needs in Europe. Both the British and Americans would like to cut their carbons in Germany if they conclude this can safely be done.

Wilson made these points in an interview: "The G-7's governments 1964 decision rejecting currency valuation as a condition for Britain's economic recovery was right . . . and I have never regretted it."

—Recent talk of a more or less a plot by industrial or domestic.

party colleagues to quit him as prime minister in July was a "fiction of overheated and underemployed journalistic imagination."

Some opposition Conservatives and financial supporters had talked recently during the summer economic crisis of forming a coalition government, but this "was rightly treated with contempt."

"His government is confident that its 'unconventional, tough, unpopular' measures for a 'crisis of confidence' in the pound will succeed without creating conditions for a lasting recession."

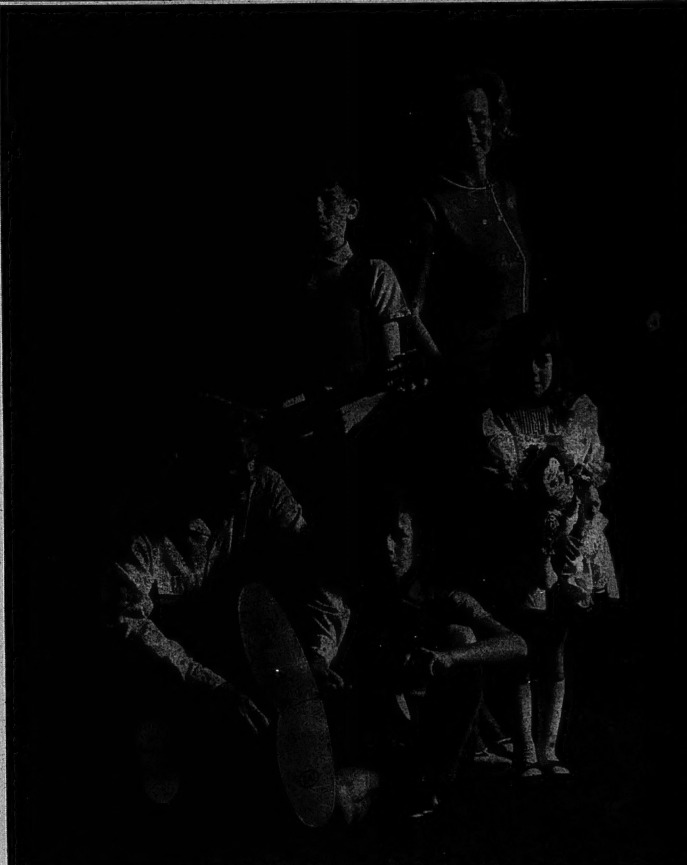

"The world is approaching the time for a radical advance towards improved new monetary and credit arrangements, needed to 'lubricate the channels of trade.'"

"Peace in Viet Nam still depends on Israel."

"Better chances exist today for a world agreement against the spread of nuclear weapons. Such a treaty would in no way clash with the British government's commitment to 'internationalizing' its own nuclear armory."

BLECKED FOR THIS STATE
ATHENS (AP)—The Greek government ordered all privately-owned bank banks to close down in an attempt to break the red-black market.

Officials said people with a red blood are selling it to the private banks and state services still in future supplies all blood collection and accept only free of a plot by industrial or domestic.
